BROOKS TO AURORA WORK BIDS CALLED

Widening, Realignment and Shoulder Graveling of 9.4 Miles Planned

Grade widening, realignment and shoulder graveling on 9.4 miles of the Brooks-Aurora section of the Pacific highway are included in the call for bids to be opened by the state highway commission in Portland Wednesday, August 31, it was announced at the highway department offices Thursday. A bridge over Silver creek on the Silver Creek Falls secondary highway also figures in the call for bids.

Bids for 16 other highway and bridge projects will be opened by the commission at its August meeting, as follows:

Baker county — Approximately 4.15 miles of grading on the Lime-Huntington section of the Old Oregon Trail.

Benton county — Seven-tenths miles of grading on the Bummer creek-Lobster mountain section of secondary highway No. 201.

Paving Planned on Oregon City Route

Clackamas county—One mile of grading on the Jennings Lodge and Clackamas river sections of the East Portland-Oregon City highway.

Clackamas county — Approximately 5½ miles of cement concrete pavement on the Milwaukee-Oregon City section of the East Portland-Oregon City highway.

Curry county — Grading and bar-run gravel surfacing of 1.1 miles of first Hughes section of secondary highway No. 250.

Deschutes county — Pit run gravel surfacing, involving 4.64 miles of Horse ridge-Millican section of Central Oregon highway.

Douglas county — Construction of 12.6 miles of screened gravel surfacing of Paradise creek-Red bridge section of Umpqua highway.

Harney county—Fourteen miles of pit run gravel surfacing of Lake county line-Silver creek section of Central Oregon highway.

Sherman county — Grading of 5.2 miles on west unit of Biggs-John Day river section of Columbia River highway.

Sherman county — Grading of 4.65 miles on east unit of Biggs-John Day river section of Columbia River highway.

Washington and Yamhill counties—Approximately 2.1 miles of cement concrete pavement, 20 feet wide, on Multnomah county line-Middleton and West Dayton-Lafayette sections of West Side Pacific highway.

Bridge on Molalla Route is Included

Clamkamas county — Bridge over Canyon creek on the Woodburn-Mt. Hood secondary highway No. 161 about seven miles northeast of Molalla.

Coos county — Bridge over south fork of Coquille river on the Powers secondary highway No. 242 about two and one-half miles north of Powers.

Lane county—Construction and maintenance building at McKenzie bridge on the McKenzie highway 50 miles east of Springfield.

Polk county — Widen bridge over north fork of Ash creek on the West Side Pacific highway, about two miles north of Monmouth.

Yamhill county — Trestle over Palmer creek on the Lafayette secondary highway No. 154, five miles north of Hopewell.

In connection with all of these projects, excepting maintenance building at McKenzie bridge, widening bridge over north fork of Ash creek, and those involving work on secondary state highway, skilled and unskilled labor shall not be permitted to work more than 30 hours in any one week.

The successful bidders will be required to pay a wage of not less than 50 cents an hour for unskilled labor and not less than 60 cents an hour for unskilled labor.

The cost of the projects was estimated at $800,000.

WOODBURN SCHOOL BUSSES WILL RUN

WOODBURN, Aug. 18.—After a session of the Woodburn school board which lasted to midnight Wednesday, the announcement was made Thursday that the high school busses will run this fall, as they have in former years. The busses will run as usual until the present litigation concerning the problem is cleared up. The matter is now in the hands of the state supreme court.

Of course when the busses run there will be as large an enrollment as before, making it necessary to hire about the same number of teachers as last year. However, the faculty members who will be needed only if the busses continue running will be hired as substitutes until the case in the courts is finally decided.

JOHN M. SEHON, deputy insurance commissioner, is in San Francisco this week to check on insurance companies in which Oregon people are interested. During his absence A. H. Averill, commissioner, is doing double duty. Mr. Averill still uses a crutch to get around as a result of the automobile accident several months ago.

The supreme court headquarters will be even more quiet the last two weeks of this month. Arthur Benson, clerk, is taking his vacation as are also Miss Beatrice Hartung, his secretary, and several others in the office. The justices of the supreme court take the entire month off and no opinions will be rendered until September.

Arthur Benson has been clerk of the court for many years and frequently reviews events which occurred many years ago. He is spending his vacation by visiting Bend, Klamath Falls and Crescent City, thus making the loop. He was formerly a resident of Klamath Falls, but hasn't been there for 21 years nor at Crescent City for 30 years.

Charles M. Thomas, public utilities commissioner, is busy this week working on the order affecting rates and charges of the Northwestern Electric company of Portland. The order is expected to be completed the last of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas spent last week end at Breitenbush.

Bids were called this week for the construction of a $26,000 hospital building at the state feebleminded institution. Bids will be opened September 2. The hospital structure, much needed at the institution over which Dr. Roy Bird is superintendent and an institution which has gained an excellent reputation, will be constructed out of the savings effected the past two years, it was learned.

