

Robin Reed Arrives Today for Defense of Welter Title

JONES ALREADY MAKES WEIGHT

Welterweight Championship At Stake Here Monday At Fairgrounds

Robin Reed, world welterweight wrestling champion, will arrive in Salem early today to make final preparations for defense of his title against Henry Jones at the fairgrounds Monday night, July 4. Jones is already on hand, and has already made the weight, in fact two pounds under without taking advantage of the excess allowed for clothing.

Doubts which some fans have expressed as to whether Monday's match between Robin Reed and Henry Jones is really a world's championship tussle or not will be discarded readily in the light of all the pertinent facts.

Jack Reynolds was formerly the world's welterweight champion by dint of mat victories. But, according to Henry Jones, Jack began to add weight soon after acquiring the belt and for the past five years has weighed in the neighborhood of 165 pounds, a full 20 pounds heavier than the weight his opponents had to make to meet him.

Henry Jones charges that Reynolds refused to weigh in for his bouts as his opponents were required to do.

Association Brings Order out of Chaos

With no system or order in the welterweight ranks, the Mid-West Wrestling association which has as members several of the upper Mississippi valley states, quieted the chaos of the situation by staging an open tournament for the championship of the welterweight division.

No one was barred from entering the tournament provided that he could make the required weight of 145 or less. More than 100 grapplers from practically all the states of the union and from numerous foreign countries entered the tournament. It was this tournament which Robin Reed of Reedsport, Oregon won, and his final triumph brought him the belt which he still holds in spite of two close calls with Henry Jones.

Reed and Jones have not avoided meeting Jack Reynolds, but on the other hand are anxious to tangle with the ex-champ. In fact Jones is so desirous of meeting Jack that he has repeatedly offered to all American Legion organizations, including Salem's, that he will wrestle Reynolds at his present weight and will give all his share of the proceeds to charity if he falls to win from Jack. Jones met and defeated Reynolds shortly before the latter became champion.

The reason Reynolds didn't enter the tournament was because it was obviously hopeless for him to even consider making the weight. Robin Reed perhaps made the weight easier than most for he could make 145 and still go full speed.

Neither Bothersed By Weight Limit

Henry Jones is another who can do his best at the 145 mark. Henry was recovering from automobile injuries at the time of the tournament and it was that alone which kept him from entering.

Since that time Jones and Reed have met twice. In the first bout there was a big question in the minds of all as to which won the bout. On the final fall Jones was making Reed pat the mat when his own shoulders dropped to the canvas. Jones was down for the

JONES SHOWS WHIP WRISTLOCK

Hogan and Egan Will Clash For Northwest Golf Title; Shields Loses in Thriller

PORTLAND, Ore., July 1.—(AP)—Scorching over the Alderwood course in the most thrilling match this year's Pacific Northwest Amateur Golf association tournament has developed, Eddie Hogan, Portland, nosed out Johnny Shields, Seattle, Washington state champion, 3 and 1.

Hogan will play in the finals tomorrow against H. Chandler Egan, Medford, who easily defeated Johnny Robbins, Portland, 8 and 7.

Egan won a national championship 28 years ago. Hogan will not be 21 until November.

Shields fought stubbornly the entire route, and only by making every shot tall was Hogan able to emerge victorious.

At noon the Portlander held a slim margin of one hole. He increased this to four as they passed the 26th hole, then Shields started count of three almost simultaneously with Reed's mat patting act. The referee's hair-line decision went in favor of Reed.

The second meeting of the two is familiar to all. That was the bout where Jones whip wristlocked Reed into semi-consciousness and won from the speedy Reedsport editor, only to miss the belt by being too heavy.

Since early last fall Reed and Jones have set up remarkable grappling records. Jones has not lost a match to a man of his weight except the mooted one with Reed and Reed has lost only one in his weight and that was to Henry Jones.

In past years Jones has wrestled only a few months each fall and winter and then return to his farm work in Utah. But he has now been on the road since last November and is working harder than ever on the mat.

Robin Reed has probably had more matches than that during the same period of time and although he is not as old as Jones, Reed is just as crafty. The outcome of the title bout is much in question, but many think it will be so close that in case Jones wins a rematch would be in order to follow soon.

PORTLAND, July 1.—(AP)—In a wild four-run outburst in the ninth inning, Portland tied the score in tonight's game against Los Angeles, then drove over the extra run in the tenth inning to win, 7 to 6, and stay in a tie with Hollywood for the league leadership.

