Final Assemblies Held — Lehigh and Parrish junior high schools yesterday held the final assemblies of the year. At Parrish, honor letters, merit awards, and attendance certificates were presented. Promotion certificates were given to the graduating students and baseball letters to 11 boys. New student body officers were installed at Lehigh, as follows: Edward McWain, president; Dean Ellis, vice president; Audrey Shay, secretary; Warren, Bartlett, treasurer; John Kitchie, sergeant-at-arms; Jean Doeg, song leader, and Bill Phillips, yell leader.

Closing Accounts — If reports made at yesterday's meeting of the Retail Credit association by representatives of 25 or 30 local firms are indicative, Salem merchants are beginning to watch "border-line" accounts more closely than ever. The credit members each week discuss names of customers whose paying habits are slow or worse, and yesterday of the total discussed, nearly a fourth of the accounts were reported closed. Never before has such a large percentage of the accounts considered been so reported.

Want District Revamped — The state reclamation commission yesterday had under consideration the request of water users of the Grants Pass irrigation district for a new economic survey preliminary to a financial reorganization. The request was made of the board by a delegation from Grants Pass. The delegation asserted that assessment for maintenance of the district and the bond and interest payments were excessive and beyond the ability of water users to pay under present conditions.

Talk 'Builders Day' — Representatives of the Contractors' association and the Building Association will confer tonight relative to observing a "Builders' day," according to Frank P. Marshall, business agent for the council. Tentative plans call for displays to be mounted on trucks. The exhibits would show the difference in cost of building materials in 1928 and today. If plans are approved, a date for the "day" will be set for late this month.

Through City — C. J. Gillette, editor of the Coos Bay Times at Marshfield, was in Salem yesterday on a short visit while on his way to Portland where he transacted business. The banking situation in Coos county is much improved by recent mergers, Gillette declared. Tax payments in the county have been retarded greatly by adverse conditions in the lumber industry.

Case Set for June 8 — The case of J. Barnes, accused of reckless driving, was set for June 8 yesterday in justice court. He pleaded not guilty. The complaint against Barnes was signed by Mrs. V. M. DeCoster, independent woman, who declared that Barnes ran her down while driving his car. The accident occurred last week.

Under the Dome...

ONE would certainly have to look on the calendar to ascertain that it was June — you couldn't tell it by the weather. It might just as well be today, January or March as far as judging the time of year from the outside atmosphere. Guess we'll keep stoking the old furnace for a time yet.

It looked for a while yesterday like somebody was taking the capitol by storm, with groups camped outside the building to lobby for something or other. On closer examination however it was revealed that the pitched tents on Wilson park were for the big flower show which opens here Saturday.

Oregon will be on the air next Monday evening. The state will be featured over the national broadcasting network on the General Motors program between 5:30 and 6 o'clock. Oregon songs, skits depicting early Oregon life and bits of Oregon history will be included in the radio program. Listen in.

The information for this program was supplied several months ago, mostly by Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state. The General Motors each week has featured some state and advance notices were received late yesterday stating that Monday night will be Oregon night. This shouldn't hurt the state any.

Well, some more board of control sessions were held yesterday, and this time the officials passed a new low maximum for meals for state officers and employees when they are in town. Well, that's one way to keep the capitol at Salem — folks won't be able to travel any more without loss, so will stay at home.

The day's maximum now for food and hotel is set at $3.65. But the total sum can't be distributed over the entire day, according to Rufus Holman who presented the resolution. The maximum on each item is as follows: breakfast 40 cents, lunch 50 cents and dinner 75 cents, while hotel rooms are $2.00.

Holman presented the resolution and discussed it at length while the governor was at his desk adjoining talking over long distance. Holman asked the executive if he was for it, and received his reply as follows: "I'm in favor of it, whatever it is." The resolution, carried without the vote of Hal Hoss, who was present.

Hoss did not protest the day's maximum but did protest item maximums. He attempted to regulate a man's diet. For instance, he related, if a man ate a big breakfast, just a bowl of soup for lunch and a light dinner, he would lose because his biggest expense was on the smallest allowance. But Holman didn't waver.

And so that matter was settled. The board then proceeded to approve the expense items of W. W. Ridehalgh, who has been on a secret trip over the state. The governor said he knew what he was doing. Holman said he had a general idea, while Hoss wished to know before the bills were passed. But Hoss did not learn.

