

Charlie Castro to Make Bow as "Home Town" Grappler

MEETS WOODS HERE TONIGHT

Newton, Weikum, Cordona And Wilson Matched In Special Bouts

After several lean weeks in which the grappling game here has been more or less lacking in appeal because the customers have had no one to whom they might tie their hopes and interest, they face a changed prospect at the armory tonight, for Charlie Castro, colorful welterweight who is champion of his class in Spain, is now of Salem and will attempt to show his fellow townsmen that he merits their support. He will meet Curly Woods of Centralia in the two-hour main event.

Naturally the fans are going to be from Missouri concerning Mr. Castro's reputed speed, toughness and "color" tonight and he will have to make his own reputation here, for the welterweights don't get into the national spotlight often and though Charlie has done some notable things around the Golden Gate, his achievements there have not penetrated this far.

Fans Hopeful He's Worthy of Support

Nevertheless the customers will flock to see Castro tonight and really, they'll not be so hard to please because they're hungry for somebody to be proud of.

Woods is already well known and the fans are confident that he will provide Castro with a thorough testing and at the same time put on a real show. His appearances here against Reed, Finnegan and others are still fresh in the fans' memory. He dumped Reed in short order for the first time in that match, but was incapacitated on the second one.

A bargain in "specials" is offered tonight by Matchmaker Harry Plant who has lined up two pairs of active boys. Prof. Newton and Speed Weikum, old rivals, will mix in one of the special events and Cowboy Wilson and Tony Cordona, not so well known here, will congregate in the other.

Bantam Hen Rides To Dance on Auto Bumper Unharmd

Whether this Bantam hen wanted to know what an automobile ride was like, or whether she had a curiosity to peak in at a dance will forever be a mystery. But the fact remains that when Harold Woodburn, Salem route seven, got out of his car Saturday night after driving 20 miles to a dance, he found a Bantam hen from home on the back bumper.

The hen was right side up and intact, but somewhat speechless from her first joy ride. Woodburn, unwilling to let her ride home the same way she came, found a sack and let the Bantam return home in it.

Bearcats Start Preparing For Coyotes; Cougar Game Results in no Casualties

Miraculously free from new serious injuries, the Willamette university football squad returned from its trip to Pullman which involved a 30-to-0 defeat at the hands of Washington State college, and Monday plunged into preparations for the serious business of the season; the Northwest conference games.

First of these will be at Caldwell Friday night against the Coyotes of College of Idaho. Comparative scores indicate that this will be one of the hardest games of the season for the Bearcats, for Anse Cornell's Coyotes walked roughshod on the Albany college eleven which last Friday held Whitman to two touchdowns.

The Willamette players reported that it was "a pleasure" to play Washington State because the Cougars, while they played hard, pounding football, did not mix it up with any of the clipping and other illegal tactics they have met in other games this season. The absence of clipping probably accounts for the lack of a new "casualty list."

Coach Keene, despite the nearness of the College of Idaho game, apparently decided Monday that the fundamentals constituted his squad's greatest immediate need, and started working on tackling and blocking.

The coach admitted that his squad showed some improvement in teamwork in the Washington State game, and in general put up about as good a battle as could be expected, aside from some weakness in interference running and a good many missed tackles.

CURT COMMENTS

The boss in this issue consens and our inky brethren of the sport page to the omniscient. That word filled us with foreboding when we saw it, and we hid immediately to a dictionary. It seems that it's just a dunce word "with an opening only in the top." It's all right with us, just so long as there's a copy boy at the top with a fish hook on a string to let down and spear our daily ravings. Well, maybe there better be a waiter to let down a few groceries too.

Linfield must have a great defense to have held Oregon Normal for four downs on the two-inch line, the Teachers making net gain of half an inch in the four tries. We heard McGowan, a guard, was the main section of that stone wall. He made about two-thirds of the tackles all through the game. Dalley, end, and Halizer, halfback, also looked especially good.

And Albany, they tell us, has a powerful line both on offense and defense. No soft spots in the northwest conference this year.

On the other hand Whitman looked just as strong as ever. This little fellow Gibson, we hear, is just as slippery and fast as Applegate ever was, for Applegate could be counted on to try the ends most of the time while Gibson, though weighing only 126, smacks right through the middle in his efforts to break loose. Howard Masple brought back good reports on College of Puget Sound, Pacific is a known quantity and it looks as though the Willamette boys, who start playing conference opponents this week and continue without a letup until late in November, are going to be a mighty busy gang.

DEMOS RECIPIENT OF PURPLE HEART

The first man in Oregon to receive the medal of the Order of the Purple Heart is Jim N. Demos, formerly of Portland, who now resides in Salem at 2775 Brooks avenue. Demos received this award which is given "for military merit" last month. He has just come to Salem recently, and has part time employment as a truck driver.

Demos was born in sunny Greece but was living in Portland when the war broke out and he joined up with the 361st infantry, 91st division. This outfit had hard going and Demos was shot up, losing a finger on his left hand and suffering a wound in the head. He was 18 months in France and smelled a lot of powder in that time.

The Order of the Purple Heart is granted to soldiers who displayed courage on the field. It has a purple ribbon to which is attached the heart-shaped gold medal which bears on its face embossed in gold the profile of George Washington, and on the reverse the lettering "For Military Merit," with the name of the recipient.