Portland's four-run splurge, after Los Angeles apparently had things in hand with a four-run lead in the ninth, came when three pinch hitters all connected. Hermann, at whose expense the Ducks gathered their four runs, gave way to Sweetland, but Bob Johnson connected with a home run after one out in the tenth and the game was over.

HELEN MOODY WINS WIMBLEDON CROWN

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Williams Moody gave a convincing proof again today that there is no woman in the world who can stand against her on a tennis court as she swept over Helen Jacobs, her fellow Californian, 6-3, 6-1, to win her fifth Wimbledon singles title.

Playing well within herself, Mrs. Moody held the mastery throughout over the player ranked second to her in the United States and fourth in the world. The straight set victory kept intact Mrs. Moody's record of not losing a set in major competition over the last two years.

Ellsworth Vines, Jr., the American champion, already is in the finals of men's singles and will play H. W. (Bunny) Austin, of England, for the title tomorrow.

The one American defeat, that of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn by Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, of France, was more unexpected than were the three American victories of the day.

YOU can go back in pugilistic history, even to the days of the Cestus in ancient Greece, and you will find that each decade boasted a so-called "Black Menace." In more modern days we find Jack Johnson traipsing all over the world in pursuit of the heavyweight champion, Tommy Burns, finally catching up with him in Australia. Burns, unable to longer refuse Johnson the match and loath to forego a $30,000 purse, consented to a meeting and lost, Johnson becoming the first and only negro heavyweight champion of the world.

Joe Willard defeated Johnson and in turn lost to Jack Dempsey. It was during the regime of Dempsey that the term "Black Menace" came into popular usage. Harry Wills, giant heavyweight of New Jersey, making himself a wealthy man by frequent and futile challenging for a title match, Dempsey was willing but conditions prevented promoters from attempting to stage the bout. In Tunney's time there was another dark cloud on the pugilistic horizon, Big George Godfrey, famed as the "Black Shadow of Leiper-ville." And now there looms another "Black Menace" in the capable person of Larry Gains, Canadian heavyweight who recently lambasted the giant Primo Carnera in London.

Gains is no trye in this boxing game. Back in 1925 he scored a technical knockout over the present heavyweight champion of the world, Max Schmeling. He is a big, well-formed man weighing about 200 pounds. He did most of his fighting, a few years back, up around Toronto and Montreal and has appeared several times in Madison Square Garden, New York, without causing much excitement. More recently he has been fighting in Europe and they look upon him over there as one of the best big men in the game.

While not a heavy hitter, Gains is a very clever boxer and is known to the trade as "a hard guy to fight." He has fought Big George Godfrey several times, winning their last fight back in 1928 in three rounds on a foul. Previously Godfrey had knocked him out twice, once in five rounds and again in six. Gains was little more than a lightweight at the time and had to concede the Leiper-ville Shadow plenty of weight. Larry has beaten Jack Renault, Jack Gagnon and Charley Belanger among the better-known fighters here, and in Europe he scored a knockout victory over Phil Scott thereby gathering in some sort of claim on the British heavyweight championship.

His victory over Carnera was undoubtedly result in his being matched for important bouts in this country, so we shall soon know more of this newest shadow on the pugilistic horizon.

CASCADE TILTS TO BE CRUCIAL

Turner at Jefferson, Also Woodburn at Brooks, Will Settle Ties

Ties for first place in both divisions of the Cascade league will be broken Sunday, barring rain, earthquake or other act of God.

The Turner and Jefferson teams which have been jockeying for first place in the southern division will meet at Jefferson, while Woodburn and Brooks will be clashing at Brooks, for first place in the northern sector.

A certain advantage for Turner in its crucial, southern division contest lies in the fact that Jefferson's team lost a number of key players who joined the Albany Alcos' State league team when that circuit started. However, Jefferson still has Warner, the veteran pitcher who limited the Salem Senators to two hits here a few weeks ago, and has signed some young players who appear to be carrying on as capably as the Albany veterans.

Brooks, with Ray Gardner on the mound, and Woodburn, with Johnny Beck, ought to engage in a pitchers' battle. Gardner pitched a no-hit game against Mt. Angel last Sunday but some errors let in three runs.

Dayton will play at Amity and Lebanon at Scio Sunday in other Cascade league games. The important battles will be the decisive in the league race, as Jefferson, Woodburn and Brooks will still be playing postponed games the following Sunday.

TROJANS LEAD IN BIG MEET TRIALS

EDWARDS STADIUM, Berkeley, Cal., June 1.—(AP)—Southern California's powerful team, seeking its fifth intercollegiate ring challenge to the field today when it qualified a majority of athletes in trials that developed but few unusual times and distances.

