

AURORA PLANS FOR BARBECUE

Event Will be Held June 25; Affair of 25 Years Ago Recalled

AURORA, June 3.—On June 25 Aurora will duplicate the barbecue which was such a success last year. On Tuesday evening the chairman of all committees appointed by the community club president, met to complete their plans and arrange for additional attractions.

Twenty five years ago at a 4th of July picnic sponsored by the commercial club, when the multitude was served with barbecued ox and goat meat. A platform was erected in an orchard in the center of town with Gov. West as speaker. Portland contributed some of her best entertainers. Races were held on Main street and there were no automobiles to dodge. Basket lunches augmented by the barbecued meat were spread on tables under the trees and everyone made merry. Fire works and a dance were culminating events. This was repeated the next year.

A barbecue given last year was a perfect success as attested by the large audience. A bigger and better one this year is the goal for which all will have charge of stand and barbecued sandwiches will be served free to add to the basket lunches and in the evening there will be a display of fireworks and a big dance.

Mackburg, Newberg and Aurora Lutheran churches will unite in holding the annual 4th of July service and picnic and Champagne program and June 5, at 10 a. m. there will be a missionary program and at noon a basket dinner. An entertainment and picnic is scheduled for the afternoon.

The Aurora school children under the direction of Mrs. Ben Stoner assisted the American Legion of Woodburn in their annual poppy sale in this district.

Bits for Breakfast

Umpqua and Douglas counties being included in one county (senate) district, Captain Levi Scott was chosen; for representative from Douglas, E. J. Curtis; probate judge, S. Fitzhugh; clerk, A. R. Flint; sheriff, F. R. Hill; treasurer, George Hannan; assessor, C. W. Smith; coroner, C. Grover; commissioner, J. E. Danforth. Total vote, 163. A year later the number was 306, nearly double.

Winchester was chosen as the county seat, but it had a strong rival, almost from the first. About five miles away, on the South Fork of the Willamette, the town of Umpqua, Aaron Rice had laid out the town of Roseburg. Bancroft says he traced for the location (squatter's right) a horse, and a poor one at that. He secured the passage of the act of Dec. 23, 1853, providing for the submission of the location of the permanent county seat to a vote to be held on the second Monday in March, 1854. He invited the settlers of the Lookingglass valley, who wanted the county seat, to accept his hospitality—with plenty to eat and drink. They went in a body to the polls and voted for Roseburg. It was a blow to Winchester. It soon almost bodily was moved to Roseburg, including the U. S. land office.

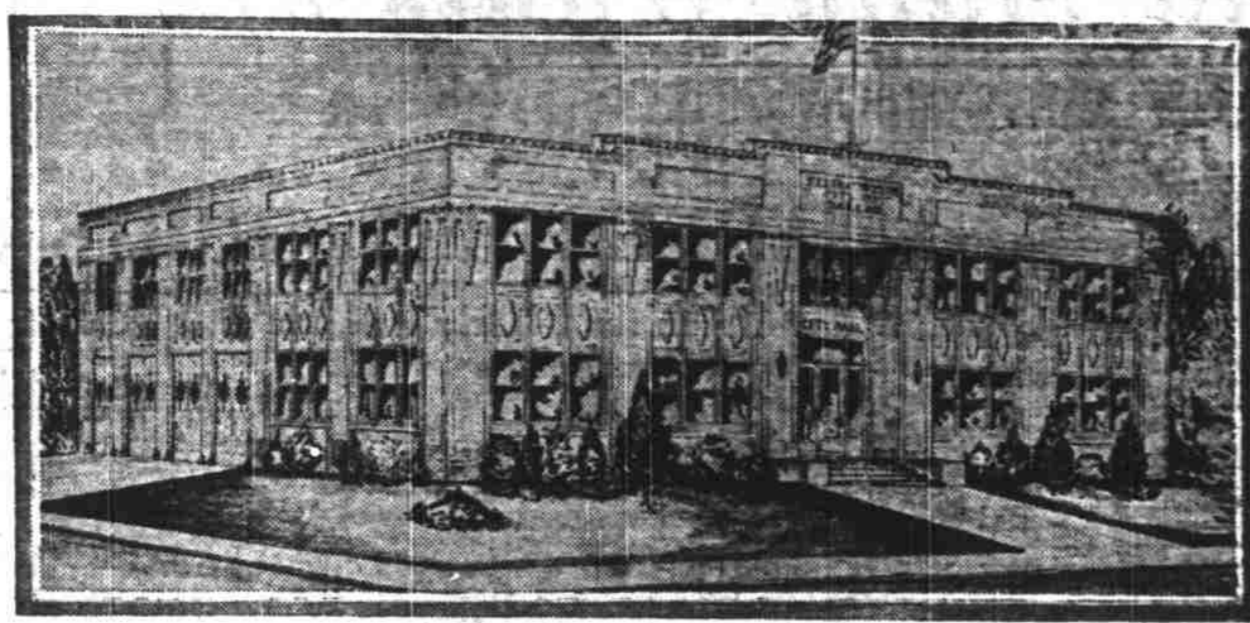

In Umpqua the county seat was not definitely located for some time. Court was held at Elkton and at Scottsburg, alternately. In 1854 James P. Lesnard, a surveyor, a town site at Elkton, consisting of 160 acres, and on Jan. 30, '55, the legislature passed an act making that town the seat of justice.

