ly extended to three who were outspoken against the co-op. Persistent requests, avowedly sincere to know of a better situation for the dairyman, that Duncan tell his improvement plan to the audience were ignored with the persuasive remark that "co-op members don't want to know anything".

Duncan challenged his audience to show any place where a successful co-op is in operation, but ridiculed answers pointing to the Mt. Angel creamery and the Washington egg co-op as outstanding successes.

Milk Producers Here Concerned "I can't tell you folks who are interested what I have in mind today, and all I can do is to tell you to keep it to yourself," Duncan said at one point.

The nearest he came to indicating any policy for the producer was in his reiterated statements that he would "cut off all B grade shippers but those needed to supply the demand". He ridiculed the idea of farmers banding together and the sharing of gains or losses on market situations.

While Duncan's meeting yesterday was primarily for milk producers around Portland and had not a direct bearing on the Salem milk co-op, it is of interest here, as movements in Portland milk area are usually reflected here sooner or later. A number of Washington producers were present yesterday.

LOWER ROUND TRIP FARES ANNOUNCED

An important change in Southern Pacific's passenger fare basis for the winter season, effective October 1, under which round trips between the majority of points in California, Oregon and Nevada will be greatly reduced, was announced today by E. W. Clapp, general passenger traffic manager.

On the new basis, round trip fares between all points on Southern Pacific in these states will be only one-third more than the one-way fare, Clapp said. Heretofore the general round-trip fares have been 90 per cent of the double one way fare, except for strictly summer and winter resort business where the fare and third basis has been used. It was pointed out that the new tickets will be valid with a 21-day return limit. Slightly higher fares are quoted for three months' limit tickets.

A. F. Noth, local Southern Pacific agent, has quoted examples of the new fares from this city, as follows: Los Angeles, $52; San Francisco, $33.45; San Diego, $59.

CHARITIES PREPARE FOR FALL ACTIVITY

Associated Charities headquarters is a busy place now with winter provisioning activities going on. As much foodstuffs and clothing as possible is being collected for the winter relief seasons. Charities officials have requested school teachers to report to them the cases of pupils in need of clothing. Several calls have been received from poor persons who want to rent houses at the rate of about $5 a month or to work out of their rent. The charities office also is soliciting for fruit jars and glass gallon jugs. The latter will be used to keep strained tomato juice and soup.

Mrs. Mae Carson, secretary, yesterday reported that 24 bushels of prunes are being dried for the charities free of charge; 1000 pounds of breakfast food and two barrels of dill pickles had been promised, and 701 quarts of fruit canned during August. During the month of 988 transients were given meals and 180 articles of clothing. Twelve loads of wood were provided for the needy and a total of 1452 persons assisted.

O'CONNOR SLAYER SOLD AUTOMOBILE

PORTLAND, Sept. 20—(AP)—A man representing himself to be Harold O'Connor of Brooklyn, N. Y., sold O'Connor's automobile at Boise, September 6, five days before O'Connor's body was found near the Columbia River highway east of Bridal Veil, State Police Captain H. Lee Knorr, of Baker, notified headquarters here today. Authorities investigating the discovery of O'Connor's body, said he had been murdered several weeks earlier.

State police said the description of the man selling the car corresponded to that of a man seen riding with O'Connor between Boise and Pendleton.

WRIT IS GRANTED IN TUITION CASE

The state supreme court yesterday granted an alternative writ, returnable September 27, ordering Kathleen Mills, treasurer of Tillamook county, to pay orders issued by school district No. 9, against the high school tuition fund or appear in court and show cause for her refusal to do so.

The county treasurer alleged, according to the complaint, that she had insufficient funds with which to pay the orders and she was unwilling to endorse them "not paid for want of funds" because of the interest that would accrue.

The Tillamook county case deals with the administrative provisions of the high school tuition law. Another suit, attacking the constitutionality of the act, recently was filed in Marion county and is now pending in the state supreme court.

BOARD DEPLORES DEATH OF STRAUB

A resolution expressing regret over the death of Dean John Straub, emeritus professor of Greek at the University of Oregon, was adopted by the executive committee of the state board of higher education yesterday.

"Dean Straub died after more than a half century of faithful and devoted service to the cause of higher education in the state of Oregon," the resolution read. "During this period of 54 years he made far reaching sacrifices for the university and for the ideals for which the institution stands."

"Dean Straub was affectionately known to thousands of alumni and ex-students and friends throughout the state of Oregon who are deeply indebted to him for helpful service and inspiration."

MILK PLANT PLANS RECEIVED BY CO-OP

Dairy Association to Have Structure Covering Half a Block

Blueprints for a new 100-200 foot surplus milk plant to be erected in Portland by the Dairy Cooperative association were received yesterday from the architects, and bids will be called shortly on construction, R. W. Clarke, manager of the Salem co-op district, and J. M. Nichols of Bethel, director of the association, reported upon return from a conference in Portland with Manager Henry of the association.

The structure will be erected upon a half block owned by the dairy association and located on East Main street between East 11th and East 12th, and the outlay for the lot, building and equipment will be in excess of $100,000. Directors expect to have the plant, to be used at first as a skim milk plant to allow wider sale of cream, in operation early in February.

Provision is made for separate receiving stations for grade B and lower grade milk, and in the grade B station, 40,000 pounds of milk an hour will be handled, thus assuring unloading of all trucks by 12 o'clock noon.

The plans for the building were drawn by Clausen and Clausen, Portland architects, only after the association board of directors, with Manager Will Henry and R. W. Clarke of the Salem office, made a three-day tour of Washington, where they inspected 15 dairy plants, as well as one in Vancouver, B. C. The plans for the proposed surplus milk plant include the best features of all the plants visited, and have been submitted to and approved by the state college officials.

