

LIBBY ROBBER CAUGHT, HELD

Portland Officials Find $7530 Cash of $9750 Taken by Thief

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 10 (AP)—Eight days after he held up the First National bank at Libby, Mont., Joseph Miller, alias Lander, 27, an escaped convict, waited in jail here tonight for Montana officers to come for him.

Miller was arrested by Portland detectives today and confessed, the detectives said, he robbed the bank at Libby September 2. He had no help, he said. Police here recovered $7530 in cash, all that remained of the $9750 Miller said he obtained in the robbery. Although bank officials said $11,250 was taken in the robbery, Miller apparently did not count $1360 he dropped in his flight nor a number of traveler's checks. He told police he gave a friend $500.

Miller yesterday purchased an automobile here, paying about $1400 cash for the machine. He was about to take delivery of the car today when he was arrested. Miller, confined to the isolation ward of the Washington state penitentiary at Walla Walla to serve a term of one to 12 years for robbery in King county, escaped from prison the night of June 4 after overpowering a guard. Sheriff F. R. Baney, of Libby, is en route to Portland to get Miller, who told police he would return willingly and would show Montana officers where he had hidden the stolen traveler's checks.

ROBINS STILL LOST; CHICAGO IS SCOURED

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the prohibition bureau, who has been charged with finding Robins, said Florida agents had discovered nothing to substantiate the theory that bootleggers had kidnaped or harmed the colonel as reprisal for his campaign against them.

Other prohibition officials recalled that Robins had been very active recently for recognition of soviet Russia. He had a conference with soviet officials last week, they said. Unverified reports of threats by Russian imperialists have been encountered by several investigators, officers asserted.

They said, too, that the Hernandez county, Florida, bootleggers do not operate on a nationwide scale.

Woodcock, who termed the case "mystifying," said that if the amnesty theory were correct "we have every right to expect that we should hear something shortly." Many people, he said, had seen pictures of Robins since he disappeared while on his way to Washington from New York City to keep a White House appointment.

Federal agents in Chicago advised their superiors here they had found no trace of Robins after a thorough check of hotels and hospitals. Some stated it was not unlikely that friends who said they saw the dry leader in Chicago the day before his disappearance became known were mistaken.

Local acquaintances of Raymond Robins who had confided with him while he was in Salem last fall, expressed the view yesterday that Robins was suffering from amnesia. They remarked that Robins was an extremely hard worker and had kept up a hard pace for years. When in Salem last fall he delivered four addresses during the day, and in addition attended to a considerable amount of personal correspondence and business. Then he impressed local persons as a man working on a tension, somewhat tired and nervous. For months during the winter he traveled with Allied Campaigners, moving daily and delivering a minimum of two speeches each day.

the suggestions made frequently to the executives. Cattlemen Held to Be Paying Interest

"Borrowers who are paying interest with proceeds from cattle are not complaining," Allen said. "Insurance companies are trying to work out some way of saving farms for farmers."

Some farmers still have money, he said, adding "their condition is not as bad as has been painted."

Directors of the Holiday association, presented a four-point program to the conference, which suggested an embargo on farm commodities, effective September 20; a moratorium on farm and chattel mortgages; and a special session of congress to enact the Frazier bill.

Failure to adopt such a program, the statement concluded, leaves the farmers no course "except to continue the withholding of farm commodities from the market."

Governor Turner Says Embargo Impossible

The request for an embargo drew a statement from Governor Dan Turner of Iowa that the association was asking "the impossible."

"We can help you by lending moral support to stave off farm foreclosures," Turner said. "We can help you in the matter of extending feed and seed loans. We can lend our moral support in presenting the claims of agriculture to congress."

"You are asking us to lend our support to a movement that might mean bloodshed and I don't believe you want that. I am speaking only for Turner of Iowa, but I think that you are asking the impossible when you insist on us lending support to an embargo."

Milo Reno, national president of the association, in the association's closing plea, said the Holiday association would throw up an embargo wall around the middle west which would prevent the importation of eastern manufactured goods as well as the marketing of farm produce at low prices.

"We are going to get what is justly due us, so help us God," he shouted.

heads shall give renewed study looking to the elimination of every expenditure not absolutely essential to these times.

End Seen to Emergency Construction Work

"I have asked the director of the budget to make every effort to secure a reduction of at least $500,000,000 in the estimates of appropriations for the next year below the appropriations made for the current year, and the cooperation of the responsible administrative officers is necessary to achieve this end. A part of this can be accomplished in reduction of construction activities which have been so greatly speeded up during the past few years as an aid to employment. I believe we can reasonably predetermine our budget in the confidence that such expenditures will be less necessary for employment purposes after June of next year."

"Moreover, these works by virtue of the enormous outlay since 1930 as a means of employment will be in many particulars in advance of the country's immediate need. Other activities can well be further curtailed during the period of recovery. Obviously nothing will more contribute to that recovery than a relief from taxation. "While the executives can budget various activities upon the lowest possible basis, still a large part of the government activities are fixed by law and they must be budgeted for expenditure. In some of these cases the whole or part of the activities can only with the approval of congress be suspended. I desire that such possibilities be fully developed with the director of the budget with view to preparing a detailed recommendation to the congress for authority to take such action."

Hoss Out on Range; Repairs His Fences

Hal E. Hoss has left his Taft retreat and last week was in eastern Oregon, probably to "build political fences" although it is the usual impression that east of the Cascades the country is free and open and unfenced. Hoss has kept as still as Roosevelt on the bonus, over his vote in the Holman-Einzig scrap. It is fully expected that the secretary of state, only eight weeks from election time, will play amateur role and strange as little as possible Holman and Meier who each could hurt Hoss considerably by openly urging his defeat.

Candidate Maloney of Pendleton is campaigning quietly, but will have to move rapidly to beat the better-known, noisier, more loquacious Holman.
