EFFORTS OF REDS FLOATED

Police Prevent Meeting in Johnstown Though Mayor Orders Them Away; two Of Agitators Arrested

Spread of Pestilence Held Imminent; Veterans are In Sorry Plight; Butler Advises "Go Home"

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—While police clashed with communists in downtown Johnstown tonight, the spectre of pestilence hovered over the suburban bivouac of 7,000 weary and hungry bonus marchers.

Word of excitement in Central park caused hardly a flutter in the squalid camp on the outskirts of the city, where a tattered horde of grimy men, women and children wailed and slumbered beneath the stars.

Down town, a crowd of several thousand jammed the streets when word spread that "Reds" would attempt to hold a meeting in defiance of police orders.

Police followed every movement of the radicals—there were only a half dozen of them—as they tried to maneuver into position to start their meeting.

Suddenly a man eluded police for a moment and mounted a statue in the park.

"My friends—" he began, but his words died away as a "flying wedge" of state and city police seized him.

The prisoner gave his name as George Hart, of Johnstown. He was held on a charge of disorderly conduct and suspicion. In his pockets he had literature indicating that a demonstration "for exercise men" was scheduled for August 1.

Hart's colleagues fled with police in hot pursuit. All save Frank Garlock, and suspicion. In his pockets he had literature indicating that a demonstration "for exercise men" was scheduled for August 1.

At a critical moment when the crowd was in a ferment of excitement, two factions of the city administration clashed.

Sheriff Homer George, advised that the situation was tense and that trouble might be expected, conferred with Chief of Police Charles E. Briney and they rushed reserves to the scene of disorder.

Mayor Telle Police To Leave the Scene As they reached city hall, the reserves were met by Mayor Eddie McCloskey, who ordered them to return to the station. He said he felt that the appearance of many of the officers would only make the situation worse.

His ire aroused, McCloskey plunged into the midst of the men shouting commands that they remain in the streets. He showed several of them, Grumbler, they stalked away. Later about 15 returned and tackled the job of clearing traffic lanes in the jammed streets.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The spectre of disease moves tonight through the down-at-heel camp of the bonus expeditionary force on the outskirts of Johnstown.

Medical investigators said after a tour of the bivouac that conditions are "bad—very bad" and "dangerous" to the health of the campers. More than 7,000 men, women and children are encamped and others are arriving hourly.

Signs of dissatisfaction and impatience reared themselves today. Complaints to Matthew Burke, finance officer, and R. B. Elison, national contact officer, were running so fast that some men have not had any food for two days.

Leaders of the B.E.F. received in a letter from General Smalley, Butler admonishing them to arrange for the veterans to return to their home states. Butler wired from Newton Square, Pa., in reply to an invitation to visit the camp.
