Rebuilding State Barn Considered At Meet Today

Members of the state board of control will meet today to consider rebuilding of a large hay barn at the state hospital farm, which was destroyed by fire early Sunday. The loss was estimated at $12,000. Insurance was carried in the state restoration fund.

Officials said today that the fire was of incendiary origin. This is the second time that the hospital hay barn has been destroyed by fier in two years.

IT'S SOLVED!

Now we know why firemen wear tin hats—they use them to break windows when such an expediency is necessary in fighting fires. Firemen admit the tin bonnets also protect their heads from falling bricks, but this picture shows an Oregon fireman giving instructions for the state department of vocational education as to how a window should be broken.

BUTTER AND EGGS HOLD ABOUT EVEN

PORTLAND, Oct. 3.—(AP)—There was no change in the market for butter during the week's initial trade. Local make is showing little change. Demand is good in all scores but far the best for undergrade.

Generally maintained market for eggs is showing at leading trade centers of the country. Late trading locally has been almost generally at the prices recently established.

Practically no change in price tone or general sentiment is reflected in the market for cheese.

While there continues a demand for colored broilers, the white sorts are not so favorable and some buyers have reduced the price 2c pound in order to force a movement. Staggy White Leghorns are around a dime a pound.

First California walnut offerings of the season were received during the day and considered of good quality. Soft shells were offered at 15½c with medium budded 15c and baby stock 12c pound. Oregon offerings are not due for a week or more.

Market for potatoes is marking time. Considerable No. 2 Yakima stock has been rushed here during the last week or so and plenty of available for some time even though the rule to stop shipments of that grade is carried through.

September Forecasts Exceeded; Hoover Talk Awaited

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—Authoritative unofficial estimates indicating that 1932 domestic production of all grain was larger than the government September forecast had a bearish effect on values today.

Traders showed a disposition to hold off pending delivery of an important political address by President Hoover at Des Moines tomorrow. Lack of buying support rather than any material pressure to sell accompanied breaks in prices.

Wheat closed fickle, ⅝-⅝ under Saturday's finish, corn also ⅛-⅝ down, oats ⅛-⅜ off.

Dullest Trading Since July is Marked by Heavy Prices

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Financial markets were negative and dull in the first full session of the year's fourth quarter today.

Stock transactions fell below a million shares in the dullest trading since July 21 and prices were heavy, finishing somewhat above the lows. Second grade railroad bonds softened.

Receivership proceedings against nickel plate, following Saturday's default, provided a prominent news item in an otherwise uneventful day. The road's inability to meet October 1 payments on its $20,000,000 note issue could hardly have surprised traders, but sentiment may have been dampened a bit by the Chicago petition.

Rail shares were under mild pressure, at one time showing losses of 1 to 3 points. Closing quotations were slightly above the lowest, with New York Central, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio down a point and Northern Pacific and Union Pacific off about 2.

With no constructive leadership coming from the carrier division, industrials and utilities also dropped in inert trading. U. S. Steel's loss amounted to nearly 2 points, although net declines in Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, General Motors, Harvester, Consolidated Gas, Case and North American were smaller.