Cosco county was created by an act of December 25, 1853, and Douglas county voted favorably upon a proposition submitted by an act of the 20th of the previous January to annex the northern end of the county to Umpqua. By an act of Dec. 18, 1856, Camas prairie was detached from Cosco and annexed to Douglas.

By 186, Umpqua county had seriously retrograded. Scottsburg had lost its trade with the mines, and Elkton had not attained its ambition to take the place of the metropolis. To maintain the county government was burdensome, and the difficulty was relieved by the act of October 16, 1862, consolidating Umpqua and Douglas counties, with the county seat at Roseburg.

The next great local question in Douglas county was that of a proposed division again into two counties. The town of Oakland ("Old Oakland") had grown up in the northern end of the county, and made a strong effort to secure the coveted honors and emoluments of a shire town. An act of Oct. 16, 1868, provided for a special ballot on that subject at a general election held on the 3rd of the next month. All north of the main fork of the Umpqua and a line running from the junction of that stream with the South Umpqua due west to the line of Cosco county, with Oakland as the county seat. The majority vote was against the division. On Oct. 21 an act was passed submitting the question of the location of the county seat in that portion of the county which would still bear the name of Douglas, and Roseburg, Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and Round Prairie were designated as candidates. This act was not to take effect if the vote division was unfavorable. The

DALLAS MAY GET NEW CITY HALL SOON

Architect's drawing of the proposed city hall at Dallas. Whether or not $225,000 bonds will be voted for the structure will be decided at a special election there June 6.

Woodburn News

WOODBURN, June 3.—At a special meeting of the Woodburn charity board, held Thursday afternoon in the city hall, the decision was made to continue its relief work throughout the summer. This winter the board has been aiding needy persons in this vicinity with both money donated by state employees and money donated by various organizations and private parties in Woodburn. As it has been reported that the fund made up by the state and county employees is nearly exhausted, a larger drain will be put on the money subscribed locally. The board has made a plea for more second-hand clothing of any sort.

This winter the charity board spent $85 in aiding needy persons. Eight families nearly destitute were helped through the winter. At present there is $106 on hand in the charity board's treasury.

Woodburn now has only one mail carrier service a day instead of two. George Jones, auxiliary carrier, will only be employed about half time, that being in the post office. Lester Walling will be the carrier. The other route from Washington extends only to the last of June, after which nothing has been said to indicate what will happen.

School Vote 20th A new school director for the Woodburn district will be chosen Monday afternoon, June 20. A clerk will also be chosen at that time. The election will begin at 2 p. m. Dr. T. K. Sanderson, who has been a member of the school board for the past six years, and who is at present chairman of the board, has indicated that he is positively not a candidate for reelection. The term of school clerk Harold Austin also expires. Austin has said that he will accept the position if he is elected again.

No action has been taken on the matter of choosing another janitor to take the place of Paul Polquet, Lincoln school janitor, who died recently. Polquet possessed a contract which has three years to run. Since the school financial proposition is very uncertain, no action on the school budget will be taken at the June 20 meeting.

Preparations have been made for the shifting of the Sanitary Meat Market, by W. E. Lessard, from its present location to a block north to a new location. The meat market, is to be moved to the building which has been occupied by the Bomhoff restaurant recently. The new location is larger and will provide more room for shelves, display and storage space. Lessard has indicated that he plans to move June 20.

Pupils Picnic Thursday afternoon all pupils of the Johnston grade school held picnic at Champeo park, on the Willamette river. There were boat riding and sports for the visitors. A weiner roast was a feature of the picnic. Those pupils graduating from the school this spring are Richard Mayes, Kenneth McAdams and Norman Johnson. The school is located west of Woodburn on the Woodburn-Hubard road. Sam Cairnes, the teacher, will teach near Albany next winter.

At the final meeting of the Woodburn Women's club till October, new officers for the ensuing year were chosen. Mrs. Arisla Nendel, who has been active in the club's work for several years, was chosen president, taking the office of Mrs. Elburn T. Sims. Other new officers chosen were: Mrs. Ronald E. Burnett, vice president; Mrs. Norman Richards, recording secretary; Mrs. V. D. Bain, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Paul Pemberton, treasurer. Various other officers will be chosen later in the year by the new president.

The program, which was under the management of Mrs. Nellis Muir, was: piano solo, "Etude No. 8" by Marybelle Adams; piano solo, "May Bells Ringing" (Siewert), by Jean Beers; spring dance, by Evelyn Block and Lois Volker, accompanied at the piano by Marybelle Adams; speech, "Insurance for Women", by Mrs. Maudie Mochel.

The hostesses who served refreshments were Miss Mary Scott being the outcome, the new county seat question vanished into thin air.

The growth of Douglas county was steady from the day the first settlement was made. The time of greatest development and change was the period while the Oregon & California railroad was being extended to Roseburg, in 1872, and immediately before and after. "Old Oakland" was given its death blow and the present Oakland, a mile away, was born and boomed by that development, and Roseburg was endowed with a period of prominence, prosperity and growth from the fact that for 10 years it was the place where rail transportation and stage travel met.
