Fourth street extension in Portland as outlined by the commission, in lieu of the route proposed by Multnomah county. The route would extend from the intersection of Fourth and Sheridan streets southerly over the old Southern Pacific right-of-way, to the westerly limits of the city of Portland. From that point there would be established a state highway extending three miles southwesterly to the Multnomah-Washington county line, where it would connect with the West Side high-

Baldock said that the grading of this project by hand labor, with subsequent operations handled by contract, would cost approximately $1,704,000. No intimation was given as to when actual work on this project would be undertaken.

A delegation representing the John Day Highway association appeared before the commission in connection with the improvement of that part of the John Day highway from Fossil east to Dayville. A. B. Robertson of Condon declared that work on this road had been neglected, with the result that it is narrow and has numerous dangerous curves.

COUNTIES HURT BY INSTALLMENT PLAN

dicted on this basis. In answer to a query from Bend today, Secretary of State Hal E. Hoss said that if the installment plan goes into effect there will probably be no payments to the counties until the license fees have been paid in full. That would postpone receipts of this income by the counties until around April of next year, Robert W. Sawyer, former member of the state highway commission, point-

MOSLEMS, HINDUS

BOMBAY, India, July 1. — AP) — The enmity between Moslems and Hindus, which has long harrassed police authorities throughout India, broke out ina casualty list of more than 200. So fierce were the religious combatants that all shops and markets of Bombay were forced to close, and armed police took control of the streets of the city. The cause of the initial outburst was not immediately determined, but fuel was added to the flame when 1000 Moslem mourners started a funeral procession through a Hindu section. Many clashes flared and six times police had to fire on mobs

AL SMITH MAY NUT SUPPORT CANDIDATE

CHICAGO, July 1—(AP)— Alfred E. Smith, sitting in his hotel headquarters facing a radio and a poster of "Smith for president," heard tonight without formal comment the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt. "Do you intend to support the nominee?" he was asked. "I have no comment to make," Smith replied, chewing vigorously at a cigar. Then he turned back to the radio and resumed his grim silence.

Smith's associates and political backers said they did not believe he would support the democratic ticket in November.

An expression of bitter sadness came to the face of the "Happy Warrior of 1928" as soon as William Gibbs McAdoo began to announce the switch of California's votes. There was a change in that expression only once during the rest of the evening, when Connecticut's votes for Smith launched an outburst of cheering.
