Do No Damage—The light rains of Saturday night and Sunday morning did no harm at all to the cherries and berries, according to reports of growers and shippers. With the fourth over and rain threat presumably passed with the holidays, growers are optimistic that the cherry crop will not be harmed this year. While at least one canner has plans to handle the crop even if cherries are split by rain, the shipment of fresh cherries east would be stopped at once by a heavy rain.

Locals on Program—Rev. B. Earle Parker, pastor of the First M. E. church, and Roy R. Hewitt and Dr. S. B. Laughlin of Willamette university are three Salem men invited to appear on the program for the two-day celebration at Champeog the end of this month. The event will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the beginning of public education in the Oregon county, the signing of the declaration of independence and the signing of the Kellogg pact.

PLANE TRIAL ENDS IN FAIR PASTURE

Eyerly Makes Quick Landing When Plane Fails to Turn in Wind

Trial flight of the flyover plane built by Valley Motor company mechanics, ended abruptly at the state fairgrounds Sunday afternoon when Lee Eyerly, at the controls, brought the machine down after water in the radiator started to boil.

Eyerly said later that an old propeller, not efficient enough to handle the ship, caused most of the difficulty. The plane was barely able to fly, and when Eyerly landed it at the fairgrounds it had not gained an altitude of more than 300 feet, he said. In the air possibly three minutes. Because of the deficient propeller, the ship could not reach sufficient altitude to turn down in the wind that prevailed Sunday afternoon, and just as Eyerly flew over a pasture at the fairgrounds at the highest altitude gained, the water started boiling, so he landed the plane immediately.

"The men did a fine job on the plane, and were very careful in building it. All it needs is a modern propeller and a larger radiator," Mr. Eyerly said, adding that he presumed another flight would be arranged after these changes have been made.

Honors 80th Birthday—A communion service in special recognition of the 80th birthday of the First Congregational church marked the morning worship hour Sunday at that church. While the birthday of the church falls July 4, the full celebration will not be held until the fall, and between now and then a committee will work out details for a fitting observance of the 80th milestone of one of the city's oldest religious centers, says Rev. J. R. Simonds, the pastor.

S. E. Manley, foreman in the mechanical department at the Valley Motor company, and Bonner Stewart built the ship, hoping to determine whether a Ford motor could drive an airplane. The ship is a monoplane, with a four cylinder model A Ford engine.

Several hundred air fans and thrill seekers were on hand at the airport Sunday afternoon to watch the trial flight. The first time Eyerly attempted to get off the ground into the air, the ship failed to raise more than inches, but on the second attempt it took the air, flying quite low for some distance until it finally began to gain altitude.

COLUMBIAN DIES—COLUMBUS, O., July 4.—(AP)—Howard D. Manington, 64, who directed the "front porch" presidential campaign of Warren G. Harding at Marion in 1920, died at his home here today after two years' illness.

West Salem News

WEST SALEM, July 4—Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dennis and daughter, Marian-Lou, of Columbus, Ohio, will start in a few days on a motor trip for West Salem to be guests at the Tillman W. Leasure home for an indefinite stay. The Leasures visited them in Ohio a couple of years ago, and this will be the first visit of the Dennis to Oregon. Mrs. Leasure and Mrs. Dennis were high school and college chums together in the east a number of years ago.

W. F. Thomas Dies—Wesley Franklin Thomas, formerly of this place, but who has made his home in Salem recently, passed away the last of the week. Mr. Thomas was Mrs. Frank Lamb's father and lived here for many years. He has been suffering from an incurable disease for several months and his death was not unexpected. Besides Mrs. Lamb of West Salem and her family, he is survived by his widow, of Salem, three sons, Isaac of West Salem, Arthur of Beilfountain and Albert of Salem; five brothers, John of Iowa, Edwin and William of Portland, Wilfred of Hillsboro and Calvin of Parkdale.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning from Salem Mortuary with Reverend Charles L. Dark of the Ford Memorial church conducting there, and he was laid to rest in the Cityview cemetery.

He was born at Segur, Iowa, January 25, 1854. He and Mrs. Thomas celebrated their golden wedding July 24, 1921.

Council Meets Tonight—Council meeting for the West Salem city council will be held at the city hall on Tuesday evening, June 5.

Reverend and Mrs. C. L. Dark will take a summer vacation of several weeks, possibly for two months beginning the first of next week, leaving possibly on July 14, for eastern Kansas, to be the guests of Rev. Dark's sister, Mrs. J. C. Stark at Uniontown, near Fort Scott. The brother and sister have not met for 22 years. During the absence of the pastor, the pulpit of Ford Memorial church will be supplied by Rev. M. A. Marey, district superintendent, with other speakers. Mr. Penbertson and family of Salem will occupy the parsonage during the absence of Rev. and Mrs. Dark.

