

STAYTON OPENS STUDY MONDAY

For Both Public and Parochial Schools; Other Open 19th Also

STAYTON, Sept. 17.—Stayton public schools will open Monday September 19, and following is the corps of teachers: H. E. Tobie, principal; Dave M. John, Harold Gordonier, Mary Ann Jindra, Margaret Ireland and Mrs. Margaret Norby, high school. Thos. Norby, principal of the grade school; Helen Patton, Mae L. Hull, Faye M. Lyons and Doris Neilerter.

All were here last year, with the exception of the latter, who comes from Lebanon. She is said to have had special training in music, art and playground work, and will act as substitute teacher pending the outcome of the transportation and tuition controversy.

Tobie, Johns and Norby have each been taking special work at summer school in Corvallis and Ashland.

As usual the school buses will be run and it is expected that the Jordan route will be shortened, thereby eliminating one driver.

St. Mary's parochial school will open Monday, September 19. Following the 9 o'clock mass which will be celebrated in honor of the Holy Ghost, the children will gather at the school for registration and list of books, and when this has been completed, will be excused for the remainder of the day. Regular school work will be taken up on Tuesday.

LINCOLN, Sept. 16.—The appearance of the Lincoln school house has been greatly improved by new paint, both inside and outside. Several new doors have been hung and needed repairs made for the beginning of the fall term. Monday, September 26, Mrs. Irene Castle of Wallace road will be the teacher, this being her third year.

HAYESVILLE, Sept. 16.—The Hayesville school will open Monday, September 19. Mrs. Frank Marshall will serve again as principal and Mrs. Gerald Baker, formerly Miss Wilma Evans, will teach again in the primary room. The children stay most of the day, so those who remain at the school for lunch will come prepared to do so.

Deer are Tame; Make Inspection Of Wood Sawing

STAYTON, Sept. 16.—While Thurston Thomas and Tex Kimsey were sawing wood one day this week on the former's place near Jordan, they noticed two deer come up to the truck, which was at short distance away. They say the animals hung around for several hours, paying but little attention to the men or the noise of their saw. Mr. Thomas says the timber is dryer now than any time this season, and he believes that hunters should be kept out until after a rain.

Chicken Thief Relieves Hall Of 100 Pullets

WACONDA, Sept. 17.—Some time Thursday night thieves entered the premises of C. M. Hall and stole about 100 Buff Leghorn pullets. Picking and stealing has been frequent this hop picking season.

Two Portland school girls who worked in the Nason yard lost all their picking money to a sneak thief who entered their tent and ransacked their belongings.

Crop Surpluses Whittled By This Year's Harvests

Large Farming Area About Silverton Reports Only Scattering Average Yields

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
SILVERTON, Sept. 17.—The peak of the harvest season in the Silverton farming community is over. Grain is completely harvested; hops were practically completed Saturday and prune picking is in full swing.

From all obtainable reports it would seem that Silverton will not contribute to any surplus in farm products this season. "A scarcity," the buyers report. "Light" or "spotted," are the words the farmers use in referring to their harvests.

Grain has been exceedingly spotted this season. As far as ascertainable, best grain crops were grown this year in the Waldo Hills and its suburb, the Dutch Flat district. There were a few reports of a "round 90 bushels of oats to the acre." But as a whole "light" applied to these two districts as well as to the others.

Grain reports from the Silverton Hills district were not as good as from the Waldo Hills community. "Very light," Silverton Hills farmers report. Evans Valley also fell short of its usual harvest. Growers from the Brush Creek district, who were want in former years to "tell the world" something about good crops in their locality at the end of harvest, have been suspiciously quiet this year. Bethany seems to have fared next best to the Waldo Hills.

According to grain buyers, quality is also "light." It is difficult, one buyer remarked, to secure oats that will run a 38 to 40 test to the bushel. There has been a scarcity of wheat on the market, buyers report. Everyone, who has not had to sell to pay threshing crews and for immediate needs, is "holding".

The hop story reads much the same as that of the grain. "Light and spotted," weaves the theme. As a whole, hop fields are more light than spotted. Only a very few growers report an average yield. A 50 per cent crop, is the general estimate. A few fall below this. Hop sales have been quiet so far. A few sales at 14 cents were made this week.

All prune growers, it seems, are not going to harvest their fruit. The fact that the Silverton cannery closed down after the strawberry run made considerable difference to fruit growers of the Silverton farming community. Those who can dry their prunes without too great an expense are doing so. Prunes are comparatively plentiful and perfect as to quality this year.

Commercial vegetables were grown only in small quantities in a normal year when the cannery is running full force, beans and carrots are grown extensively. Those who had their crops in have not harvested them to any extent.

Potatoes will be comparatively scarce, buyers report. Few potatoes were planted in the community and somehow the weather did not get just right to make a bumper crop of these.

Hay is Best Crop, South End Reports

JEFFERSON, Sept. 17.—Threshing is about finished in this vicinity. Farmers report that the grain yield was just fair, with half a crop on the average. The fall sown grain yielded better than that sowed this spring.

Hay crop is above the average. A. B. Hinz has a field of alfalfa near town which yielded four tons to the acre, the first cutting; two tons the second; while the third crop will be used for pasture. George Vail has an alfalfa field adjoining Jefferson, from which he has harvested three crops, with a good yield each time.

The prune crop is spotted. V. D. Looney of the Allen-Looney prune orchard, three miles west of Jefferson, reports a bumper crop, while some of the other prune growers around here report only one half crop.

The walnut crop is exceptionally good. Late potatoes will depend on the early fall rains, for a good crop.

Study Corner Created For New Courses

JEFFERSON, Sept. 17.—The Looney Butte school four miles north of Jefferson will begin Monday, with Mrs. Ethel Gulvin as teacher. Many improvements have been made in the school building and grounds. A set of shelves has been built in one corner of the room, also a table and some chairs have been placed to create a "study corner."

Under the new plan of teaching to be followed in the school this year, the pupils will do a great deal of research work and reference books, magazines, globe, supplementary books will be grouped in this study corner for convenience of the students. Two of the best works in history, "Exploring United States History" and "American History, Yesterday and Today," have been purchased, and Miss Margaret Looney has donated many copies of the Bay View magazine.

All of the work to make the improvements was donated, which as quite a saving to the district. Those who assisted so ably with this work were Jacob Hochstetler, Herbert Looney, Chris Fremmen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Looney, R. S. Bainter, H. W. Husted, and the teacher, Mrs. Gulvin.
