Walker's Move to Prevent Further Hearing of his Case is Frustrated

The governor was heard by the board for cross-examination before the governor.

All testimony must be up at hearing.

Justice Staley said "the policy of the state and the line of conduct for the governor" was set forth in a section of the state's public officers law which declared that "no evidence taken in such investigation (preliminary to the charges) shall form the basis of any determination by the governor, unless such evidence is presented at the hearings."

"This declaration is tantamount," said Staley "to the requirements that the witnesses be produced at the hearing."

Two other contentions of Walker also were upheld in the 3,000 word opinion — that removal must be based on acts while the mayor was in office and that they must relate to official acts.

"The application of this principle," Staley observed, "precludes the consideration of charges dealing with official acts or omissions occurring prior to the present term of the officer or in the transaction of his personal affairs, not within the scope of affecting official action, unless such acts amount to moral turpitude."

SAFETY HINTS FOR HOLIDAYS OFFERED

"With the approach of the most popular vacation season — and the three day "week-end", including Labor day — every motorist should check over the operating condition of his car, to insure maximum safety and freedom from trouble on the motor trip he plans, according to Bill Watkins of Smith and Watkins.

Every motorist should have an inspection of his brakes, battery, spark plugs, headlights, and tires and other parts vital to the safety and pleasure of his trip. A few moments precaution now will avoid the danger of accident — or annoying and costly delay on the road.

"One of the greatest single factors in safety is tire equipment, as shown by the fact that some countries have laws with penalty of fine for driving on old smooth worn tires unsafe to the driver and to other drivers," Mr. Watkins said. "In this country where you are traveling at high speed, tires should not only be strong enough to safeguard you against blowouts but should have a safe non-skid tread to prevent skidding and side slipping.

"Be sure your brakes will provide for quick stopping in emergency without side thrust caused by unequal action. Batteries must give dependable starting and sufficient power for the lights. Spark plugs are the heart of the motor and their proper performance will go a long way toward making your motor dependable."

Bids on Highway Widening to be Eyed Wednesday

Bids for widening and resurfacing the Pacific highway for nine miles north of Brooks will be opened tomorrow at the state highway commission in Portland and an award made to the lowest firm. The work will get under way this fall. The project is to go on from the end of the work now being finished north of Salem.

Contracts for $750,000 of work will probably be let at tomorrow's meeting.

One of the jobs to be awarded will be the construction of a new bridge over Mary's river, south of Corvallis. This bridge recently went down when it was struck a heavy blow by a truck.

North Santiam Work Accepted After Viewing

Following inspections by County Engineer Swart of that section of road, the county court has entered an order of acceptance and approval of the completed grading work on the 10-mile section of the North Santiam highway which had been under contract with the county.

In order to complete records in their local offices and in Washington, government engineers in Portland had asked for a formal letter of approval.

Alsea Electric Project to be Eyed by Board

CORVALLIS, Ore., Aug. 29 — (AP)—The state hydroelectric commission will meet here tomorrow to consider a proposed power development on the North Fork of the Alsea river. Charles E. Stricklin, state engineer, said today.

Steven Carver, who proposed the Alsea development, has been granted a charter to furnish the Alsea community with light and power.

LoCHELME ACQUIRED

COLLEGE DIPLOMA OR MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE???

CAREER OR BRIDAL VEIL

According to a survey recently made by the Institute of Women's Professional Relations and issued at Teachers' College, Columbia University, the girl who stays at home and attends her knitting stands a much better chance of finding an aisle to the sweet strains of Lohengrin than her sister who yearns for a career.

The survey cites imposing figures to show that college girls are far behind home girls when it comes to acquiring a husband. To the average man, this is quite reasonable. For the male likes his women clever, but not too clever. That means that wife must be just a few shades less smart than hubby, if the family is to live harmoniously. Even when college women do marry, we are told, the Stark is not very kind to them. According to survey figures the birth rate among college women works out at 1.1 child per matriculant, while mothers outside the college group average 3.35. So, girls, make up your minds between a kitchen or a classroom, a typewriter or an eggbeater, babies or books. But remember you can't have the active list.

DEPUTIES HURT BY FARM STRIKE MOB

veterans organization known as the khaki shirts, were arrested today in connection with farmers' holiday activities, which continued to grow in scope and seriousness in several parts of Iowa.

In Cherokee county, northwest Iowa, one thousand farmers marched on the Cherokee county courthouse and demanded of county officials they ignore charges of obstructing a highway filed last week against L. A. I. Birch, Marcus farmer. The officials agreed to the request.