The highway department appears to be the center of attraction in news development the past few days. Right on top of the announcement of the selection of the Wolf Creek route as the location of the Portland-to-the-sea shortcut, the commission advertises for bids on more than three-quarters of a million dollars worth of work.

This work which will be awarded at the August 31 meeting of the commission in Portland, includes 17 different projects in about all sections of the state. Marion county is interested chiefly in the widening of the Pacific highway from Brooks, the terminus of the present contract, into Woodburn.

There is always one sure way of learning whether or not a column is read—and that is to leave it out. We confess that was not the reason this feature was omitted yesterday, but since it failed to appear many a query and knowing smile accompanied the question, "Where was the 'dumb' column this morning?" It is sorta gratifying.

At first we likewise were surprised that it didn't appear, then we thought the management didn't think it worth printing so left it out, but later we were chagrined, to put it mildly, to find it safely stowed away in our pocket along with some letters that should have been mailed. Absentmindedness does not confine itself to professors.

O. R. Lindbeck, brother of the dean of the capitol press room, finally arrived on the scene here to visit Al, after the latter had spent the greatest part of the day before meeting trains. O. R. is here from McCook, Neb., to visit his brother and family until the American Legion convention. It is said he never misses these conventions.

Tennis appears to be a dangerous game. At least two people who played late the day before appeared around the capitol buildings yesterday limping. A. L. Lindbeck, who has regretted not entering the Olympics, suffered a sprained knee after playing a game with Perry Owen, who likewise complained of a turned ankle. The game must be getting rough.

Senator Isaac Staples, the senator from Multnomah county who always has a flower in his lapel during sessions, was a visitor at the capitol yesterday. He is one member of the upper house who is vitally interested in state-aided institutions, and is perhaps one of the best informed men on charitable relief.

We have a lot of respect for and consider ourselves good friends of those gentlemen who represent the Southern Pacific railway in this section, but we couldn't help notice that if the present rate of notices received by the public utilities commissioner from that firm continues, there will be few station agencies left open in Oregon. Seven more will be closed shortly, they notify.

DAUER SUBSTITUTE NOT YET SELECTED

Definite arrangements for a physician to take Dr. C. C. Dauer's place in conducting county health department clinics this winter were not arrived at yesterday when the department executive committee met at the health center. It was left for Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, to work out the matter with health work leaders in the various towns of the county.

Probability is that physicians in these places will work in the clinic on a part time basis or do volunteer work. Dr. Douglas himself will assume added duties of some of the school clinics. It is possible the department will be forced to charge for certain of the clinic services.

Dr. Dauer, school physician, will leave next month to take a nine-months' course in public health work at Harvard university.

PIONEER MUSICIAN OF SALEM CALLED

In the obituary column of the Portland Journal Thursday appeared this notice: "Brown — August 18, Mamie P. Brown, aged 64 years, of 1014 Thurman street, mother of Major Vivian Z. Brown of this city. The remains are at Finley's Montgomery at 5th. Notice of funeral later.

Prof. Z. M. Parvin was for many years, in the eighties and nineties, the leading music teacher of this city, and was for a long time in charge of the music department of Willamette university. Mamie Parvin was his popular and talented daughter, who followed her father in teaching, and was engaged in other worth while endeavors. She was married and moved with her husband to Portland, where she has resided a long time, though keeping in touch with many friends here.

The funeral is announced, according to Dr. H. C. Epley, who received the information by telephone, for Saturday, August 20, at 2 o'clock, at the Unitarian church, Portland, where the body will lie in state from 1 to 2. A number of old friends will no doubt attend from this city and section.

The Parvin home in Salem, a musical center of former days, was on the northeast corner of Capitol and Chemeketa streets.

Miller-Norton Wedding Event Of Wednesday

WOODBURN, Aug. 18 — Surprising even a great number of their closest friends, Elizabeth Naomi Miller and LaVerne Norton were married Wednesday afternoon.

The bride graduated from Woodburn high school in the spring. She was a popular member of the student body and held a number of offices. Norton is also a Woodburn high school graduate, having finished in 1928. He was an active athlete, taking part in football, basketball and baseball.

Hiram Overton, local justice, performed the ceremony. Attendants were Miss Hilda Taufest and Barton Richmond.

Canada Scenery Impressive Even To Home People

Oftentimes wonderland spots of nature interest to persons many miles away, are too commonplace to those nearby. Lake Louise and Banff, Alberta, in the Canadian rockies are distinctly different in this respect, however. On weekends long Canadian Pacific excursion trains, filled to capacity run from Calgary to these two "gems of the Rockies."

From the west come hundreds of vacationists, taking advantage of modern railway and hotel service to enjoy rugged, color-ribbed and glacier-veined peaks, spire-pined mountain valleys.