Trials and some semi-finals of the 6th annual national classic saw the defending champion place 16 entrants for tomorrow's final of a meet brought into the far west for the first time in history.

Stanford, runner-up last year, trailed in second place by qualifying nine performers (who) Pennsylvania led the eastern contingent by moving four men into tomorrow's events.

Howell, Fischer In College Final

HOT SPRINGS, Cal., July 1.—(AP)—Billy Howell, Washington and Lee's captain, and Johnny Fischer, a serious faced youngster from Michigan earned the right today to play for the national intercollegiate golf crown.

They scored semi-final victories over John Parker and Sidney Noyes, both of Yale.

Pirates, Eagles To Meet Sunday

The Salem Pirates and Salem Eagles baseball teams will clash at the airport Sunday afternoon. The teams are well matched and a close game is in prospect with each group confident of victory. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

VISIT WILLIAMS

LIBERTY, July 1.—Mrs. Ad Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robertson of Raymond, Wash., are visiting at the Williams home. They will remain until sometime next week when they will spend a week in Fresno, Cal., and about two months in Arkansas before they return home.

PLAN MATRIMONIAL PLUNGE

Already famous in national and international aquatic circles, Mickey Riley, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and Georgia Coleman, diving and swimming champion of Seattle, Wash., are rumored to be contemplating taking the matrimonial swim together. Dame Gossip is insistent that the aquatic stars will march to the stately music of Lohengrin after the Olympics, in which both are expected to scintillate.

June Rainfall Below Average; Less Than Inch

While June started out a cloudy month, its total rainfall was .22 of an inch short of the mean average for the month, 1.20. Precipitation during June of last year was 3.35 inches. The past month, short on rainfall, was not a record-breaker. In that month of 1922, it was but .03 inches, in 1919 .16 inches, in 1909 .18 inches.

The standing precipitation record was set in June, 1894, when 3.50 inches of rain fell. In June, 1913, it reached 3.48 inches.

THEIR LIFE A BOWL OF SOES

Winning seems to be a habit with these girls, but despite the regularity with which they bring home the bacon they still get a big thrill out of victory. They are Mrs. Helen Williams Moody (left) and Miss Sarah Palfrey, members of the American women's tennis team, shown with the Wightman Cup which they helped win for Uncle Sam at Wimbledon, Eng., recently. An admirer has filled the trophy with roses in a pretty tribute to the racketeers.

We'll say one thing, both parties have nominated men who have been heard of before. They haven't always done that.

Now we can forget all that and proceed to enjoy the Glorious Fourth. Personally, we remember that as a boy, in ordinary years we had a budget of $8 for fireworks and when depression was on was cut to $5. And we didn't happen to catch tetanus.

But lots of boys did and the tendency is to celebrate in safer ways in these modern times. The American Legion has arranged an elaborate program at the fairgrounds, all of it perfectly safe for the spectators provided they watch their step.

Robin Reed, however, is taking a chance of losing his world welterweight belt. He and Henry Jones are closely enough matched so that a brake one way or the other will decide the big title bout scheduled for the night of the Fourth at the fair grounds.

There's no question but that this show, in addition to being the first world championship contest ever staged in Marion county, will be one of the greatest demonstrations of mat fireworks ever set off. Of course the heavyweight grunter gets the attention but the little fellows do the wrestling.

Lots of people will be going out of town for the Fourth, despite the attractions arranged here. But these motor-minded people should take this into consideration; they'll have to be back on the job Tuesday morning, and they may just as well cut the outing short enough to be back here by 7:30 Monday night in time to see Reed and Jones fly to it.

McDOWELL CLAN MEETS

ORCHARD HEIGHTS, July 1.—W. W. McDowell, H. R. McDowell, W. G. McDowell and Roy McDowell, all with their wives and families, drove Sunday to Champeog where they attended the annual reunion of the McDowell clan. James W. McDowell and Lydia McDowell, parents of the four men, settled here in 1886 when they arrived from Mercer county, Pennsylvania. Three of the four McDowell families still live on portions of the ancestral acres here.

Elks' Kitballers Beat Courthouse

The Elks kitball team horned its way mightily into the victor's side last night and defeated the Courthouse squad 22 to 6. Adolph and Fede were the chief horners, Gleason and Casey the unsuccessful batter.

With the exception of postponed games, the third round in the kitball league is at an end.

AS TITLE CHANGED HANDS