After meeting in a Cherokee park, the holiday adherents blockaded all roads into that city following refusal of merchants there to close their business.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 29 — (AP)—As farm holiday adherents worked steadily today to make good their boast that the picket girdle about Des Moines would be "air tight" within twelve hours, their campaign for higher prices gave evidence of its strength in other centers.

The chamber of commerce at Sioux City, Ia., where the drive first broke out into active measures two weeks ago, informed the governors of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota that picketing about that city was "beyond the control of local authorities." The chambers asked the executives to take immediately "such steps as will again make it possible to those who so desire to travel the highways."

The farmer-labor governor of Minnesota, Floyd B. Olson, who has frequently expressed his sympathy for the holiday movement, announced he would propose to the conference of fifteen agricultural states' governors at Sioux City Sept. 9 a giant central union. It would embody the farm cooperatives of the states concerned and, the governor said, afford a strong additional lever for the farmers in raising the price levels.

Malicious Injury To Property Charge

At Des Moines two men were arrested and charged with malicious injury to property, one picket was charged, and the timely arrival of Sheriff Charles F. Keeling's deputies averted an open battle between fifty men hired by a cooperative association and a crowd of pickets massed on a narrow bridge.

All but three highways into Des Moines were guarded by pickets, and from a dozen quarters came calls to Sheriff Keeling for armed escorts and reports of sluggings and fights.

Members of the khaki shirts, who were aiding the striking farmers, said 500 recruits from Sioux City were expected here to aid in setting up what holiday adherents hoped would be an absolute highway blockade of Des Moines.

HOKE RELEASED

H. T. Hoke was found not guilty and released yesterday by Justice Miller Hayden after the former was tried on the charge of shooting Chinese pheasants from a public highway. The court held the evidence insufficient.

Fewer Transfer Students Being Registered Here

Registration of out-of-Salem students at Salem high school this year is far behind that of past years, according to Principal Fred D. Wolf. At this time last year, 25 such students had registered, whereas to date but three have appeared, all yesterday.

They are:

- Frank Hunt, coming from Marshfield, entering as a sophomore.
- Sella Webb, from Los Angeles, sophomore.
- Robert Brown, from Roseburg, sophomore.

No increase of enrollment is anticipated this year, Wolf said yesterday. If more students should register than last fall, school heads would be hard put to find room for the extras.

NEWER ARTIFICIAL HORIZON INVENTED

An improved instrument which tells a pilot the actual position of his plane in flight has been perfected and is being installed on the mail-passenger planes of United Air Lines flying over the Northwest Pacific coast and transcontinental airways.

Known as the improved artificial horizon, the device consists of a miniature figure of an airplane and a movable line which represents the actual horizon. If the horizon line shows below the miniature plane the ship is climbing; if above, the ship is gliding; if the line is tilted so that one wing of the plane appears below the line the ship is in a corresponding position, and by glancing at the device the pilot knows the exact degree of the ship's bank.

Tillamook Rate Hearing Slated To Start Today

Robson, auditor, spent today inspecting the Tillamook plant of the power company.

The hearing originally was set for August 23, but was postponed because of the Tillamook county fair which necessitated the attendance of several witnesses called in the rate hearing.

MOLLISON ARRIVES DESPITE RAIN, FOG

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 29 — (AP)— Captain James A. Mollison, homeward bound to Great Britain on a return crossing of the Atlantic, triumphed over rain and fog today and brought his tiny plane to rest in a field near here.

The Scottish pilot landed on the Stewart farm three miles from the city at 3:30 p. m. eastern standard time after a four-and-a-half hour flight from St. John, N. B., on which he tilted with the elements above the Sydney airport for an hour before daring to descend.

Tomorrow, he will proceed to Harbor Grace if flying conditions are propitious and refuel for the final take-off toward London, starting on the final lap of an adventure he hopes will crown him the first human to fly the Atlantic ocean in both directions.

Supplies Going Out to Schools Of Third Class

Supplies were being sent out yesterday to all school clerks of third-class districts in the county by Mrs. Mary Fulkerson, county school superintendent. Exceptions were school clerks who came to Salem last Friday to attend a meeting called by Mrs. Fulkerson to discuss the new forms for 1932-33 which are considerably simplified over former years.

At the meeting of clerks, the attendance was the best in years, Mrs. Fulkerson reported. Sixty-one clerks attended. Unusual interest this year is attributed to the fact that all districts are trying to reduce their costs and to keep their affairs in as business-like a manner as possible.
