

GOOSEBERRIES YIELD HEAVILY

Strawberry Harvest is on; Early Spraying Destroys Spittle Bugs

HAZEL GREEN, June 6—Joseph Zielinski harvested four and a half tons of gooseberries from six acres. This is an unusually large yield.

One ton was gathered from the new field bearing for the first year; the other three from the six-year old planting. The price was four cents a pound.

Mr. Zielinski has had 20 years experience in raising gooseberries for market. He has sprayed entire plantings since picking to guard against a disease affecting the leaves.

There are over 500 acres of strawberries in this school district with Marshalls on the west and Elterbergs on the east side of Pudding river. Joseph Garberino has 150 pickers employed in his plants on N. P. Williamson's farm. Some growers took the cannery's offer of two cents on estimated crop, with privilege to sell berries. These berries are being sold in the fields. Part of the community sells to the Woodburn cannery and the remainder to Salem.

The spittle bugs have not caused as much damage to the strawberries as last year. Archie McCorkle found that an early spraying would kill them. The late sprayings last year were ineffective.

The continued rain has caused the early celery plantings to go to seed on Labish. The ground having the first lettuce plantings has been disked to set to celery. Lettuce for the fall cutting will be set between the celery.

TAXATION MEASURES TALKED FOR GRANGE

MACLEAY, June 6—Proposed legislation and especially taxation measures was the main subject of discussion at the regular meeting of the Grange held Friday night. In the absence of Harry Martin Masten who is confined in the Salem general hospital from a serious injury, Frank Bower, overseer, presided.

W. A. Jones gave a short talk on consolidation of the higher educational institution of learning and Frank Bower spoke on taxation in general. A. H. Fuestman spoke on the federal revenue tax and M. M. Magee gave a short talk on income tax without exemption which in his opinion is the most part method of taxation.

FIGURES IN JAPANESE REIGN OF TERROR

The assassination in his Tokyo home of Tetsuyoshi Inukai (center), Japan's 77-year-old Premier, and the wide spread bombing of the homes of other government officials is viewed in diplomatic circles as an attempt by the militaristic clique to get control of the government. Upper right is Finance Minister Koriyama Takahashi, Finance Minister, who was immediately appointed as acting Premier upon the death of Inukai. Upper left is Count Nobukazu Makino, Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal and advisor to Emperor Hirohito, whose home was bombed, as also were the homes of Foreign Minister Kenichi Yoshizawa (lower left) and Admiral Kantaro Suzuki, (lower right), Grand Chamberlain to the Emperor. Eighteen young military officers are under arrest charged with the crime.
