Home Loan Bank Law Details Not Yet Known Here

Details on the operation of the new home loan banks bill have not been received locally by Salem's savings and loan associations. The managers of the local groups are undetermined whether they will seek to rediscount any of their mortgages with the new banks. Only one of the associations has been doing any borrowing from local banks and such loans as it has made have been cut down by half in the last nine months through collection from its members and payment to the banks. Some doubt exists here if mortgages will be released by the state supervisors to permit rediscounting. Under the Oregon law the mortgages of the savings and loan associations must be placed with the state corporation department for safe-keeping.
