PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26 (AP)—Portland defeated Sacramento, 7 to 2, in tonight's ball game here.

Bill Shores, Portland flinger who last week struck out 15 Seattle batters in one game for a new Coast night game record, continued on his fanning spree, sending 10 Sacramento players back to the bench with their bats felled by nothing more serious than fouls.

The Portland Ducks sailed the game away in the fourth inning with a five-run cluster, then added two more in the sixth. Sacramento collected both of its runs in the sixth inning.

Rookie Hits Homers
SEATTLE, Aug. 26 (AP)—Carl Maggett, recruit left fielder for the Tribe most of the season, slammed out his third home run clout in two days as the Indians won the series opener from Oakland, 5 to 3. Hal Hald, Tribe hurler, scattered the Oaks' six hits.

Maggett's circuit blow came in the third after Don Johnson had singled. The ball broke a light bulb used in night baseball deep in left field.

The "Walloper from Worcester"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

LOU HAS THE TORSO OF A HEAVY-WEIGHT AND THE LEGS OF A FLYWEIGHT!

McLARNIN TOOK A BAD PASTING FROM BROUILLARD!

HE WANTS A RETURN BOLT WITH FIELDS!

JIMMY "SHAMUS" McLARNIN, whom sports writers want to refer to as "the mightiest fighter of his weight and inches in ring history" and as the "Baby Faced Kid from Vancouver," is in New York begging for a fight. Sounds a bit incredible, but it's true. Jimmy, you know, or perhaps you missed the news recently, received for a fine pasting at the capable fists of Lou Brouillard, erstwhile champ of the welterweights, in a fifteen round match in New York.

It was "Shamus's" second defeat and it changed his plans considerably. McLarnin figured to return home after the Brouillard win and come back to New York later in the summer for a title bout with Champion Jackie Fields or with his perennial opponent Billy Petrolle. After that Jimmy planned to retire from the ring wars. 'T' now, soundly trounced by Brouillard, Jimmy is yelling for a return bout and it can't take place too soon for him. He feels that the year's lay-

ANDY SEES WARFARE

Bullets Buzz as Bandits Attack His Train ORIENT NO PARADISE

Chinese bandits' bullets buzzed close to the head of Andy Peterson, Salem's premier baseball player, recently in the trouble zone of Manchuria. It was learned here when Frank Bashor received a letter describing his experiences.

Andy, who is pitching and doubling as outfielder and slugger on a barnstorming team in the orient, has now returned to peaceful Japan; but while in the war-torn region north of Harbin, he didn't miss the sordid sight of distressed Manchoukoo; neither did he pass up the thrills of actual warfare.

With a vividness hinting that he could hold his own as a war correspondent if that occupation appeared to have more future than major league pitching, Andy describes his experiences: "This trip into Manchuria and Korea has been one I will never forget, but even at that I am certainly glad to be leaving there for the dust and dirt and filth was beginning to get me down. Too, even though we were given a shot in the arm for cholera, it is not so pleasant to live in a country where people are dying with such a disease...."

"On the evening of August 1 we took the night train for Dairen and believe me it was a hair-raising experience. About 11 o'clock I went to bed. About 2:30 a. m., however, I was awakened and found the train had stopped and all the lights were out. For a few seconds I couldn't figure out where I was or why I was there."

"But just about that time I came to my senses in a hurry; for almost directly over my head on top of the car a machine gun was turned loose and continued to pour forth for about a minute straight."

"Outside all around the train machine guns were firing, rifles were shooting, and pistols were in action. Bandits were raiding!"

"It was perfectly content to just lie there and listen because I doubt if I could have moved just then if I had tried. After a few seconds, however, I got up enough nerve to peek out of the window."

Just as if they did it on purpose to show us up, about half of the pinch hitters in the big leagues made a ke-d out hit Thursday. Also we were reminded of various pinch hitting feats, including that of Fitzpatrick of Portland who apparently couldn't be put out when he assumed that role the first part of this season.

There are those fellows who thrive just because of the extra pressure put on them such as the call to pinch hit. But we have watched box scores for a long time and have seen a good many blunders learned by a pinch hitter. The world series records we unearthed yesterday, still insist that it's a tough spot and a long shot gamble.

Crows of men going around town with paint brushes, marking the curb in front of houses, remind us of something out of the bible—it's a bit vague but as we recall it was a highly serious matter having to do with the passover or something. Anyway they didn't pass over our lot without leaving a dab of white paint, and whatever it means were elected.

We hope the athletic management at Salem high has taken official notice of the concrete-like surface of the baseball diamond, which is also part of the gridiron at Olinger field. It will take several loads of sawdust, or maybe some blasting, to get that portion of the field in condition to catch falling gridgers without breaking their bones this fall.

PETE HEBO WINNER
NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Fete Hebo, Seminole Indian from Florida, easily outpointed Jimmy McNamara, New York welterweight, in a six round match at the Long Beach stadium tonight. Hebo weighed 139 pounds; McNamara 146.

Her opponent in tomorrow's 36-hole final will be Miss Jean Placemann, Portland, who today defeated Miss Jessie Lasater, Walla Walla, Wash., 7 and 6.

WILL GRAPPLE HERE TUESDAY

Meet Jack Mitchell of Longview, rugged (as you can see) wrestler who will make his first appearance here Tuesday night in a one-hour match with Pat Callahan of Butte, Mont., preliminary to the Bob Myers-Chet Wiles affair.

Moreland stood out, as an almost prohibitive favorite to win the title because of his generally better golf and tournament experience. Couch's only championship was the western junior 11 years ago, while Moreland has been rapping at golf's hall of fame several years. He won the trans-Mississippi title in his last important start.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 26 (AP)—Winning their semi-final matches with difficulty today, Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, defending titleholder, and Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., went into the championship round of the women's western golf tournament.

Mrs. Hill got the jump on Mrs. Tom Wallace of Tulsa, Okla., at the first hole and with the exception of one bad shot moved steadily on to a 3 and 2 victory. Miss Robinson was held fairly even for the first nine holes by Mrs. Ray Green of Glendale, Cal., but went to work in earnest at the start of the homeward journey and also won 3 and 2.

BOB MYERS TO TAKE ON WILES

Portland cop Wants Winner To Take all, to Prove Things to Salem

Chet Wiles, the Portland policeman-grappler, has come forward as the next aspirant to the task of taking Bob Myers, sensational Tillamook middleweight, down a couple of pegs. They will meet at the armory next Tuesday night in a two-hour match.

It's rather unusual in a way, the proposition that Wiles has put up. Few grapplers are in the game for just the hope of conquest and glory. For that matter, neither is Wiles. But it happens that Wiles wrestled here once upon a time and the show didn't pan out well. The fan's weren't satisfied.

The thought that his reputation as a wrestler might be rather unenviable in Salem has been ranking in Wiles' subconsciousness for a long time, and was translated into action when Myers and his playmates brought the middleweight class back into prominence here.

So Officer Wiles got in touch with the Salem boxing and wrestling commission and offered to wrestle for nothing or winner take all, and Myers, who is to be outcome in this matter of generosity, accepted the winner take all idea. Wiles furthermore pledged himself never to ask for another bout here if he doesn't win this one. Which, in view of Myers' known ability, is stupor.

Another of those frequent innovations hatched up by the commission is scheduled for Tuesday night. The posters announce it as "guest night" but don't reveal what that means. It sounds, however, as though somebody might get something for next to nothing.

Jack Mitchell of Longview and Pat Callahan of Butte, Mont., will meet in a one-hour preliminary. Both appear to be tough eggs and they ought to battle, as the winner will get some more business here later.