Indians Play Oregon City On Saturday

Close Matches Featured in President's cup Play, Salem Golf Club

CHEWAWA, Oct. 10 — Coach Lavelle's Chemawa Indian school gridiron warriors are this week awaiting one of the big tests of the year. Saturday afternoon they will meet Oregon City high at Chemawa, and those members of Lavelle's 1931 squad who are still playing, retain vivid recollections of the 40 to 0 hurricane that swept over them on Oregon City's field a year ago.

The Indians will also play the Oregon Frosh at Eugene Friday night, but this assignment will be handled by the team of older players who are no longer eligible for high school competition.

Monday afternoon Chemawa's second and third string boys who didn't get into the Rooks game at Corvallis last Saturday, played a similar group from Woodburn high and won 46 to 0. Lavelle finally had to use a few of his first string men because of some injuries. His team held a considerable weight advantage, but Woodburn put up a stiff opposition and held the Indians to a safety in the first period and eight points up to half time. Then size began to tell and the Chemawa boys ran up a big total in the second half. Their one weakness was in making the extra points, only two being scored.

Daybreak Rally Greets Staters Back From L.A.

CORVALLIS Ore., Oct. 10 — (AP) — Oregon State's football team, welcomed back from the south with a daybreak rally this morning, was given a day of rest by Coach Paul J. Schissler, as the next game, with Washington State college, is two weeks away.

Reports of those attending the Oregon State-University of Southern California game at Los Angeles Saturday are that the Beavers put up a strong fighting game to hold the Trojans to the low score of 10 to 0.

Schissler said the team will start training tomorrow for the Cougar game, to be played here Saturday, October 22.

SALEM ELEVEN TO VISIT BEND

Lava Bears Strong; Coach Huntington to Take 20, Boys Working Hard

Safely past its first test but not yet a smooth-working machine, the Salem high school football squad is being groomed this week by Coach Hollis Huntington for its first invasion of central Oregon.

Sometime Friday—early, Coach Huntington hopes, so that his men will have time for a workout that afternoon on the Bend gridiron—the squad will leave for the central Oregon metropolis to play the Bend Lava Bears Saturday.

Of the Lava Bears, coached by M. A. Cochran, little is known here except that they have defeated all opponents to date — Redmond, Burns and, last Saturday, Prineville by a 32-to-0 score. It was reported in September that most of the men Cochran used regularly last season had graduated and would not be on hand this year, but he seems to have built rapidly this season and will have the advantage in that his men have played more games. They played their alumni before starting on Redmond.

"Pop" Haines, a veteran as his name implies, is said to be Bend's chief running threat. He scored three times on long gallops, against Prineville. Bend's passes also worked well.

Huntington's chief worry this week is to develop replacements for his first string backfield and he is giving a number of boys opportunities to show what they can do on the trip, and the entire squad is working hard, each lad with the hope that he will be one of those listed for the ride.

Max and Jack Again in June

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MAX SCHMELING has decided that he will spend the Christmas holidays with his folks in Germany. And that decision has knocked into a cocked hat any ideas the Madison Square Garden managers may have had of a Schmeling-Carnera or Schmeling-Schaef fight in December.

Der Maxie, following his sensational victory over the diminutive Mickey Walker, mentioned something about a busy winter. He seemed keen on a fight right away either with Carnera or with Baer. But Manager Joe Jacobs, pretty certain that Maxie will get the promised shot at Jack Sharkey next June, vetoed the idea.

Schmeling is anxious to get another fight under his belt before making his bid to regain his title from Walker. And he is almost certain that Maxie will meet someone during the winter at the Garden in New York or at Miami where the Garden Corporation has a perfectly good arena going to waste.

If his opponent is Maxie Baer, Schmeling is in for a tough evening. Baer seems right now to be the Number Three man of the heavyweight ranks. His two recent victories, over Schaef and Tuffy Griffiths, proved that he is one of the heaviest punchers in the game.

However, Schmeling is confident of getting by either Baer or Carnera and he is also confident of reversing things when he again faces Sharkey in June.

Following the Walker fight the experts were quick to concede that if Schmeling fights Sharkey with the same aggressive, hard-punching tactics he used against Walker, he is sure to win, possibly by a knockout. Max did look good against Walker, there is no denying that. But then Walker, all through the fight was coming to Max, walking in throwing left hooks to the body. This was pie for Schmeling's right cross and it was this blow which finally spelled pugilistic doom for the courageous Mickey.

But in Sharkey Der Maxie will not have an opponent who will walk into punches. Instead the German may have to take the aggressive, as he was forced to do in the last fight, and as a result lose much of his effectiveness.

However, Sharkey will have been idle a whole year. It is a known fact that he has lost much of his zest for the game. He speaks frequently of retiring and he has the wherewithal to do it. On the other hand, Schmeling, with two fights and two long training grinds back of him, and with his championship desires at fever heat, will be a mighty different Schmeling than the ineffective fighter who faced Sharkey last June.

HOME NOT TO NEED LEGISLATIVE FUNDS

Ample funds will be available for the operation of the old soldiers home at Roseburg for six months of next year even though the federal government does not take it over before that time, Sam Starnier, commandant, informed Henry M. Hansen, state budget director here today. Starnier said he also would return $11,000 to the general fund of the state December 31 of this year.

When the federal government takes over the old soldiers home, for operation in conjunction with the National veterans hospital, all money remaining in the home fund will revert to the state. Starnier said the home probably would be taken over by the federal government prior to July 1, 1933.

There is now $46,075 in the soldiers' home fund. Of this amount, $11,000 will be required to conduct the home during the remainder of 1932.

In case the home is taken over by the federal government prior to January 1 of next year, more than $35,000 of home funds will revert to the state.
