

Local News Briefs

Turns Down Fee—Judge Fred W. Wilson, circuit judge from The Dalles, yesterday denied Guy O. Smith, local attorney, the right to present the county court with a bill for $500, which Smith claims is the value of his services in defending Robert H. Coleman, alias Harry Erpolding, who is soon to be tried for murder. The judge said Marion county in years past had allowed no fee to a public defender and could not reverse the practice even though, as Smith claimed, a murder trial involved a large amount of work for the attorney representing the defendant.

SALEM MECHANICS BUILD OWN PLANE

Working in a "flivver" shop, P. E. Manley, 1695 North 17th street, and Bonner B. Stewart, 1225 North 18th, 18 months ago decided to build themselves an airplane, "flivver" powered. They completed the ship this week. Lee U. Eyerly, president of the Eyerly Aircraft corporation, will give the machine its first flying test at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the municipal airport.

The mechanics' plane is of single wing design, known as the Heath H-200, of 35-foot wingspread, 22-foot fuselage and 750 pounds in weight. Its power plant is a model A Ford engine. Stewart and Manley built the ship in a garage on the latter's place during their spare time. Both are employees of the Valley Motor company.

While using standard designs for their plane, the two men constructed it all from raw materials. It is of all-steel, welded construction. Two-seater open type. The owners painted the wings silver, the fuselage gold. Neither Manley nor Stewart are licensed pilots. They plan to study flying in their own plane.

HOPS UNAFFECTED BY REPEAL PLANK

While the hop market might well reflect some of the increasing sentiment for prohibition change or repeal with higher prices, as yet no tendency that way is observable, T. A. Livesley, one of the valley's largest growers and dealers, said yesterday. "We were offered 10 cents for 1931 hops here today, he commented. "This is a ridiculous low price for the carry-over crop. Having no carry-over we made no sale nor did we find other dealers who would."

Livesley declared that there had been almost no speculative buying in hops for years. If sentiment for immediate repeal can bring about quick action, there may be a decided upturn in the hop prices before additional acreage could be set out, he opined. The 1932 crop is going to be lighter than the 1931 acreage, he said. The carry over of hops from the previous year is not heavy.

PLAYGROUND GETS NEW SPRINGBOARD

Whoopee! A spring board! New fun began for the boys and girls at Olinger playground yesterday when a new spring board was installed on the bank of the swimming hole. Swimming has been highly popular there, good diving will add spice to it. In land sports, croquet and horseshoes soon will be leaders. Forty boys signed up for the croquet tournament, 35 for horseshoes, yesterday. Girls croquet competition will be started next week.

This afternoon will be broadcast time again with the girls and boys who have entertained their fellows during the week having the privilege of singing over the announcer car microphone. Naomi Lee was yesterday's singer. Lifesley's Esther Arnold will hold her class for beginning swimmers at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Under the Occurrences and Gossip at the center of Oregon's state government

AND, as expected, the attorney-general ruled there was no legal authority to issue license plates on the installment plan, but if receipts were issued, the responsibility would rest upon the secretary of state. However, if the governor, the one who executes the law, would have this phase enforced—that settles it.

Today is the day when new plates should be on all cars. In the first place this will not be generally observed because of the 15 day moratorium, and in the second place that after the 15th, it appears some quarterly installment plan will become effective—in this case even if it becomes necessary to go "outside the law" to do it.

It is noted that Governor Hartley of Washington, like Governor Meier, has refused to call a special session of the legislature. Another Governor Hartley has a good reason—he had enough experience with the special session in Washington in 1928. Unemployment was the reason a session was demanded in our neighbor state to the north.

The salary wage scale is out, and state employees yesterday automatically placed themselves into the various percentage classes. We heard many declaring they did not come under the cut, while others said they were either in the 5, 7, 9 and 10 per cent class, with a few in the 15 per cent reduction bracket.

The reduction does not warp the checks received by state employees today, as these are for the month of June. The first time they will be noted will be on the August payments. Those having salaries set by law are requested to return the difference to the general fund. The report is in the hands of the governor for action.

The democrats are great on demonstrations, each group trying to outdo the other. Roosevelt's demonstration lasted 48 minutes, while that given for Al Smith was continued for more than an hour. And talk about noise! Also Smith had the best nomination speech made and the best singer during the demonstration.

And just our luck. While the democrats will perhaps be voting on the nominees today, new bounds will be required to sit doubtedly will be accepted with regret by the governor.

And the governor has known Father Keenan for many years. The first job the Father ever had was an office boy in Julius L. Meier's office in Portland, and it was not surprising that the governor should reappoint him to the parole board when he assumed office two years ago. The service he rendered the state is worthy of high commendation.

OREGON HOP CROP LOWER THAN 1931

CORVALLIS, Ore., June 30.—(AP)—The market tone in hops has remained about steady during the past week with prices unchanged from a week ago, though trading has been comparatively quiet. It is brought out in today's review by the OSC extension service co-operating with the USDA bureau of agricultural economics. The Oregon crop is expected to be 10,000 to 15,000 bales under last year because of early damage by the hop mildew. Weather for the past week has been favorable, however, and has materially lessened the advance of the disease.
