PAUL ZAHNISER BLANKS ACORNS

Five Errors Permit Rapid Scoring After Three Initial Innings

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Behr and the flashy pitching of Paul Zahniser, who allowed only seven scattered hits, the Portland Ducks defeated Oakland, 8 to 0, in tonight's ball game here.

Oakland took the three-game series, however, having won the first two games.

The Portland batsmen found Steingrat for a generous number of hits in his first game for the Oaks, but one of the chief contributing factors to the Portland score was the total of five Oakland errors.

Portland, failing to score in the first three innings, scored in every succeeding inning, two each in the fourth, sixth and seventh and one each in the fifth and eighth.

To make matters worse he issued two walks, one of them bringing in a run. Lieber finished the inning and brought in the winning run himself in the Reds' half of the eighth.

Seaver Burns up Rockford Turf to Reach Semi-Final; Opal Hill Stays in Race

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Charlie Seaver, one of Stanford's star football candidates for 1932, scored a touchdown from the kickoff in the quarter-finals of the western amateur golf championship today.

Blasing over the Rockford Country Club course with a record-equalling 66, Seaver staggered his 43-year-old rival, Arthur Bartlett of Ottumwa, Ia., in the morning for a 10 up lead and then romped away with his match in the afternoon to win 11 and 10. He was four shots under par.

Joining the Los Angeles player in the semi-final push for the crown last yesterday by Don Moe of Portland, Ore., are a trio of the best amateurs of the game, all of whom won by commanding margins, but with few less golf.

They are Gus Moreland of Dallas, the boy Seaver must tackle tomorrow; Johnny Lehman of Chicago, who captured the western crown in 1930 and drove into the semi-finals today for the fourth straight year, and his youthful hometown rival, Ira Couch, whom Johnny defeated 4 and 3 in his championship victory march at Beverly in 1930.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, reached the semi-final round today in defense of the women's western golf title, but only after a bitter, 21-hole battle with Jean Armstrong of Chicago.

The Chicago player had a one-hole lead at the end of nine holes, and added another at the start of the return journey. She slipped back, however, and only a sharply squared the match by the eighteenth. They halved the next two, but Mrs. Hill won the twenty-first and the match with a par five.

Mrs. Hill will meet Mrs. Tom Wallace of Tulsa, Okla., tomorrow. Mrs. Wallace advanced by a 2 and 1 victory over Mary Elisabeth Ford of Kansas City.

Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, upset Mrs. J. Walter Beyer of Tulsa, and will meet Mrs. Roy Greene of Glendale, Cal., in the other semi-final.

Mrs. Greene defeated Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago, two up.

SANTOS AND BECK FIGHT FAST DRAW

SEATTLE, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Tommy Santos, Los Angeles Filipino lightweight, and Phil Beck, Bellingham, fought a torrid draw in the six-round main event of a fight program at the White Center arena tonight.

After dropping the first two sessions, Santos opened up to take the third, broke even in the fourth and put matters on an all-square basis by winning the fifth. The final canto was even.

Pastor Calope, Los Angeles Filipino, drew with Lowell Curtis, White Center lightweight, in another six-round affair. The Filipino slugger started slow but came back strong in the latter half of the scrap.

Bert Flores, Manila featherweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Carlos Brown, Tulsa, Okla., when Brown suffered a broken thumb in the second of a scheduled four-rounder.

CURT COMMENTS

Sixteen pinch hitters were shoved into major league ball games Wednesday and not one of them hit safely. Not one even walked. We'd like to see some figures on the effectiveness of pinch hitters throughout a season.

In the world series last fall, 13 pinch hitters were used. Just one hit safely, Cramer of the Athletics in the last game. He drove in the two runs the A's got in that game. One of the pinch hitters walked. Naturally, it's the team that's behind that uses pinch hitters, and it so happened that no pinch hitter stepped up to the plate for the team that finally won the game.

Eleven pinch hitters saw service in the five-game world series in 1920, and not one of them hit. In the 1930 series, nine pinch hitters were in there and two, Moore of the Athletics and Fisher of the Cardinals, hit safely but neither figured in the run making. Two walked, but that didn't help either.

So in the last three world series, 32 pinch hitters produced three hits and two runs and helped in scoring no victories. Naturally, that's not much baseball to judge by. Most every fan has seen a pinch hitter go up and boom out a hit that won a game, but these figures, if typical, indicate that it isn't often.

The pinch hitter is on the spot. He's cold; he hasn't been in the fight, hasn't trimmed off the raw edges of his nerves through action. He hasn't seen any pitching. The pitcher is sure to bear down on him. Of course in a world series, he is under still heavier pressure. That may account for the fact that in the last three world series, pinch hitters have batted .107.

Most of the fellows taken out for pinch hitters have higher averages than that. But perhaps it doesn't spell anything in the matter of baseball strategy. When there's an almost infinitesimal chance to pull out a game, a pinch hitter who is ordinarily a good hitter, may be a better gamble than a pitcher who never hits much, or a left handed swinger to whom the portside flinger who is in there is poison. Yes, that may be so in spite of the handicap the pinch hitter is up against.
