BROOKHART HAS NEW CURE-ALLS FOR FARM ILLS

Federal Control Advocated For Surplus Crops and New Money Basis

Farm Strikers Hear Solon, Draw up Resolutions To aid Movement

MOVILLE, Iowa, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Outlining measures he believes will solve farm problems, Senator Smith W. Brookhart advocated governmental control of surplus crops, revision of the money standard and issuance of treasury notes for veterans' relief and public works, in an address here today before farm holiday sympathizers.

More than 2,000 farmers huddled in a wind-swept lumber yard shed where, driven by the cold and rain, they heard the Iowa insurgent berate newspapers, Wall Street, and certain administrative officials as adding to agricultural hardships.

Good naturedly, the throng applauded Brookhart's pointed sallies at the banks and moneyed interests, and asked him dozens of questions regarding legislative and other relief proposals.

Special Congress Session Demand

Afterward the farm strikers drew up seven resolutions which they think will aid the non-selling movement and settle farm difficulties, and, finally, cheered Brookhart as a potential third party candidate for re-election.

The meeting was called by Holiday adherents led by E. A. Ellison, Lawton farmer, and leader in the Woodbury county farm "strike" for higher produce prices. Resolutions adopted demanded a special session of congress to consider relief measures, an effective and immediate moratorium on farm chattel mortgages, an increase in the amount of currency, refinancing of agricultural loans with the refinancing agencies in the hands of farmers, a public construction program, repeal of nuisance taxes, and that farmers be given prices equal to the cost of production for their commodities.

The last is the objective of the farm holiday movement.

ROOSEVELT TARIFF ATTITUDE ASSAILED

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Two attacks were directed tonight at Governor Roosevelt's Seattle tariff speech by republican eastern headquarters.

"Men who have served in Washington," said former U. S. Senator William K. Calder, Brooklyn business man, "are those who democratic senators and representatives literally clamor for protection in the industries of their own states, although they are willing to wreck the products of other states."

"It is a well known fact by everyone in Washington of Montana," said Senator Walsh of Montana, "that an increase in tariff on copper, which is one of the chief products of his state, and that Senator Barkley of Kentucky wanted a raised tariff on coal, and that Senator Dill of Washington, who spoke from the same platform with Governor Roosevelt in Seattle, urged a higher tariff on lumber."

SHARES GO AHEAD IN STRONG RALLY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The stock market today scored its sharpest advance for any one day in nearly a year, gains of individual issues ranging from $2 to $10 a share.

Wheat ran up 2 1/2 cents a bushel and cotton $2.75 to $3 a bale. Bonds were strong.

The Associated Press-Standard statistics stock market averages covering 30 shares soared $7.10.

The rally was the first sizeable upswing since the market began to dip September 12, after its summer rise. Buyers put in new orders for stocks, sending "bears" scampering to cover their short commitments. Stock exchange sales reached 4,300,000 shares.

Carloadings statements issued by some railroads for the week ended September 17 showed a substantial gain over the preceding week. The weekly electric power production figures registered a slight increase for the week. The steel trade publication "Iron Age" reported production stood at 16 per cent, a gain of half a point over last week.

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 21.—(AP)—J. O. Holt, president of the state board of agriculture, said today "there'll be no bull fight at the Oregon state fair this year."

M'KEE GETS RIGHT TO COMPLETE TERM

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Mayor Joseph V. McKee won today the first legal battle over his tenure in office.

Justice John E. McGeehan ruled that McKee should serve out the full term of ex-Mayor James J. Walker, or until January 1, 1934, deciding against petitioners who sought to force a special election this November.

Although there was no official word from Tammany Hall, others who had sought a special election said an appeal would be taken.

The corporation counsel, acting for the board of elections, and Morris Hillquit, socialist candidate for mayor, both announced they would take the case into the higher courts.

McKee, who automatically became mayor when Walker resigned September 1, said he was much pleased with the decision. The board of elections had ordered that a special mayoralty vote be held at the same time as the general election in November and petitions were submitted to Judge McGeehan both to compel and to forbid such an election.

Three of the men, unmasked, forced 10 bank employees and six customers to lie face down on the floor while they cleared out the tellers' cages and took cash and negotiable securities from the vault. They locked the front door as they entered the lobby and fled through a rear door after cramming their loot into sacks. Several shots were fired, but no one was injured.

MRS. BORAH SAID TO BE RECOVERING

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator, who is suffering from psittacosis or "parrot fever," was declared tonight by her physician to be improving.

Discovery that it was parrot fever which caused Mrs. Borah to be taken to the hospital a week ago was made today after further diagnosis of the case and consultation with other physicians, said Dr. Ralph Falk, who has been treating her.

A first diagnosis indicated the disease was influenza from which she has suffered a high fever and congestion of the lungs.

Upon investigation I find that psittacosis has been reported in California parakeets. The conclusion has been reached that Mrs. Borah has psittacosis."

Six to eight thousand Salem and suburban citizens turned out last night to welcome and inspect the democratic candidate for president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, whose special train pulled into the Southern Pacific station promptly at 10:10 p. m.

The candidate, genial, smiling, stood on the rear platform of the train and with the aid of huge amplifiers attached to the train made a friendly impromptu talk.

"I heard today the best drum corps in Portland I've ever heard," the governor said to open his remarks while his crowd, gathered on all sides of the train and for blocks away cheered.

"I had a fine reception today in Portland," he went on. "I want to tell you that the people of this state know more about utilities than any state in which I have appeared."

He then introduced his son, James Roosevelt, who is assisting him on the trip, his daughter, Anna, and his son-in-law, Betty James Farley, democratic campaign manager and Roosevelt's manager in the pre-convention campaign was introduced and thanked the crowd for its hearty reception of the candidate. James Roosevelt, induced by Farley to make a few remarks, told in humorous vein of the tribulations of a cross-continent trip where Farley and himself had frequently been compelled to rise at unearthly hours to greet enthusiastic democratic supporters.

The governor told the crowd his "two small sons, six feet three and six feet two, had stayed in the east to enter school, their mother being with them." He said his wife will join the party Sunday in Arizona.

"Next President" is Presented Flag

The J. J. Jobelmann of Salem presented "the next president" with a silk flag which Roosevelt graciously received, saying he would carry it with him "to Washington on March 4. Jobelmann tendered the flag as "one New Yorker to another."

The governor, sturdy-faced and full-cheeked, was evidently pleased with the welcome received. He came from the rear coach as the train stopped, to the back platform, using only a cane. He wore a dark-grey, double-breasted suit. His watch is carried in his breast pocket, attached to a gold chain worn in the lapel. He wears rimless glasses. ### NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Extensive testimony the government tried to introduce in the lottery trial of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania was blocked today when Theodore G. Miller, D. C., refused to sign a financial agent, was upheld in a refusal to testify.

Miller, who also is under indictment, "stood on his constitutional rights" when asked about his connection with the "propagation department" of the Loyal Order of Moose.

While Senator Davis watched closely from the counsel table, Miller refused to answer one after another of the questions put by Louis M. Treadwell, assistant United States district attorney, saying his replies "might tend to incriminate me."

He refused also to produce records of his department. The government contends that it carried on, under the direction of Davis, lotteries bringing in $3,000,000 in connection with Moose lodge charity balls in 1930 and 1931.

The witness was excused until the point could be argued.
