Goal-to-Goal Advance is Made for 12-7 Victory Over Webfooters

By FRANK G. GORRIE MULTNOMAH STADIUM, Portland, Ore., Oct. 15-(AP)-You read about them in books and you see them in the movies but we saw it in the real out on this mud-covered gridiron today.

It was a real forward pass that carried the ball from goal to goal while the timer's gun was calling the game to a halt to give the University of California at Los Angeles a dizzy, spine tingling 12 to 7 victory over the University of Oregon in their annual Pacific Coast conference

Just as the timer raised his pistel over his head to stop the contest with the northern Webfooters leading 7 to 6, Mitchell Frankovich, pass-throwing quarterback dropped behind his goal line and whipped an aerial shot to Ransome Livesay, substitute

Livesay least into the air and hauled down the slippery pigskin on his 31-yard line, Two Oregonians grapped him. He jerked away from one, wiggled out of the arms of the other and ran like a scared deer. As he crossed the 50-yard stripe the gun sounded but it was too late for the Webfooters for he was far out of their reach and he scampered unmolested to the goal line for one of the most thrilling football finals ever witnessed, Oregon Tries Only

Pass; Intercepted It was like a bolt from out of the sky to the surprised crowd of approximately 8000 fans who filed out of the big stadium in a daze, unable to realize for the moment that such a thing could happen. Oregon had just blocked a U. C. L. A. pass and recovered the ball on the Bruin 34-yard line and it looked like the contest was all over as only a few seconds were left for play.

Bill Bowerman, Webfoot quarright thing by holding the ball. He called upon Bobbitt to smack the line and he failed to gain but that didn't matter. He gave Brown the ball on the next play for another buck and he made

Then for the first time in the for a forward pass, apparently not satisfied to win by one point. Brown ran back, hurled the ball towards the goal line, but Frankovich, the wide-awake Bruin was there instead of a Webfoot. He intercepted on his 8-yard line.

Still this did not worry anybody as the timer had his gun in the air. Then came the one and only chance for the Bruins. The goal to goal play. It worked and the hall game was over. Big Thrills Come

In Last 6 Minutes The spectators had hardly recovered from Ucla's first touchdown before this last mighty jolt. Only five minutes before the lies and they made a grand

It was Frankovich again. He tossed a short aerial to Joe Berry, substitute halfback, and the latter raced 50 more yards down the side lines to Oregon's 8-yard line. He was brought down from behind by Bowerman. Keeble picked up 1 yard through left guard, and Berry, behind excelleft end for a touchdown. All-Important Point

Upon the shoulder of Livesay rested what appeared to be the Bruin's only chance to eatch upwith Oregon. He tried a place kick, the ball was grimy with mud and it went wide of the goal posts and the fans considered the game safe. But not the Californians. They went right back to work and kept trying, hurling pass after pass, and finally one

Oregon's lone touchdown, chalked up late in the second period, was furnished by George "Pepper" Pepeinjak, the first time he carried a ball in a conference game.

When the Webfooters reached California territory for the first time in the game, charging to Ucla's 45-yard line, Coach "Prink" Callison rushed his littie sophomore sensation into the fray. "Pep" got into the huddle just in time to hear his signal he grabbed the pigskin, whirled around right end and romped down the side lines to the goal line. Ted Geisecke, a soccer player, used most of the time for only kickofts and placekicks, split the uprights for the PENDLETON WINNER PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 15 (AP)-Pendleton high school defeated Heppner high, 12 to 0 in their football game here today.

That used to be an ironclad rule for quarterbacks when we were a boy, and despite the scotfings of a modern generation which does not view the forward pass as an engraved invitation for the opposition to score, we'll be struggle here today. The score blamed if we are ready to discard was 12 to 7, all the points being it. What happened in Portland illustrated just about the ultimate, outside possibility. It was just the next thing to a miracle, but it was still a vivid filustration.

> You may not call it a boner Oregon's passing down to the Bruins' seven-yard line with less than a minute to play. But it was a needless surrender of the ball, and in view of the way Bruin passes had been working, we beg leave to differ from you and call it a boner.

We'll call it that even though the ball was hurled by our old friend-Elmer Brown, with whom we used to practice punting on the sandlots at Bend. But we have a hunch that Prink Callison ordered it, because he had just sent Elmer in there.

That play put the Bruins back so far that it was better than a punt. Nevertheless, it happened on third down, after Brown had made a fair gain. It's certain that if Ucla had time for only one play after getting that ball, Oregon could have kept it one more play and the game would have been over with the score 7 to 6. And you may say we're second guessing, but we think the same now that we did when Elmer let go of that ball.

All the same if Oregon had to lose to somebody, we're glad it was those erstwhile downtrodden Bruins.

The northwest doesn't seem to be battling hopelessly against the California schools this fall. Oregon State came close to stopping that succession of victories with a bang.