CERTIFICATION IDEA EXTENDED

Strawberry Plants Eligible For Inspection and Marking Service

Just as the development of certification of seed has given Oregon producers a profitable outlet in this and other states for seed potatoes, so are the strawberry plant growers expected to profit from a new plan proposed for certification of strawberry planting stock.

The new plan for strawberry plant certification has just been issued by the extension service of Oregon State college as drawn up by O. T. McWhorter, extension horticulturist, and S. M. Zeller, plant pathologist of the experiment station. It is designed as a practical plan whereby any grower desiring certification service may get it at nominal cost, while no others need use it any more than a potato grower has to use certification.

"Strawberry plant certification is to provide the prospective purchaser a source of improved planting stock," says the announcement just published. "Such stock is that which has been improved through selection or other practices to the extent that it is vigorous, is true to the variety name and has a minimum of destructive strawberry diseases or pests."

It is pointed out that there is a demand for high grade, vigorous planting stock for use by Oregon growers and for sale to out-of-state markets. Such planting stock is now recognized as a requirement if high yields of quality fruit of the strawberry are to be expected.

Much work has recently been done in studying strawberry diseases with the result that it is now known how serious many of these are, and it is realized how important good planting stock is in their control.

Any Oregon grower, firm or organization agreeing to abide by the rules for strawberry plant certification is eligible for the certification service, says the advance announcement.

HILLSBORO—Strawberry growers of Washington county are going ahead with plans for improvement of their business next year despite the present disastrous price season, reports County Agent W. T. Curren. Several growers are making plans to take advantage of the newly offered certification service for strawberry plant producers, or will follow methods suggested for developing disease-free stock for their own use.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 4—(AP)—The National Limited, fast Baltimore and Ohio train, was wrecked at Little Hocking, Ohio, eight miles from here tonight. Railroad officials said no one was injured, two engines, two Pullman cars and a baggage car were overturned.

CHERRY USES TOLD IN O. S. BULLETIN

30 per Cent Syrup Advised For Canning; Recipes May Be Helpful

Cherries are ripe! And they are plentiful! This year, as always, they hold a prominent place among Oregon home canned or preserved foods, as they are easily canned and kept, says the home economics division of the state college extension service.

For canning, select fully ripe cherries, such as are ideal for immediate table use. A 30 per cent syrup is preferred for Oregon cherries, that is, a syrup made in the proportion of 3 cups of sugar to 7 cups of water, mixed together and brought to a boil. Cherries keep perfectly when canned without sugar, but hold their color, flavor and shape better and require less sugar for the same degree of sweetness if sugar is added at canning time.

Dried cherries are delicious and can be substituted for raisins in puddings, pies, cakes and salads. Dry cherries uncooked by washing and placing them on a wire screen in the oven or over artificial heat. A few of the cherry recipes available in mimeographed form upon request are given below:

Cherry Olives
Fill a quart jar with large sweet cherries, leaving the stems on and packing the fruit as closely as possible. Mix 1 tablespoon of salt and 1 cup of cold vinegar, and pour the mixture into the jar of cherries. Fill the jar with cold water. Adjust the rubber and the cover, and seal the jar as usual. Turn it upside down several times. Allow the cherries to stand for at least two weeks before using them. These cherries are not heated. They make a firm salt pickle to be used with meats.

Cherry Cocktail
1 pound cherries
½ cup chopped walnuts
3 teaspoons lemon juice
6 tbsps. strawberry juice
6 tbsps. powdered sugar
Put the cherries, sprinkle with chopped walnuts and pour over them a syrup made by mixing strawberry juice with powdered sugar and lemon juice. Chill and serve in cocktail glasses.

Cherry Relish
Remove pits from cherries. Drain cherries and cover with vinegar solution made in proportion of ¼ cup vinegar to 1 quart water. Let stand for 6 hours, drain cherries, measure them and add an equal measure of sugar. Let cherries stand over night. Seal.

ANCIENTS' MOSAICS UNEARTHED IN SYRIA

PRINCETON, N. J., July 4—(AP)—A picture gallery of the ancients in the form of a Mosaic floor, containing five panels and dating from the second century, has been unearthed at Antioch, Syria. It was announced today at Princeton university.

Professor C. Rufus Morey, chairman of the department of art and archaeology, pronounced the discovery of "major archaeological and artistic importance; and said it was the first example of Antiochene painting uncovered. The discovery was made by Dr. Clarence Fisher, field director of a joint expedition, beneath some public baths of the fourth or fifth century on the banks of the Orontes river.

