

America's Olympic Prospects Only Fair Says Robertson

MAY WIN NINE OF 23 EVENTS

Sprints, Jumps and Discus Only Favorable Spots, Coach Indicates

By ALAN GOULD
LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21—(AP)—The United States track and field forces, which moved into the Olympic village today, not only will be fortunate to capture any foot race beyond 400 meters, but figures to be reasonably sure of winning no more than nine of the 23 separate events making up the featured Olympic program, in the opinion of Head Coach Lawson Robertson.

In 1928 the American team captured eight track and field events, including the 400 and 1600 meter relays.

"We have some exceptionally good men but I cannot see how we are any better balanced than four years ago," Robertson declared after seeing approximately 50 of his charges safely housed in the picturesque international settlement and issuing orders for a resumption of training.

"I would say we had an excellent chance to win the following events:

100 and 200 meter dashes, 400 meter run, 400 meter relay, 1600 meter relay, high hurdles, pole vault, high jump and discus.

To be Outclassed
In Distance Runs

"Otherwise, the field is wide open. We will be outclassed by Finland, and others, in the distance races. Germany and Japan will furnish strong competition all along the line.

"Even with such fine competitors as Churchill and Metcalf in the javelin and Sexton in the shotput I would class our chances of winning as at least doubtful. McCluskey will have a good chance, too, in the steeplechase."

Robertson and his staff of coaching aides reported the American squad in excellent condition, except for a few minor ailments. Ben Eastman, because of a slight touch of sinus trouble developing from a cold, did not accompany the remainder of the squad from Palo Alto.

Pat Halliwell, Harvard miler and main hope in the 1500, also has a cold.

Few on Hand to Greet Yank Team

The arrival of the main body of American track stars was marked by an almost complete absence of ceremony or formality, by contrast with the reception and parade incident to the welcoming of the German forces, 100 strong. A negro delegation was at the railroad station to tender a demonstration for the dusky sprint star, Ralph Metcalf and Eddie Tolan, among others, but these two had proceeded by other means to the Olympic village and welcomed turned to Ed Gordon, Iowa neer broad jumper.

Boyer is in Quarter Final Round; Lad and Veteran Go 3 Under Par in Match

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 21—(AP)—The spirit with which the municipal golfer takes his game was shown by six extra-hole rounds today in the Eleventh National Public Links Golf tournament.

Two 19-hole matches were played in the first round and three 19-hole and one 20-hole match in the second round before the victors could be determined.

The victors who will go into the third round tomorrow are: Upper bracket, Ade Fordham, St. Paul, versus Talbot Boyer, Portland, Ore.; Joe Nichols, Long Beach, Calif., versus Pete Miller, Chicago.

Lower bracket, Oliver C. Sleppey, Santa Monica, Calif., versus R. L. Miller, Jacksonville, Fla.; Al Campbell, Seattle, versus Curtis Bryan, Jacksonville, Fla.

Bryan, only 18 years old, defeated William C. Jelfie, 46, Los Angeles, 1 up in 18 holes, each carding 69, or three under par, despite the fact Bryan had a one-stroke penalty for taking up a divot within a club's length of the ball. He was four under par at the time. A comparison of other first round cards showed Jelfie and Bryan could have won 13 of any other 18 matches and been dormie three on three other winners.

Pete Miller, Chicago, went 20 holes to beat Irving Goddard, Los Angeles, 1 up in the second round. In other 19-hole matches Boyer beat R. E. Wiggins, Oakland, Cal., in the second round and Andrew Szwedko, Pittsburgh, eliminated Vernon Letzler, Akron, Ohio, in the first round.

Two 18-hole rounds will be played tomorrow with the 36-hole final Saturday.

However, there's a lot of interest in the series, which means so much in the Coast league race. And so we made special arrangements with Associated Press to line us in by-line bulletins on the games. You may call and find out how it's going, beginning about 8:45. The number is 9101.
