SUNDAY GAMES ARE ONE-SIDED

Turner Defeated 11 to 3;
Grand Ronde Wins Over
Stayton 11 to 2

Woodburn won the Cascade league championship Sunday by defeating Turner 11 to 3 in the final game of the playoff between north and south division champions, but the Mid-Willamette Valley league playoff moved into a three-way deadlock when Grand Ronde defeated Stayton 11 to 2.

In the game at Turner the Woodburn boys collected 16 hits off McCully and Russell while Beck was holding the Turner boys to 11, well separated. Beck's support also was considerably better, and he struck out seven to one for McCully and two for Russell.

At Stayton two Grand Ronde players, E. Hudson and E. Larson, hit home runs and the visitors collected 15 hits in all. A. Dorris held the Stayton batsmen to four blows and struck out eight. Grand Ronde will play at Gervais in the next game. Each team has now won one and lost one in the three-way playoff.

Texas - Arizona League Expires

GLOBE, ARIZ., July 25—(AP)—The Arizona baseball league, which has been a sick patient for some weeks, expired

CURT COMMENTS

A factor which sometimes may tend to discourage occasional golfers who are not members of a club, is the lack of formal competition which they may enter. Striving to find out if this is the case, the Salem Golf club this week is trying out a plan which will give non-members as well as members an opportunity to compete—even though it is a contest in which skill may play little part.

Here's the idea: all players are asked to turn in 18-hole cards. They need not be attested, as even honesty is no fact or here. Everybody will be playing to a blind bogey. The one who comes closest to that unknown score wins, and the prize is a golf club. The "tournament" starts today and ends Sunday night.

Andy Peterson celebrated the fourth of July in Tokyo by pitching a three-hit 11-inning game and driving in the winning run himself. This was against the championship Rik Kio team. Andy's drive hit the center field fence on the fly.

Rain has prevented many of the games in which Andy was scheduled to play, but he figured in a 14-inning affair a few days later and smacked out a triple, then scored on an out-field fly with the winning run.

At present Andy is somewhere in Manchuria or Korea with the barnstorming team of which he is a member, but will return to Japan in August.

If Andy had dropped in by plane from the orient at Olinger field about the 12th inning Sunday, he'd have been welcome.

peacefully today. President Fred A. Nathan after a telephone conference with league directors decided to suspend activities.

"Due to the unsatisfactory financial arrangements in the clubs," Nathan said, "The Arizona-Texas league will suspend today."

Sunday's Games

Eugene, 5; Albany, 4.
Bend 20, Pacific Outfitting, 11.

Fans who had dinner dates at 6 o'clock sharp fidgeted but stayed, and the rest remained firmly rooted to their seats, while the Salem Senators and West Side Babes battled through 14 innings on Olinger field Sunday afternoon. Ten scoreless innings after the bulk of the scoring had been crowded into the first three, were fittingly broken by a home run, which would have made it perfect except that it was a West Side homer that smacked it—Koch, third baseman. There were two men on bases at the time so West Side won 7 to 4.

Twenty-two men left on bases—that tells the story of the Senators' defeat. The paths were occupied at the close of every inning excepting the fifth and 13th, and twice, in the tenth and 12th, they were loaded.

Down in the Tenth
Failure to squeeze one man home in the tenth was the real heartbreak, for the Senators got three men on with nobody down. It was at that point that Treadway Charles, who had hurled acceptably for the Babes up to that point, was yanked in favor of an extremely juvenile pitcher named Brown. Dwight Adams was nipped at the plate on an attempted squeeze. Kitchen popped out and Scales fled out to ruin that big opportunity.

When the bases were filled in the 12th there were two down and Erickson fouled out to the catcher. Two men reached. But this year Sarazen stepped out in earnest. He traveled to England and not only took the crown at Prince's, but broke all records, including the Jonesian ones, by several strokes.

Then he returned to America, and on the difficult Fresh Meadow course in Flushing, Long Island, he put on the greatest exhibition of golf in history. The last twenty-eight holes he covered in 100. A hundred shots for twenty-eight holes! Twelve under even four! He needed to approximate that pace to win after one had round, and by coming through he stamped himself as one of the greatest competitive athletes in the entire history of sport.

At this writing the New York Yankees have a commanding lead in first place in the American league. Why?

Playing the greatest baseball of

in the 14th, but "sky-balls" again stopped the rally.

On the other hand West Side's triumph came when conditions were not so auspicious—there were men on first and second and two down when Koch's long drive to right field broke the deadlock.

Scoring Concentrated
In Three Innings
The Senators had scored three in the first inning on two walks, a single by Scales and Gribble's two batters. Edwards scored on a squeeze play in the second, no hits figuring. Edwards, however, hit cleanly twice in the later innings to keep the rallies alive.

Three two baggers, by Joe Gordon, Garretson and Jack Gordon, gave the Babes two runs in the first and they got two more in the third on a two batter by Koch, a single by Jack Gordon and an error. In the regular nine innings, each team got seven hits.

MRS. ERL FULGHAM CHAMPION OF POLK

Mrs. Erl Fulgham defeated Miss Marjorie Jackson 2 and 1 Monday to win the women's championship in the Polk county golf tournament which is being conducted on the Oak Knoll course. Mrs. Fulgham shot a snappy 87 which would be a good score in men's competition almost anywhere; and Miss Jackson is also entitled to some plaudits for providing the winner a close match while playing with a sprained wrist. The match would not have been played at this time except that Miss Jackson is leaving for an extended stay in Portland and it was the only opportunity. Her score was 95.