Many Boys and Girls Have Celebration of Their Own Monday; Elliott Climbs Pole

Children's sports proved one of the most entertaining features of Capital Post's celebration yesterday morning and was participated in by a large number of boys and girls. As promised, the sports included the old-time greased pole contest, all sorts of foot and bicycle races and a bicycle parade.

Winners, in order, in the parade were: Verne Scott, Grace Reany, Rosser Rudin, Dave Scott and Tommy Rowland.

Results of the bicycle races were as follow:

Free for all mile—Ray Elliott, first; Bill Sexton, second, and Wilbur Curry, third.

Boys under 10—Don Sealey, first; Verne Scott, second, and Tommy Rowland, third.

Boys under 12—Billy Mudd, first; Eugene Bell, second, and Doug McKay, Jr., third.

Boys under 16—Ray Elliott, first; Bill Sexton, second, and Wilbur Curry, third.

Boys under 18—Ray Elliott, first; Bill Sexton, second, and Wilbur Curry, third.

Boys' sack race—Class A, Ray Elliott, first, and Billy Stevens, second; class B, Joe Schweigert, first, and Alvin Kenfield, second; class C, Robert Odman, first and Quentin Ruecker, second.

Backward race—Class A, Max Serdets, first, and Roy Elliott, second; class B, Pete Hoffer, first, and John Ostlund, second; class C, Billy Mudd, first, and Harry Carson, second; class D, Elvira Coons, first, and George Vogel, second; girls, Mary Jones, first, and Iona Stainbrook, second.

Boys' sack race—Class B, Donald Odman, first, and Billy Mudd, second; class A, Max Serdets, first, and Wilbur Curry, second. No entrants appeared for the men's foot races scheduled on the afternoon program.

CORVALLIS, July 4.—A system of overhead irrigation for pasture land which is said to be well suited to uneven ground such as is found in western Oregon river bottoms, is proving successful this season on the Frank Hall farm near here. This system, installed through the cooperation of the Oregon Experiment station and County Agent C. R. Briggs, is being used by Mr. Hall to irrigate 10 acres with a supply of water amounting to only about 70 gallons per minute. Cost of equipment was $650, which is considered exceptionally low for an overhead system.

COMMUNIST FIELD EVENT IS A FAILURE

OLYMPIA, July 4—(AP)—Communists held a field day and a scant few hundred unemployed persons conducted an unemployment relief demonstration here today with the plaza between the capitol and temple of justice as their theatre.

Fierly communistic oratory echoed between the colonnades of the two stately structures. Red banners were paraded back and forth through a crowd of aloof jobless massed on the broad steps beneath the capitol's towering dome. One man was injured in an outbreak of violence.

The demonstration was more of a spectacle than anything else. Less than 400 unemployed were on hand to take part in a demonstration intended to convince the administration of Gov. Roland H. Hartley that a special session of the legislature should be called to provide relief for the state's jobless.

Most of the unemployed, members of the United Producers league of Washington and the Unemployed Citizens league of Seattle, evidently were disappointed over the outcome of their journey to Olympia. Thousands were expected to gather here from all sections of the state. Of the few hundred assembled, at least one-third were from nearby counties and towns.

SPORTS STRESSED AT TRAINING CAMP

Every Student has to Swim Every day, Participate in Other Athletics

CAMP HURLBURT, July 4—(Special)—Learning how to do a snappy squads right, or any of the host of other things strictly military which one might expect in the course of instruction is far from being all on the program for the 593 Oregon and Washington high school boys at the 1933 Citizens' Military Training camp here. Did somebody mention athlete? Yes, brother. How'd you like to try this on your avoirdupois?

Every student must swim every day. Every student must take part in basketball, playground ball, basketball, volleyball every day. Every student in addition may, and is encouraged to, take part also in golf, tennis, handball and boxing.

Organized athletics—conducted in the open air, run on schedule, and supervised by trained directors—play a far bigger part in the camp program than many persons might realize, for Brigadier General Paul A. Wolf, commander, for years has had a policy of sending the boys home in much finer physical condition than they were when they came. Bronzed by active hours in the sun at those games in gym suits or trunks, and plentifully supplied with nourishing food, they go home in the pink of condition. One hundred and fifty medals await the winners at the close of competition near the end of camp—27 in track, 20 in swimming, 16 in boxing, 12 in basketball, 10 in playground ball, 6 in volleyball and 6 in tennis, 5 in golf, 4 in basketball, and 3 in golf. Each of the four companies has a team in each of the four team sports, and each team must play daily. Individuals compete in tournaments in the individual sports, with a series of five boxing smokers held at night, and the track and field team competes at a special field day at the end of camp.
