

SCOTT SPEAKS ON MOTOR FEES

Low License Cost Will Curtail Road Building Program in big way

WOODBURN, Oct. 20.—People of the state of Oregon must choose between a reduction of motor license fees and continuance of an extensive road building program, Leslie M. Scott, chairman of the state highway commission, told the Woodburn chamber of commerce members, in a meeting here Wednesday night. Road demands made upon the commission from various sections of the state and now before the commission total the staggering sum of $25,000,000, the commissioner pointed out. In 1930 and 1931, highway revenue reached 40½ million dollars per year; in 1932, construction expenditures were two and a half million dollars; and next year there will be a greater cut, even on the present license basis.

The highway commission would secure only about a million dollars from a cent increase in the gas tax, which would not offset a cut in the license fee. The $3 license fee would stop all highway construction, as it would reduce the revenue two and a half million dollars. A 50 per cent cut in the license would cut the revenue one and one-half million dollars. Scott said $2,400,000 is being spent for reconstruction of the Pacific highway alone, with $1,500,000 being spent this biennium. Of this sum, a million and a quarter is from the federal unemployment fund and a quarter million from state funds.

Waste of the highway hand labor relief program was touched upon by Scott, who said $1,700,000 was spent on hand labor relief work with scant results.