Both contestants played close to par on the three and four par holes, lacking only the distance that would keep them in that class on the long fairways.

The men's tournament is proceeding with numerous upsets and a lot of interest.

INTERMEDIATES OF OLINGER WIN PAIR

Olinger intermediates defeated Lincoln boys in two straight games to increase their lead in the playground series by six full games. They won the first game 4 to 1 and the second 3 to 2. Both were played on the Olinger field.

Gus Moore, in charge of boys' activities at Olinger, announced yesterday he had picked his team for the contest to be played Friday, instead of Thursday, at Corvallis. The local team will be composed of six Olinger and three Lincoln playground players, who will meet the best Corvallis has to offer in the way of a playground team. The game will be at 6:30 o'clock.

Word from Corvallis is that as many as 500 persons have come out in the early evening to watch the playground ball games, and it is presumed as large a crowd will be on hand to witness the tilt with Salem boys. Dr. L. E. Barlick and Ben Pade have volunteered transportation for the local. For the intermediates games yesterday the line-up was:

Olinger: 1st.....Lincoln 1
Stubberfield.....1st.....Earl
Glaser.....2nd.....McNamara
Mason.....3rd.....Gabriel
Hemann.....1st.....Bahlburg
Hoffert.....2nd.....Ellis
Black.....1st.....McKay
Allbright.....p.....O'Reilly
P. Nichols.....1st.....King
Randall.....1st.....Kemp
H. Nichols.....1st.....Estlin

In the second game, Allbright played second and Hoffert pitched for Olinger, and Estlin pitched and O'Reilly played centerfield for Lincoln.

Lincoln playground girls have challenged the Olinger girls to a ball game, so Mrs. Vivian Bartholomew, one of the Olinger directors, lined up a team yesterday and a few practices will be held before the battle is staged. More interest at Olinger field today will center in preparation for the Pet and Circus day events for tomorrow afternoon.

CORVALLIS TOSSERS COMING WEDNESDAY

The Corvallis baseball team, which at present includes a number of star players who happen to be in Corvallis attending coaching school at O. S. C., will come here Wednesday afternoon to play the Salem Senators. The game will start at 5:15.

"Hap" Hafenfeldt, "Rodie" Lamb and "Mush" Torsion, regular residents of Corvallis, will be here along with a number of these coaches who know the game and can play it.

"Doby" Wood who pitched against the Wichita girls' team last week, will be given a more thorough test of his ability when he takes the mound against Corvallis. Wood's arm was in poor condition early in the season and he has not done much hurling, but it seems to have no kinks now.

BENEFIT KITBALL GAME IS TONIGHT

The benefit kitball game whereby participants hope to raise a fund to help out Catcher Goodenough of the Maytag team who broke his leg in a game several weeks ago, is scheduled for tonight at 6:30 on the Willamette field.

Maytag, which won the Kitball championship, will play Adolph's All-Stars, an aggregation picked from among the stronger players of the other league teams.

This is an excellent opportunity for fans who have not witnessed this exciting sport, to get an eyeful and at the same time help out a deserving cause. Goodenough has been to considerable hospital expense in addition to his loss of time from work.

YIELDING to none in their enthusiasm as fans of sport, the Italian followers of American games are having a big year.

One by one the sons of sunny Italy have pushed themselves to the fore. An Italian dominates golf. In the ring divisions suited to the typical Italian of small stature, the countenances are nearly all those of noble Romans or gallant Sicilians.

And on the baseball diamond, young men of Italian descent are carving new slices of fame for their noble race.

When Gene Sarazen first took a golf club in hand, he had no racial traditions in the game behind him. Golf had never interested Italians in their own clime. It was a Scotch game, purely and simply.

But Gene started as a caddy, liked the glamour which surrounded the professional who occasionally hauled him out, and started trying out the strokes on a back lot.

He won the American open in 1922, beating Bobby Jones, and then settled down to the capture of purely professional titles.

But this year Sarazen stepped out in earnest. He traveled to England and not only took the crown at Prince's, but broke all records, including the Jonesian ones, by several strokes.

Then he returned to America, and on the difficult Fresh Meadow course in Flushing, Long Island, he put on the greatest exhibition of golf in history. The last twenty-eight holes he covered in 100. A hundred shots for twenty-eight holes! Twelve under even four! He needed to approximate that pace to win after one had round, and by coming through he stamped himself as one of the greatest competitive athletes in the entire history of sport.

At this writing the New York Yankees have a commanding lead in first place in the American league. Why?

Playing the greatest baseball of his distinguished career, Tony Lazzeri, "The Walloping Wop," is credited by all the experts with keeping the Yanks up there. And Tony, almost single-handed, gave the Yanks their 1926 and 1927 pennants, after he was put on the big time by the late Miller Huggins.

In boxing there are many sterling names with the Italian flavor. At the present time there are Billy Petrolle, the famous Fargo Express, greatest fighting man for his weight and inches in the world. Frankie Petrolle, the second section of the Fargo Express, who recently battered his way to a victory over Bat Battalino, whose family certainly did not hail from north of the Alps. There is Sammy Fuller, and there are so many more of pure Italian blood that it would be useless to try to list them here.

Italians all, out to prove that the Caesars, Napoleon, Mussolini and the rest were not rulers by accident—but by virtue of their Italian lineage.
