'CARELESS LADY' COMES TO GRAND

The splendid tenor voice that brought fame to John Boles in musical pictures two years ago, will be heard again today at the Grand theatre, where "Careless Lady" will make its bow to local audiences. While this is not a musical film in the usual sense, both Boles and Raul Roulien, the Brazilian who made his debut recently in "Delicious," have a tuneful song number apiece, composed by James Hanley and Ralph Freed. Joan Bennett has the feminine lead of a New England girl who goes abroad to gain experience and finds more than she bargained for, while Boles has the role of her principal admirer.

Minna Gombell, Weldon Heyburn, Nora Lane, Josephine Hull, J. M. Kerrigan, John Arledge, James Kirkwood and Fortunio Bonanova have the chief supporting parts. Guy Bolton wrote the screen play from the original story by Reita Lambert. Kenneth MacKenna directed.

TUNA INDUSTRY IS MOVIE BACKGROUND

The romance of the tuna fisheries, with all its wealth of dramatic highlights and perils, is portrayed with all the resources of a modern motion picture studio in First National's production, "Tiger Shark," which will be shown for the first time at Warner Brothers Elsinore today. Twenty years ago, tuna fishing, as a commercial industry, was unknown in the western hemisphere, though as a delicacy, it was known and highly regarded among the ancient Romans. Today its earnings run into the millions. Sixty thousand tons of tuna is the annual catch that goes into the world's markets. Between five and ten thousand people depend upon the tuna fisheries for a livelihood. And it is a staple and popular article of food all over the United States. It is the most dangerous to human life of all deep-sea fishing. The schools of tuna are harassed and harried by monster tiger sharks, the most savage and terrible scourge of the seven seas. And the tiger shark is more of a menace to the fisherman than he is to the tuna. Every tuna boat returns to port with its toll of fatalities. There are few tuna fishermen that don't carry the scars of mutilations of desperate encounters with these cannibals of the deep. All these phases of a little known enterprise are vividly embodied in this unusual picture.

'LETTY LYNTON' IS AT THE HOLLYWOOD

"Letty Lynton," sensational drama of modern society and its reckless diversions, with Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery teamed in the principal roles, is the attraction opening today at the Hollywood.

Adapted from Marie Belloc Lowndes' famous novel, the film presents an amazing picture of modern life. Its locales range from the colorful tropic charm of South America to the night life of New York with a spectacular sequence played on a great ocean liner. The story is that of an heiress whose preoccupation with the new "feminine freedom" entangles her in a dangerous affair with an ardent South American lover. When she ultimately leaves him for her true love, an American, she is followed by her former lover and is subsequently involved in a sensational scandal which results in the South American's death with all fingers pointing to her as the murderer. The outcome makes for an intriguing drama of the first order, giving both Miss Crawford and Montgomery every opportunity for effective portrayals.
