GREETINGS: Perhaps the relief from reading the column was appreciated during the past week. If so, make the most of it for we will be with you from now on. However many around the statehouse commented they didn't mind all your correspondence being absent, but why take the column along?

But the first day of the week following the great Legion convention was almost as dramatic in spots as any feature of the convention held in Portland. The Holman-Kingz affair yesterday was dispatched with as much color as was Patrick J. Hurley's visit to the convention city.

Readers of state papers would have enjoyed the program at the first state board of control meeting in Salem for more than six weeks. They may or may not action brought by Esther Wood against Conrad Sauer, was dismissed about 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning after it had been out since late Saturday afternoon. The action was for $25,000 damages on alleged permanent injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Judge Lewelling heard the case, but the report on disapproval was brought before Judge McMahon, the picture after an administrative appointee.

And then, with all the dramatics which Hurley used in his address before the Legion convention in Portland when he went in applause, the governor adjourned the meeting after Holman asked for the discharge of Elmsig. There was no second—Hoss remained or adjourned the meeting instantly.

And Elmsig remained as secretary of the board and state purchasing agent. He would have to be present to appreciate it.

Franchise May Not Be Placed Before Thomas

Inasmuch as the proposed franchise for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in Portland does not attempt to fix rates, charges and tolls, it is wholly a city matter and does not have to be submitted to the public utilities commissioner for consideration.

This was announced in a letter prepared Monday by Charles M. Thomas, public utilities commissioner, in reply to a query received from Frank S. Grant, city attorney of Portland. Grant asked for an interpretation of certain sections of the law having to do with the granting of a franchise such as the one under consideration in Portland.

GERMAN SOLDIER IS VISITOR HERE

Recent Guest at American Legion Convention on Trip to Eugene

Lothar Mannheimer, German soldier in the world war and honor guest at the national American Legion convention at Portland last week, stopped at the Marion hotel here yesterday evening en route to Eugene where he planned to attend the funeral of the late Dean John Straub of University of Oregon. He was traveling with a Los Angeles legionnaire.

From published pictures of Dean Straub, Mannheimer said he was led to believe the revered university man might be a brother or some other relative of one of his school teachers in Stuttgart, Germany. The two men bore a striking resemblance, he declared.

Although Mannheimer, a comparatively young man, fought on the "hun" side in the great war, he holds no ill will toward his then adversary; in fact, he expects to become a United States citizen next February.

In four years of study and travel in this country, Mannheimer has met few persons holding prejudice against his native land because of the war. One of his reasons for travel is to promote a better understanding between American and German war veterans.

"I really find that time has erased all ill will," he remarked. "Why is Mannheimer taking up American citizenship?"

"Because," he replied, "the U. S. gives you just what you want if you try to get it." Explaining this answer, Mannheimer stated that Germany's economic situation is a hopeless one, that "the people there count the length of their depression not in two or three years, but as long as two or three generations' duration."

Mannheimer started the summer by attending the national Disabled American War veterans' convention at San Diego in June. He later served as interpreter for the German Olympic team at Los Angeles, then came to the northwest for the legion convention.

Studying to become a teacher, Mannheimer says he hopes to reside on the Pacific coast. Explaining this answer, Mannheimer stated that Germany's economic situation is a hopeless one, that "the people there count the length of their depression not in two or three years, but as long as two or three generations' duration."

Let's get the picture. The board of control, with Hal E. Hoss and the governor present was transacting routine business, when Rufus C. Holman, state treasurer, who arrived late, entered and sat down beside William Elmsig, whom he sought to discharge. To complete the picture, five newspapermen were present.

Two Additions To Store Staff Are Announced

Two additions to the staff of the local Montgomery Ward and company store are announced by B. A. Newman, manager. Mrs. Dent Mack, formerly of Mack's store here, now has charge of the fashion department and R. H. Ermet, who has been with Eugene store, has taken over the window trimming and advertising details of the store.

Mr. Ermet succeeds Miss Marcia Fuestman, who has given up her position to enter the University of Oregon.

Representatives of the local store in Portland last night to attend a district meeting held at the Heathman hotel, for which the Portland store was host.

Building Total Of Week Short

Affected by curtailment of all activities by the American Legion national convention last week, building operation dropped markedly from rising figures of the past several weeks. Twelve building permits were issued, 11 of them for repair and roof jobs to cost a total of $822 and one for erection of a garage costing $40.

BRIDE

Freud via the divorce route last July from her former husband, Charles E. Cotting, Boston banker, Mrs. Constance Binney Cotting, better known as Constance Binney, stage and screen, has again become a bride. Miss Binney's new husband is Henry Wharton, Jr., son of a Philadelphia coal company president. They were quietly married in New York's City Hall.

KING TUT ARRIVES; MOVIE HERO HORSE

King Tut, the $10,000 horse of fame, is already a favorite out at the state fairgrounds stables. And its safe gambles that Salem's school attendance would not have been so large yesterday if untempted score small boys had known that—and could have crawled into the stable where King Tut reigns.

King Tut, buckskin with white mane and tail, has doubled for most of the film days of the day, and on the King in them stunts rides his owner and "boss", Bonnie Gray, a Washington girl, Moscow, Idaho, university graduate and world champion woman rider. Of course Bonnie Gray arrived here last week with King Tut, and the two in action will be one of the features of the fair Strawberry Roan rodeo.

In the movie business of doubling, King Tut's natural "companion" is often out of tune with that of the star's horse, so a coat of water color paint is given King Tut to make him into an exact copy of the original.

Bonnie Gray, along with Curley Fletcher of Hollywood, who is managing the Strawberry Roan, will appear in Oregon City this noon in connection with the program arranged by the Salem chamber of commerce for the opening luncheon of the chamber of commerce there.

Head of Mohair Industry Dead

S. E. Purvine, wool buyer with the Brown warehouse, received word Monday of the death of George G. Emery of Sanford, Maine, president of the Sanford mills, largest consumers of mohair in the world. Mr. Emery, many years ago made trips to this valley to buy mohair. His company was a large maker of mohair plush used in Pullman cars and automobiles. BARHAM BROTHERS RECEIVE CONTRACT

Bankruptcy Action Taken By State Employees Will Be Cause for Removal

Barham Brothers of Salem received the general contract for the new hospital building to be erected at the state institution for the feeble minded on a bid of $15,604, when bids were opened by the state board of control Monday. The plumbing contract, at $1360, was awarded to A. G. Rushlight & Company of Corvallis received the heating contract at $1454. W. R. Gracie of Portland received the electric wiring contract on a bid of $660.

The board voted to name the new auditorium at the eastern Oregon Tuberculosis hospital for D. J. Butcher of The Dalles. It was said that Butcher has taken an active interest in the social affairs of the institution.

A new contract was authorized whereby the General Electric company of Portland will provide electrical energy for the state during the next two years on a basis of 15 per cent under the present figure. This contract will save the state approximately $4000 annually.

The board went on record as opposed to the practice of state employees who had attempted to escape payment of their debts through bankruptcy proceedings. A protest was filed recently by the Salem Credit association.