Boys and Girls Department of Fair Stressed

The importance of educational and boys and girls club features of the state fair were stressed by Max Gehlhar, director of the department of agriculture, in a talk at the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon. He said the Oregon state fair was no exception to the fact that community backing determines the success of any enterprise.

Amusements will be of an unusually high class nature this year Gehlhar stated, and all features, such as the rodeo will be humane. He also said that were people better informed or less biased they could find no fault with the contemplated bull fight which is guaranteed to be perfectly harmless.

THE HOLLYWOOD

Friday—Walter Huston in "The Beast of the City"

And Thursday we will all be introduced to what the "correct thing to wear" will be this fall, for there is the big style show at the Elsinore in which both men and women will model the newest things in Salem for the smart people of the city.

In connection with the show there is to be a "hot number" on the screen insofar as clothes are concerned for "What Price Hollywood" is all of a style show in itself. I am assured by "Jerry" who says he has seen it and he knows positively that there are four dashing evening gowns worn that will make any feminine heart take an extra beat.

Then there will be a fitting setting for the "style show" in new stage sets have been constructed and the Mellow Moon orchestra will play "soft and low" and all that sort of thing.

Seems to be a big party that is being planned with plenty of color and harmony both. A dance program is being planned and numbers will be presented to represent the spirit of autumn by Josey Acklin, toe dancer, Elmer Lowell and Betty Reed in an adagio number and Gretchen Garner and Virginia Hart.

Foes of School Merger to Talk At Lion's Meet

THOMAS JUMPS ALL OVER PLAN

"Service at Cost" Plan is Held at Variance With Commission Order

in Portland on the ground that they would interfere with the working out of the constructive program outlined.

The public utilities commissioner then referred particularly to his previous order which recommended to the city council that immediate negotiations be entered into between the city and the utility for a franchise providing for modern mass transportation. He said at that time that delay in effecting a new franchise would be unfortunate both to the public and the traction company. Adequate System Declared Blocked

"Adequate mass transportation is not only emasculated but blocked for the 20 year period covered by the new franchise," Thomas' letter to the council continued.

"When the commission recommended a franchise it used the word in its usual and ordinary sense. The proposed plan does not approach such interpretation. It is a contract of co-partnership under which the company receives the lion's share of the benefits, preserves about $5,000,000 in a grossly inflated and watered valuation plus all additions for 20 years and the city promises that the company shall enjoy the return thereon unimpaired."

MARGIN OF CORPS' VICTORY IS SMALL

That the Salem champion American Legion drum corps achieved its honor in the closest of competition with the Pasadena organization became known yesterday when it was announced that the Capital Post men won by a margin of only two points. The Pasadena corps lost out mainly to a slight fault in its equipment discovered in the rigid military inspection that preceded the competition.

To R. J. Baldwin, Salem quartermaster, is given a large share of the credit for the drummers' and buglers' equipment being in perfect condition. Baldwin, drummer in the corps, took close care of the equipment, even to seeing that every uniform button was shined, every strap in place and drums tuned perfectly, before the big contest. He spent many hours after rehearsals working on the drums, constructing lockers and watching that uniforms were properly hung up.

Seed Loan Heads Release Warning Regarding Credit

Warning from the federal seed loan committee that farmers should not make false applications for credit or impair the crop security of their loans, was received yesterday by James E. Smith, county chairman of the loan committee. The notice cites a situation in Alabama where 11 prominent men pleaded guilty to a conspiracy to defraud the government.

Smith said yesterday the 140 loans made in the county by the federal government had been carefully placed and he declared the loan, if any, would be due to crop failures, not to dishonesty.

CONGRESS SEAT WON IN DRAW

Above, center, is California's secretary of state, Frank C. Jordan, who, blindfolded, broke a deadlock for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Ninth California district by drawing the name of Henry E. Barbour, right, Fresno, from a hat. Barbour and Glenn M. DeVore, left, ran a dead heat for the nomination. The official count gave each 16,425 votes. They were forced, under state law, to settle the contest by lot. DeVore congratulated Barbour on his lucky victory.

MEIER IS DOUBTFUL ABOUT BULL FIGHTS

Executive Fears it may be Opening Wedge for Real Thing at Later Time

Prospects that the so-called "bull fight" in connection with the state fair may be cancelled despite the assurances given by Max Gehlhar, director of the department of agriculture, that it will be bloodless and devoid of cruelty, were seen Tuesday when Governor Meier addressed a letter on the subject to J. O. Holt, president of the state board of agriculture.

If the proposed bull fight involves cruelty or will serve as an opening wedge for objectionable features attached to bull fighting, it should be cancelled, the governor wrote.

"Numerous communications have come to me against the so-called bull fight," Governor Meier's letter read. "These communications have been from Max Gehlhar, director of the state department of agriculture and are in his hands."

The bull fight is commonly associated with bloodshed and brutality to animals and performers. It is not typical of American or western sport. If the scheduled performance involves cruelty or is of a nature to serve as an opening wedge for the objectionable features attached to bull fighting, it should be cancelled.

"I feel that this matter should have the prompt attention of your board and that you should carefully consider whether this is a type of entertainment which you desire to sponsor at the Oregon state fair, which has, as its primary purpose, the fostering of Oregon products and Oregon activities."

Several hundred protests against the bull fight have been received at the executive department. Among the organizations filing protests were the Oregon humane society, Oregon Parent-Teachers association, and the Portland Ministerial association.