But the governor declared Ridehalgh's mission could not be divulged or its effectiveness would be destroyed. The maneuverings of the transportation supervisor would result in a saving to the state, it was announced. Well, as Ridehalgh has been termed the capitol sleuth, it is pretty well understood what he has been doing.

regarding tax matters, the governor returned to Portland. He has spent a busy two days here, as have the other board members. Some of some kind have been almost continuous.

The state salary reduction committee will start on its work Monday. The governor called a meeting of the group for Salem the first of next week, at which time Henry Hansen and William Einzig will have a complete list of state employees and their salaries ready for their consideration. Their scissors probably will be sharp.

And the contemplations of the committee and what they may do with salaries has naturally caused a lot of discussion around the capitol buildings. But generally it is considered advisable to standardize and adjust salaries, workers and officials alike feeling that the state must keep up with methods in private business.

Examinations at Willamette Will Start on Monday

The last day of regular school work this semester at Willamette university will come today and final examinations will begin Monday. Examinations will continue throughout all of next week until Saturday. Reports will be mailed to the students at home following the close of school. Commencement exercises will be held Monday, June 13 at the First Methodist church.

Each Graduate Afforded Only Three Tickets

Tickets for Salem high school commencement exercises will be distributed to the students this morning. Each senior will receive three. Miss Mabel P. Robertson, dean of girls, yesterday reiterated a previous statement to the effect that the announcements sent out by the seniors do not constitute reservation of seats for the exercises.

The commencement program will begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Elsinore theatre.

MAKE FINAL PLANS FOR FLOWER SHOW

Tents Will be Placed Soon in Willson Park; Event To Start Saturday

Tents to house the displays of the Third Willamette Valley flower show were placed Wednesday in Willson park and work was begun on the arrangement of the out-door displays and the setting for the show which from all indications will be the largest and most interesting yet to be sponsored in Salem.

Special music will be a part of the plans for the show. Saturday night the Salem high school band will play. This band has already proved its merit on various programs given this spring, and again Sunday night a band concert will be given from 7:30 o'clock to 9 o'clock by the Silverton high school band, prize winner at the recent Corvallis contest for high school bands of the state.

Garden clubs from all over the valley are signifying intentions of appearing on display at this show which will open its doors Saturday morning. An interesting exhibit will be sent from Portland, according to Mrs. J. M. Fowler, president of that club, and Salem Heights is planning a special exhibit. Independence, Monmouth, and many of the nearby communities will be in attendance with representative exhibits.

Twenty growers of flowers and allied businesses have spoken for space, among them being Baner Aquatic gardens with an impressive display of water lilies; Cooley gardens of Silverton with an assortment of Japanese iris; A. Doubrava, grower of chrysanthemums; Mrs. Sheridan; Frank Doerfler, of Macleay.

The exhibit of water lilies will be especially pretty as the large bowl of the Waite Memorial fountain will be used for this display. A unique exhibit will be made of flower cuttings, an attractive display being planned showing the water colors of floral studies done by Mrs. L. H. Tarpley.

Flower and garden culture talks will be given by several, among whom will be Prof. Morton E. Park of Willamette university, well known botanist, and Miss Edith Schryver, president of the local club will repeat the talk on "Flower arrangement" given at the state Federation of garden clubs meeting recently in Albany.

Mrs. W. H. Smith is general chairman of the arrangements for the show, and is being assisted by a large committee.

AUTO THEFT NEWS GOES OUT QUICKLY

Speed with which information concerning crimes may be handled by police radio was tested at Salem headquarters Tuesday night by use of the short wave receiver which the local officers purchased recently and of the Portland police transmitting station.

Five minutes from the time Night Sergeant J. L. Cutler rang up the long distance operator to telephone to Portland report of a stolen car, the report was received back on the radio.

The stolen car was a sedan, Oregon license No. 194-319, registered to M. T. McCoy, 78 Bruce avenue. It was taken from 1740 Fir street.

Cooley Injured; Is Forced Into Ditch by Truck

Wills E. Cooley, advertising manager for Bishop's Clothing and Woolen mills store here, was a patient in Willamette Sanatorium yesterday recovering from near-serious injuries to one eye, which he suffered as the result of an automobile accident Tuesday night. While driving with Fred M. Stephenson, salesman for Bishop's, Cooley was forced to drive into a ditch to avoid a collision with a car speeding on a curve.

Bumping his head against the car, he received bruises and cuts about the eye.
