Enemy of the Republic

ONE of the first decrees to be signed by Carlos G. Davila, who by a double-barreled revolution has made himself leader of the socialist junta now in control in Chile, is one which denounces as an enemy of the republic "any person who advocates doctrines tending to violently overthrow the constituted government or social institutions."

State Fair to be Held

DIRECTOR GEHLHAR promises the people of the state should enable the fair to show a balance on the right side of the ledger. The horse show is to be abandoned. This will be disappointing to others as well as socialites who love to see fine horse flesh.

Nothing daunted by his dip in the ocean on a flight to Poland Stanislaus Hauser is back again and says he will make another trial. Well, maybe he will succeed this time, in not getting picked up. Still he has a wife; and our guess is he will make no start.

We have to go back to the Spanish-American war for a check tax. That was the way the country helped finance that Fourth of July celebration. And the withdrawal receipts were worked then the same as now to avoid the tax. When the country does a war dance it has to pay for the orchestra.

The churches are feeling the pinch of hard times. Donations are reduced and many a pastor has to wait for his pay check. And they can't levy fresh taxes to balance their budget either.

Japan "little France" of the orient, object to the arms cut proposed by Pres. Hoover. It still wants the privilege of taxing its impoverished millions still more to finance continental imperialism.

Gov. Roosevelt says he has written a prohibition plank for the democrats and it has 90 words. From all the shouting he and Al Smith have been doing we would judge only one word would be required: "Repeal."

Congress awarded Amelia Earhart Putnam the wrong medal. But she can turn it in at the exchange counter and get another just as good.

This is the open season for family picnics. Residents of this valley have most of their Sundays full attending the gatherings of descendants of their various ancestors.

Nobody has yet proposed that newspaper reporters and editors should be licensed; but there are some editors who ought to be examined on their sanity.

The railroads are offering to haul the bonus army back home for a cent a mile. Most freights are doing the job now for nothing.

The prince of Wales is now 38 and still a bachelor. Still lots of time however to fall for some gay maid of sixteen.

In the Bag Again

New Views

Yesterday Statesman reporters asked this question: "What is your reaction to President Hoover's one-third reduction in national armaments?"

Hugh B. Fouke Jr., minister: "I am very favorable to it. I think it will be a very wholesome thing in the world to have someone step out for peace."

Mrs. C. A. Kells, member war prevention council: "I am afraid it's too late to accomplish the ends we would like to think of. I don't think we have established the confidence of the nations to make them believe we are in earnest."

Mrs. K. L. Smith, home maker: "I think it is one of the very sensible ways to reduce the expenses of the governments. Why spend money for such demonstrations as the Akron when people are starving to death?"

Mrs. Ida Frilly, home maker: "It is one of the most sensible suggestions to be made in months from a government source, I think."

Jacob Weisel, cabinet maker: "I haven't paid a great deal of attention to it."

J. D. Greene, farmer: "Well, it doesn't look like the nations will have sense enough to adopt it, but I believe it is one of the best plans put forth to lower costs."

Daily Health Talks

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

At this time of year cases of poisoning from ivy are common. Ivy poisoning is an annoying and distressing inflammation of the skin, caused by an irritating substance found in various plants and trees.

The eruption usually involves the skin of the hands and face, but may be found over the entire body. There is a great deal of discomfort with burning itching and swelling of the affected parts.

Answers to Health Queries

- Q.—What do you advise for goitre?
A.—This condition demands special medical attention. Consult your doctor for the proper treatment.
Q.—How can I keep my finger nails from breaking off?
A.—This is caused by poor circulation. For full particulars send a stamped self-addressed envelope and restate your question.

The Murder of the Night Club Lady

By ANTHONY ABBOT

"But how can I help?" whispered the old woman, forcing a crumpled handkerchief against her lips.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"MR. COLT," snarled Rowland, "I am bored. My presence here is of no comfort to Mrs. Carewe. And certainly I can be of no conceivable assistance to the police."

"I agree, Mr. Rowland. You are entirely free to go," Vincent Rowland thrust forward his hand in a turtle-like movement of incredulity.

"You mean you will not try to detain me here?" "Exactly." Relief flooded the aged attorney's face.

"My dear Mr. Colt," he said, "it is indeed a pleasure to know that our administration has put a gentleman in Headquarters. I shall hold myself in readiness to be called at any time that you may need me."

"Not in the least." "Did Lola ever tell you anyone might try to kill her?" "The old man shook his head."

"No. Only what you yourself heard tonight. Fact is, Lola was just the other way, poor chick. Hot-headed, you know—threatening to kill other people."

"Seriously, Mr. Rowland?" "Oh, I suppose not. Perhaps I shouldn't have mentioned it. But she did say to me, two or three weeks ago, that the people who were bothering her soon wouldn't bother her any longer."

"Lola quarreled with everybody. Especially that actor Everett and her friend Christine. Just temperament, I suppose—poor infant! Once she told me some people were trying to intimidate her. I don't remember the names. But she seemed to feel secure. Lola had her own ways of managing. I suppose—a very attractive and clever woman."

"I expected Colt to insist on pursuing this promising, if elusive, lead. But he seemed to shrug it off as not of great consequence—one of his deadliest tricks of deception."

"Nothing," he replied, "except that I might need you later tonight. Mind?" "I'll come whenever I'm needed!" Rowland assured us all earnestly.

Yesterdays Of Old Salem
Town Talks from The Statesman of Earlier Days
Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Salem received a deluge of rain, such as has not visited this vicinity for many years, if ever.

Angora goats have long been used in various parts of the state to clear brush. In Tillamook county, hundreds of goats have been imported to clear the land of sallow and huckleberry brush.

The Rector building was also built of wood. The north line of the lot on which it stood was the south line of the present Statesman building.

Manfully the council or upper branch of the territorial legislature of '53-4 was held on the second floor of the Rector building, and the territorial library, then in the same building, was next to or near the council chamber.

With a representation of 25 automobile loads of Cherrians, Salem was easily identified in the Portland Rose festival floral parade yesterday afternoon.

According to a statement issued by C. G. Huntley, income tax collector, 67,640 personal income tax returns were filed in Oregon for 1930 representing net incomes of $192,653,281 and taxes of $6,649,011.

NEW YORK — Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, has 17 days in which formally to accept the challenge of Harry Wills, negro, for a bout for the title, or have his crown put up for competition in New York state.

The movement to bring about legislation forcing all children into the public school was emphatically denounced by the Oregon and Washington district convocation of the Evangelical Lutheran
