

WALDO HILLS FOLK MOVING TO TOWN

Geer Continues as Community Club President; Meets October 14

WALDO HILLS, Sept. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Geer and daughters, Vesper and Reba, are moving this weekend to Salem where they are to locate in an apartment at 943 Center street. The two daughters have enrolled in the high school in the sophomore class. Mrs. Geer is employed in the state tuberculosis hospital. For the present Mr. Geer will drive back and forth to the farm until other arrangements can be made. Mr. Geer, who is president of the Waldo Hills Community will continue in that capacity. Mrs. Geer's mother and sister, Mrs. W. W. Moore and Miss Myrtle Moore will accompany them.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Purvis are looking for a new location. They lived the past year on the H. J. Cutler farm. They motored to Wilsonville Sunday to look at a farm. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holm are soon to move to Turner. For two years he has rented the Mrs. L. R. Linn farm on Drift creek.

Prune picking and drying is in progress on the H. J. Cutler place. Roger Comstock spent the week until Friday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Comstock. Roger has been employed in Portland since early June and his mother motored in for him Monday. Friday he left for Eugene where he is a junior in the university.

The Waldo Hills Community club will begin the year's work October 14. The president, Mr. Geer, announces that entertainers of the Artisan's Life Insurance company under the direction of Jerry Sallor will be present to give the evening's program.

Miss Martha Goodknecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Goodknecht, will leave Sunday for Monmouth where she will enroll in the normal. Martha was graduated in June from Silverton high school, being salutatorian of her class.

him, and all his wealth of beads and trinkets at his feet, the dead Indian lay, waiting for the flood of life which should some day come in like the tide from the sunset ocean.

The elegance of some of the Indian garments may be understood from the following account given by Lewis and Clark: "Two of them (the Chinooks) being chiefs, we went through the ceremony of giving to each a medal, and to the most distinguished a flag. Their names were Concominy and Chillahawil. One of the Indians (Concominy?) had a robe made of two sea otter skins, the fur of which was the most beautiful we had ever seen; the owner resisted every temptation to part with it, but at length could not resist the offer of a belt of blue beads which Chaboneau's wife (Sagacawea) wore round her waist." While the women's garments of the lower Columbia people may not have been characterized by any particular elegance, they were distinctive enough to receive more than passing mention by Lewis and Clark. The hula-hula effect of the skirt seems to have made a considerable impression upon the intrepid explorers of 1805. The costume of the Wahkiakum women is thus graphically described: "The women are clad in a peculiar manner, the robe not reaching lower than the hip, and the body being covered in cold weather by a sort of corset of fur, curiously plaited, and reaching from the arms to the hip; added to this is a sort of petticoat, or rather tissue of white-cedar bark, bruised or broken into small strands, and woven into a girdle by several cords of the same material. Being tied round the middle, these strands hang down as low as the knee in front and to mid-leg behind, and are of sufficient thickness to answer the purpose of concealment whilst the female stands in an erect position, but in any other attitude is but a very ineffectual defence. Sometimes the tissue is silk-grass twisted and knotted at the end."

Much has been written concerning the repulsive appearance of the natives of the lower Columbia region. No doubt the physical characteristics of these natives most disagreeably affecting the whites was the head deformity, artificially induced. Sloping foreheads were quite the fashion among the Chinooks; accordingly, each fond mother who was a member of those tribes, with the aid of a board fixed upon the plastic brow of her babe, practiced the gentle art of headflattening. Slaves were not permitted to alter the cranial conformation of their offspring. Hence, the sharply sloping forehead served as a mark of distinction, indicating membership in the dominant class. Chinookan head-malformation was a painless process which resulted in no real injury to the body.

(Santee, in describing the boats of the Chinooks, inserts a footnote taken from Smith's "Beginnings in Oregon" in which the claim is made that "the model of the clipper ships was taken from the early Chinook canoes." This is a claim worthy to be generally known, if true.) (Concluded tomorrow.)

PASSENGERS ABOARD FORT BRAGG RETURN

JEFFERSON, Sept. 16.—A. J. DeVaney and his daughter, Lillace Samuelson, arrived home several days ago from an eventful trip on board of the Fort Bragg, which was wrecked at Coos bay recently. His son-in-law, Captain John Samuelson, is expected here in a few days. Mrs. Samuelson, who was ill for several days, following the wreck, is slowly improving. A grass fire on the D. H. Looney farm four miles north of Jefferson, spread very rapidly Wednesday, getting into the timber, and later in the afternoon spread into timber on the Cheback farm adjoining Looney's. All the men of the neighborhood got out to help get the fire under control. A number went from here to help fight fire. Late last night the fire was put out, without doing any serious damage. Cary Miller of Eugene, arrived in Jefferson, Thursday afternoon and will spend the week end with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Powell. Miss Miller will go to Seilo from here, and will attend high school there. She will stay with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Merritt, during the school year.
