

BANKRUPTCY ACT'S ABUSE IS OPPOSED

Credit Association Adopts Resolution Aimed at State Employees

In an effort to prevent abuse of the bankruptcy act, particularly by employees of the various state departments, members of the Salem Credit Association yesterday adopted a resolution asking that state employees who contemplate bankruptcy submit their problems to the department head, and that the department head cooperate with the local credit bureau or otherwise help to work out a plan for payment of just debts.

The resolution points out that certain employees have resorted to filing of petitions in bankruptcy to liquidate obligations they owe retail merchants, professional men and other creditors, which creditors are taxpayers of the state and so indirectly help pay salaries of state employees.

The resolution, copies of which will be submitted to state department heads, continues:

"... the members of this association realize that there are during these times hundreds of men and women out of work who, if they had positions, would make an honest endeavor to pay their obligations to their creditors, and whereas, the members of this association realize that there are instances where individuals have become involved through illness, misfortune, and other adversities over which they have no control, and that bankruptcy is the only solution to their difficulties unless some other plan can be worked out whereby such individuals can center their obligations in one place, and pay a stipulated amount monthly to be prorated among their respective creditors, therefore

"Be it resolved, . . . that this matter be submitted to the heads of the various state departments, and that the heads of those departments be requested to suggest to their employees that if and when an employee finds himself financially involved the employee place a statement of his financial condition before the head of the department, and that the head of the department either cooperate with the local credit bureau, or otherwise take up the matter of the employee's financial condition with his creditors and endeavor to work out a plan whereby the employee can retain a sufficient amount of his salary for his necessary expenses, and apply the remainder on his obligations."

CHIROPRACTORS TO PICNIC IN 3 TOWNS

Members of the Tri-county Chiropractors' association will hold a picnic in three cities in one evening on August 19. First course will be served at Stayton by Dr. and Mrs. W. V. Adams, the second at Salem by Mrs. Stapp and Mrs. J. Harry Moran, and the third at Silverton by Mrs. A. L. V. Smith. This will be the fourth of a series of picnics held by the organization this summer. Last Sunday the third was held on the ranch of Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Powell of McMinnville. Salem members present were Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Hockett, Dr. and Mrs. Stapp and Dr. and Mrs. Moran; Stayton, Dr. and Mrs. Adams; Silverton, Dr. and Mrs. Smith.

Dr. Smith, recently elected president of the state association, has given the office of secretary in the tri-county group to Dr. Powell.

At least the one week of summer was intense and certainly concentrated while it lasted. Now with fall setting in, thoughts of politicians more than ever will be turned toward the November elections. Legion members will point to the national convention in Portland, and the opening of school is not far removed.

Also it will be only a couple more weeks before the first of the hop picking season opens. Cold weather and rain immediately make one think of the fall activities again rather than looking forward to any vacations which might still be due. Yesterday was a typical wintry day, and it seems so hard to start in on the furnace again.

Dr. R. M. Alley, in charge of the Indian tuberculosis hospital at Lapwai, Idaho, is at the Oregon state tuberculosis hospital on a month's leave of absence studying the system of care and treatment of patients used by Dr. G. C. Bellinger. He is assisting in the work while observing the workings of the institution.

Dr. Alley said he came here because of the high recommendation attained by the Oregon institution, and he is very well pleased with the information he is obtaining under Dr. Bellinger. Alley says there are no state tuberculosis hospitals in Idaho. He has 130 Indian children in the federal institution at Lapwai.

In discussing the Oregon tuberculosis situation Dr. Bellinger yesterday said a survey revealed about a 10 per cent increase in tubercular cases in Oregon, most of them being treated by state and private institutions. This increase he lays to lack of proper food in some instances and lack of proper care received in others.

A waiting list of 30 still remains at the hospital. Under normal times, he said, the state institution since the completion of the new building, would be able to more than care for the needs in Oregon, along with the hospital at The Dalles. Many patients are now being received at the state institutions that before would go to private hospitals.

State Senator Colon Eberhard, who has a fight on his hands for reelection to the upper house from LaGrande in the November campaign, was a visitor at the state capitol yesterday. Colon said the prospects of his returning to the session next January are looking brighter and said he would be back in the harness.

The liver population at the state penitentiary was increased by three from Marion county the past few weeks when Harry Expelling was sentenced to life yesterday. The third recruit in as many weeks was added while the state parole board was in session considering the pleas of others who think they have had enough.

