

Late Fall Social Calendar Presages Busy Winter Season for Capital City

October Days Set Brisk Pace for Late Fall Social Events in All Circles

Opening of Club Seasons, Entertaining for Visitors, Active Interest in Sports, Church Activities, all Keep Hours Full to Brim

THE brisk, nippy temperature of the past week has set up a reaction in social circles of Salem. The calendar is marked with social events which move in brisk procession through the days of the coming week and in retrospect the past week shows equally as much activity.

A glance ahead shows charming affairs planned in compliment to Mrs. John F. Main, wife of Judge Main of the Washington supreme court, who is visiting here from Seattle.

Sunday afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock Mrs. Jessie Singleton, who with Mrs. George Alden is hostess to Mrs. Main for her week's visit in the city, will entertain with an informal tea at her home. Mrs. Pearl Smith will assist Mrs. Singleton during the tea hour.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Alden will entertain with an informal afternoon inviting wives of Oregon supreme court judges and a few intimate friends to meet Mrs. Main.

Mrs. Henry J. Bean will entertain for Mrs. Main with an attractive luncheon Wednesday. Other informal entertaining is being planned and Mrs. Main will be special guest for the Writer's section meeting Tuesday night and for the Willamette Faculty Women's club Thursday with Mrs. W. H. Trindle.

Art Exhibit Outstanding Event

IN the exhibit of 37 original paintings to be held Monday and Tuesday in the Gilbert Studio, Salem is being offered the rare opportunity of its history to enjoy the work of the English and American artists of the past century. Cromie and Turner, the fathers of the present trend in English art are each represented. Cromie by a canvas characteristically depicting a quaint thatched cottage backed by picturesque trees and with winding path leading to it; Turner by one entitled "Thatched Cottage Near Rye."

The Cromie is a notable example, similar in tone and composition to his famous "Marlingford Grove" purchased by the Lady Lever Art Gallery, Port Sunlight, in May 1923 for $25,000. The Turner is from the collection of the late Sir Henry Theobald, K. C., London. Thomas Moran is represented by one of his Venetian scenes on the Grand Canal.

The pictures come to Salem from a month at the Meier and Frank Art Galleries in Portland. They are under the direction of Mr. H. Taylor-Brewitt, who will be at the studio and give of his knowledge and experience.

The invitation is extended to everyone who has an interest in seeing and becoming acquainted with the best art works of the world to visit this exhibit and bring their friends. It is the sort of thing that one can see again and again with new interest and new beauty.

Announcement has reached Salem of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Fairchild, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Fairchild of Clatsop, Cal., and formerly of Salem to Eugene Browncombe in New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Browncombe will make their home in Cold Harbor Springs, Long Island, where Mr. Browncombe is connected with a research laboratory.

Among the very distinctive social events of the year are the dances given by the Subscription club. The first of these will be an event of October 29 at the Masonic temple. This will be formal as all the dances are being planned for this season. Dates of the following dances are November 26, December 31 and February 14.

ROMANCE IN NAVY

Lieutenant George C. Cannon, captain of the United States fencing team and also the man who took the oath of amateurism in the recent Olympics, and his bride, the former Miss Lillian Collier, following their marriage in Swanton, Vermont.

Invitations are out for a young married couple's party to be given for the Catholic young married people at St. Joseph's hall Wednesday night, October 19, from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. The pastor, Father Buck, is entertaining this group and arrangements will be made at this time for a permanent organization or club, and times and places for parties.

The object is to have the young people know each other better and to foster social relations. Mesdames Lilian Kropp, Eva Hemmann, Irma Barr, Leona Etzel and J. Subbauer will assist in the entertaining.

PROGRAM CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Hal Hoss, who is taking an active part in the program activities of Sigma Nu chapter of Delphian society and who had charge of the program plans for the smart Sigma Nu tea at the Edgar Pierce home Friday.

Music Holds Prominent Dates

MUSIC of a much more ambitious type than has been on Salem's musical program heretofore is forming a part of the music calendar of events this season. The program of the Salem MacDowell club with Miss Juliet Glen as soloist started off the year and close on this came the delightful evening of piano given by Miss Olga Steeb of Los Angeles.

November 1 the distinguished Portland cellist, Michael Aronstein, will be presented in a highly artistic and professional program at the First Christian church under the sponsorship of the Ladies Madrigal club.

Arenstein now of the Portland Symphony orchestra and formerly of the symphony orchestra of Cleveland, Ohio, has received commendable applause from critics all over the United States and will bring to Salem a program of distinctive artistic quality and melodic appeal.

His violinello is a rare instrument, being a Stradivari and at least 200 years old. This adds beauty and mellowness to the splendid touch of this reputed cellist.

The Madrigal club will sing one number, "How Summer Came" by Clokey. The proceeds from this concert, prices are "depression" ones it is said, will be used for a sprint cantata of mixed voices. That of Olor Trivasson is planned for the Y. W. C. A. with a give added color. A later program is anticipated for May.

A more recent program than this will be the Acappella choir of the First Presbyterian church of Portland, which is being brought to Salem by the choir of the First Presbyterian church of Astoria for October 24 at the First Presbyterian church. The choir is said to be one of the finest of such organizations on the coast. It has a personnel of 40 voices.

The Salem Philharmonic society is also working to present to Salem an excellent program of symphony music this season. The symphony group is under the direction of Jacques Gershkovitch, whose superior direction has made of the Portland Junior orchestra one of outstanding accomplishment in musical circles of the country.

Together with all these musical events to look toward and more that are to be planned there is the nearness of the Portland Symphony orchestra, a group under the leadership of William von Hoogstraten, whose position in music in the United States and Europe is enviable.

Supreme interest centers about his return, as new laurels have come to him and thereby to Oregon with whom he is so closely linked musically, as the result of his outstanding success this summer as conductor of the nine Beethoven symphonies at the Beethoven festival in Bonn, Germany. That city, birthplace of the famed composer, invited Mr. van Hoogstraten to travel half way around the world and be their symphony leader on that important occasion.

This year's series is two concerts shorter than last year's but the quality of entertainment is in no degree sacrificed. In fact, even finer programs are being arranged by Mr. van Hoogstraten, who is bringing with him new inspirations for the 79 musicians in the Portland orchestra.

Six artists will appear during the coming season. First will be Albert Spalding, America's greatest violinist, who will be heard the night of November 21. Ossip Gabrilowitch is scheduled to play the night of January 12. New York critics describe the distinguished pianist's music as "not dependent upon novelty or sensationalism for its charm." Others who will be featured during the year are Edouard Hurlimann, concert pianist and violinist with the orchestra, Ruth Bradley Kolser, pianist, Sylvia Weinstein Margulis, violinist, and William Boyer, music supervisor in the Portland schools, who will direct a children's chorus of several hundred voices.

Since the music season has been shortened, the season tickets are the lowest in years. The full schedule of concerts follows: Monday evenings, November 7 and 21, December 5 and 19, January 12, 26, and February 13; Sunday matinees, November 13 and 27, December 11, January 8 and 22, and February 5.
