around the ring. Because of the length of the match, the fireworks program was long delayed. Capital Post's promises of an even better display than that of 1931, however, were taken for granted and the same crowd stayed on for this exhibition and the dance in the automobile pavilion.

Lionnaires by the dozens worked unceasingly throughout the day to make their celebration a success and to look out for the well-being of the crowds. General Chairman J. T. Delaney was pleased with the response from the public.

REMOVING SOLARIUM BERNARD SHAW VOILING OLD SOL.

At a recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at Syracuse, N. Y., University, Dr. Arthur Knudson, of the Albany Medical College, asserted that more benefit is obtained from sunlight if only the hands and face are exposed. This news is fine for those people with the type of skin that just refuses to tan, but retains the shade of a boiled lobster all through the season, peeling off in successive layers like an onion. But the new strids of science is not so welcome to beauties and big, bronzed he-men who adorn our beaches and, truth to tell, are more of an attraction than the murmur of the wild waves. One result of the scientific dictum will be its effect on the growing tendency towards autism for health. In Europe, especially, the fad has caught on in recent years. One of Europe's most prominent sun-worshippers is George Bernard Shaw, famous author and playwright, who is a familiar figure in Southern Italian and French resorts, where he woos Old Sol, clad in a loin cloth. In Europe, too, those who can afford it have made the solarium a feature of their dwellings. Some having even gone so far as to install a special room that revolves, keeping pace with the sun and catching its rays from sunrise to sunset. Here in the United States, local authorities frown upon too great a devotion to Old Sol. Most of our beaches have stringent regulations as to the make and dimensions of bathing suits and mild and mildred must be careful not to expose more of his or her epidermis than the law allows. But it will take a lot more than science to make the girls revert to the beach styles of the Gay Nineties.

Wets Would Constitute Session

WASHINGTON, July 4—(AP)—The statement that should President Hoover veto the $2,100,000,000 unemployment relief bill he would keep congress in session until some acceptable legislation is enacted was made tonight by Representative Snell, the house republican leader.

There appeared to be no objection that the chief executive's objections to the public works provisions in the democratic jobless aid measure would lead him to return it without his signature. It is expected to reach him by Wednesday or Thursday.

Snell, who was chairman of the republican national convention, spent the week-end with President Hoover at his Rapidan camp in the Virginia mountains and had supper at the White House after Mr. Hoover's arrival early this evening.

Representatives of these groups are in Indianapolis to observe the proceedings of the party's national convention, formally opening tomorrow, and conferences already have taken place between them and D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the party's national committee.

Colvin returned from Washington today after a conference with the Idaho senator, who has refused to support the republican ticket because of the platform's stand for submission of the prohibition question to state conventions for repeal, retention or modification as the electorate might decide.

economic future. If then their future political status was to be independence, they would have an independent economic foundation upon which to build. If it was to be some form of partnership freely entered into between the islands and the United States, they would be partners on an equal and independent basis.

"While this development might take a little more time than would satisfy the impatient in both countries, a few years are insignificant in the lifetime of nations. An assured instead of an uncertain future would well justify the waiting. Hasty and ill-advised action might bring disaster in its train."

THIRD PARTY TAKES FORM IN MISSOURI

Californians are Nominated; Controversy is Started Over Tom Mooney

KANSAS CITY, July 4—(AP)—Two Californians—Col. Frank E. Webb of San Francisco and Andrae N. Nordskog of Los Angeles, were nominated for the presidency and vice presidency of the United States late today by a new "Liberty party" which seeks to overthrow both major parties.

The convention formed by a coalition of third party movements certified the nomination by acclamation after it became apparent Webb and Nordskog were favored by more than two-thirds of the delegates.

Webb recently withdrew as president nominee of the farmer-labor party with an announcement that he was not in accord with its platform. Nordskog formerly was the vice-presidential nominee of the disbanded Liberty party.

Brookhart's Name In Nomination

Besides Webb's, the names placed in nomination for party standard bearer were Senator Smith W. Brookhart, who recently was defeated for re-nomination to the senate by the Iowa republicans, Norman Thomas, New York socialist, and Jacob S. (General) Coxey, Mayor of Massillon, O., who came here last night to accept the nomination.

Earlier in the day a bitter controversy raged on the convention floor following the introduction of a resolution demanding release of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, imprisoned in California from the San Francisco preparedness day bombing.

Miss Frances Field, Salem girl and Oregon entrant in the Disabled American War veterans' sweetheart contest at the national convention at San Diego, Cal., week before last, has returned home, bearing the honor of having been selected as second highest of the candidates for the sweetheart title. A California girl won the title, while a Texas one came in third.

By virtue of being one of the highest three girls in the competition, Miss Field was widely feted in San Diego. She was the special guest of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, famed operatic contralto. The three girls were entertained together by John Barrymore, Kay Francis and Telle Hirsh, movie stars. At a dinner presented in the girls' honor, Miss Field was privileged to sit next to Governor James J. Rolph of California and to speak over the radio.