"Lower and Higher Education Get Together." What a headline that would be. At any rate such was the case for a time yesterday when we busted into Charlie Howard's office. There were Mr. Howard, superintendent of public instruction, and Dr. Lindsay, secretary of the board of higher education, talking about something or other and quite agreeably.

It's interesting to note how quickly credit for stories is grabbed. Tuesday night The Statesman carried a story that Dr. Zook, proposed chancellor, would be here Friday, and it obtained this information exclusively. It was sent thence to the Oregonian, but the editors up there changed it so the Oregonian would get the credit for receiving the information. And yesterday we read it again, this time the story out of Portland said the "United Press learned today." Figure it out.

We were among the fortunate ones invited (?) to enjoy the first birthday party of the state police yesterday afternoon when some fine cake, ice cream and coffee were served. The staff was treated with George Alexander, deputy superintendent, officiating with the knife. Charlie Pray went to Portland and missed the event.

The big cake with a single candle on it was presented to the state police by the Portland Kiwanis club Tuesday in honor of the first year of its existence, making a successful year. Joe Deane, senator from Malheur county, made the presentation speech when the cake was presented to representatives of the department in Portland.

But that isn't the only anniversary observed in the police department. Today George Alexander and Mrs. Alexander observe their 30th wedding anniversary. They were married at Hillsboro. Prior to becoming assistant to Pray in managing the state police, George was prohibition director for Oregon.

Races, Judging Delayed by Rain

Because of rain, the bicycle races and judging of girls' handiwork at Olinger playgrounds Wednesday was postponed. The two events will be held on Friday if the weather improves, the races starting at 1:30 o'clock and the judging at 2:30.

LEGION CONVENTION MAGAZINE APPEARS

Salem and Marion County Get Special Publicity Through Pictures

First copies of the official American Legion convention pictorial souvenir, an attractive 42-page magazine carrying several pages of color work, were distributed here yesterday. The magazine, The Pacific Northwest, takes its name from the section of the country which it pictures. The front cover, in yellow, blue, green and brown, carries the Multnomah Falls in color and a welcome to the American Legion, along with the official emblem of the Legion. The back cover, also in color, pictures the end of the Lewis and Clark trail at Seaside and a harvest scene in eastern Oregon.

Marion county and Crater Lake occupy the only two-page spreads in the book. Crater Lake is done in color. Five of the Silver Creek falls, the Mt. Angel cooperative creamery, berry fields at Woodburn, Mt. Angel college and seminary, fish from the Santiam at Stayton, a Silverton residential district and a forest scene near Stayton occupy one sheet of the Marion county spread, while the other is devoted to scenes in Salem. The latter include the state capitol, hopping near Salem, roses in Salem parkings, Willamette university, flax harvest and Gilbert orchards.

Forty thousand copies of the magazine, designed to advertise Oregon and Washington particularly to the hosts that will come to Portland in September for the National Legion convention, are coming off the press this week.

In sale of the magazines, a substantial commission will go to the American Legion convention commission, and several hundred unemployed service men in Oregon will be given jobs of selling the souvenir on a commission rating.

Portland Legion men, F. W. Smith, R. C. Newcomb and J. W. Fitzpatrick, who are handling the valley distribution, started sales here yesterday.

The souvenir is on display at the Spa and the Senator hotel here.

GOES TO IDAHO
NORTH SANTIAM, Aug. 10.—Mrs. A. Schlemmer left Sunday for Colwell, Idaho, where she will be the guest of her daughter for several weeks.

A BIT GRIMY

Mrs. Theilma Thompson is shown as she was released from the Dixie Bee mine at Terre Haute, Ind., after hiding in a boiler for two days while the mine was besieged by strikers. The woman had accompanied her husband, a non-union worker, to the mine and was trapped when armed unionists besieged it.

AUDITION CONTEST SET FOR TONIGHT

Two more names were added yesterday to the list of aspirants for honors in the Atwater-Kent auditions to be held tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Knight Memorial church, 19th and Ferry streets. This brings the total to 16 soloists, of whom seven are women. The auditions is open to the public without charge.

The last three to sign are: Deane Sheehy and Donald Bernard. Judges will select two, a man and woman, at the audition tonight, the local winners to participate in the state auditions in Portland next month.

Others who will compete for the coveted positions are: E. H. Hobson, Margaret Simms, Eric Potter, Josephine Albert, Lillian Scott, Wendell Robinson, William Moses, Kenneth Abbot, Martha Flier, Bernice Rickman, Richard Smart, Ralph Langley of Silverton and Willis Thurman from Scott Mills.

The local auditions is sponsored by the chamber of commerce, and is the fifth annual one to be held here.
