Republicans Hatched Plot To Embarrass Bourbon Candidate Claim

of legal defense. Walker, a tammany sachem, openly charged the entire city inquiry was motivated by the republican party.

"Since the day of my birth," he said at another point, "I have lived my life in the open. What ever shortcomings I have are known to everyone—but disloyalty to my native city, official dishonesty or corruption form no part of those shortcomings."

He condemned Seabury's methods. He denounced Seabury's "manhunt," his "dragnets," his "star chamber proceedings," and his "plan of calumny."

Blames Republicans For Evil "Plotting"

"This partisan political committee," he wrote, "was created for the express purpose, by sensational charges and if possible by spectacular testimony, to blacken the reputation of the city administration and thus divert public attention from those responsible for the dreadful condition of affairs throughout the nation."

He also intimated Seabury's fifteen "conclusions" had been timed so as to embarrass Gov. Roosevelt just before his political future was to be determined by the democratic national convention.

THE GRAND
Today—Buck Jones in "Ridin' for Justice"

THE HOLLYWOOD
Today—William Haines in "Are You Listening?"

"Grand Hotel, people come and people go, but nothing ever happens" and so began the much heralded play "Grand Hotel" with Lewis Stone, transformed by make-up into a disfigured, shell shocked doctor speaking these words of utter ennui.

But everything happens and all that is said about the play has not been too much recommendation. It is life—everyday life as it is lived hour by hour in hotel, grogshop, or places of business. The struggle for money, the power of love and the mysterious and unreasonable way in which it comes, the little human characteristics, the petty meanness of human nature, hope, disappointment, failure, thwarted desire, deceptions, surprising honesty, poor gentlemen and rich bores, all are viewed with such deft rapidity that the audience lives the lives of many people, follows the thread of many stories, and come to a stop at the same door by which it entered. Acting with which none but the chronic fault finder could be displeased, photography that is a work of art, sound that is excellent, the play moves with such easy, natural flow that at the end the feeling is that one has taken a little detour in his own living and lived for a space of time the lives of his neighbors—a thing which all humans would like to do at times just to see "what the other people are thinking about and what makes them do as they do."

You will like this play—you will remember it—you will see people every day to remind you of the brilliant work of the characters. You will wonder how Walter Beery could ever be such an excellent Crawford money king; you will wonder how Lionel Barrymore could ever be himself after playing the part of Kringlein, the precious old invalid who wanted to live a few hours of real life before death cheated him of life. Garbo, Crawford, Stone, John Barrymore, Herbolth—and others—which to give most credit? Lionel Barrymore first I say, and then any choice. Beery perhaps shows the greatest versatility.

Two more chances to see the play—this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Elsinore. Last night the house was packed, and all must have felt their money's worth was received.

CALIFORNIA WILL RECOGNIZE TAGS

Oregon 1931-32 motor vehicle license plates will be recognized by California registration stations up to midnight, July 31, when the moratorium for the purchase of licenses expires, Russell Bevans, registrar of vehicles for the state of California, advised Governor Meier in a telegram received at the executive department Thursday.

Bovans' message was in reply to a telegram sent recently by Governor Rolph of California of the moratorium and requesting the cooperation of the California officials.

Reports were received at the executive department here that Oregon motorists whose cars were equipped with old license plates were being compelled to purchase California licenses upon entering that state.

Governor Meier announced Wednesday that the moratorium would not be extended beyond July 31.

The Thrill of majestic scenery in CHALET-BUNGALOW CAMPS

IT'S worth the cost of the entire trip to lounge on the porch at one of the seven Canadian Pacific Chalet-Bungalow Camps and see the sun go down behind the snow covered peaks of the Canadian Rockies... then watch the moon cast its silvery reflection on those same peaks.

But, should that not be enough, between sun-up and sunset there's every type of outdoor recreation to be enjoyed—hiking... fishing... horseback... boating... swimming... trail riding... motoring. And at night a wonderful campfire and romantic stories of the mountains.

Vacations at the Chalet-Bungalow Camps are moderate in cost. Low Summer Rail Fares on the Canadian Pacific Railway from Vancouver to the Canadian Rockies are effective—with liberal stopover privileges. All the family will enjoy the "easy clothes" comfort that prevails. Call now for the "Auto Tours in the Canadian Rockies" folder that tells all about where to go and how to get there, by motor or rail.
