

POLK GROUP AT FAIR IS LARGE

Oregon Normal Cooperates; 4-H Club Members do Well With Stock

MONMOUTH, Sept. 28.—Polk county day at the Oregon state fair Tuesday drew a large attendance of Monmouth people, including students of the Oregon Normal school, high school and training department. Two school buses carried full loads.

Miss Grace Maurie Mitchell, director of the O. N. S. orchestra, presented a pleasing program and songs of the school. Harvey Adams, trumpet soloist, was encouraged.

High and grade schools were dismissed Tuesday, to permit every child to attend the fair. Agricultural clubs of this section were well represented. In the final official contests of the summer first place was won in Polk for stock judging by the Independence calf club, oldest organization of the sort in the county, and second place by the Elkins Jersey calf club, a busy aggregation whose leader is J. V. Johnson of this community. The Independence boys had first choice of the big fairs to do their judging, and as they chose the state fair, George Gentmann, Hugh Hanna, Robert Hanna and Hersel Peyree, their representatives, are in Salem for the week.

The Elkins Jersey calf club boys got second choice of judging places, and took the Pacific International Livestock Exposition which opened October 15 at Portland. Boys chosen to represent this club as their official judging team are Harold Crook, Maurice Smith and Glenn Lucas. These boys will accompany County Agent J. R. Beck to Portland for the event.

MEMBERS ENJOYED MONMOUTH, Sept. 28.—A crowd enjoyed the Cotton Blossom Singers who appeared Saturday night at the Christian church. These entertainers prove biennially popular here, having appeared several previous times. They were here a few months ago in the auditorium of the Oregon Normal school.

After the program the high school girls and boys' Sunday school classes were entertained at a marshallow roast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Chambers. Lora Parker is class teacher.

SYRING'S GABLE YARN TRANSLATED

SILVERTON, Sept. 28.—The October issue of "Hunter, Trapper, Trader," is of particular interest at Silvertown as it carries a story written by Richard Syring. The story is "Raising Bull Frogs" and refers to the frog farm in Washington.

Syring, who is a graduate of Silvertown schools and later of the University of Oregon has been devoting his time this past year to feature writing with the result that many nationally known magazines have carried his articles.

His story of Clark Gable, motion picture star, which recently ran in a motion picture magazine, has been widely copied. On Monday, pages containing the story translated from Cuba. The story was written in the foreign language but the pictures were those taken at the time Gable was employed in the Silvertown lumber mill and the same used by Syring in his article.

Mr. Syring makes his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Syring at Silvertown.
