

Powerful Logger Crew to Invade Bearcat Lair Saturday

STARS OF 1931 OCCUPY BENCH

Including All-Conference Guard; Team Wins Four Games 'Under Wraps'

All the Willamette Bearcats have to do Saturday night in order to remain in the running for Northwest conference honors, is to defeat the team that has beaten Pacific, Whitman and College of Idaho within a space of three weeks—and has done it without, apparently, removing its "wraps."

Even in noosing out Whitman 7 to 6, College of Puget Sound appeared to have one eye on the sidelines looking for Willamette and College of Idaho scouts, and didn't show anything but power plays. Roy Sandberg's men scored a touchdown in 6 1/2 minutes, the veteran halfback Ennis paving the way with a 40-yard run; and then the Loggers, presumably under orders, curled up inside their shell and scored no more, though they piled up 275 yards from scrimmage.

A week before, Puget Sound scored on Pacific, waited until Pacific had tied the score, then quickly punched across another. In the opening game of the season, Puget Sound pushed over one touchdown against St. Martins and when the Irish didn't come back, let it go at that. Only in last week's game, with Willamette busy trimming Albany and all other opponents out of the way, did Sandberg's men score any necessary points. They beat St. Martins 7 to 0, Pacific 13 to 6 and Whitman 7 to 6, then opened up a little and beat the Coyotes 19 to 0.

Three-Fourths of Opposition Down
If it were not for the hints that emanated from Walla Walla after the Whitman game, it might seem that Puget Sound after those close games, might be due for a slump. If the Walla Walla reports are true, the Loggers have scarcely found it necessary to work up a mild perspiration while they mowed down three-fourths of their presumably serious opposition.

An analysis of the Puget Sound roster reveals that five of last year's regulars—all outstanding men—are again in action this season. A number of others who were habitually in the starting lineup a year ago are now reserves—among them Sprenger, who was picked by Vincent Borleske as an all-conference guard; Pettibone, end; Hurworth, guard; Gagnon, center; Ennis, halfback, and Sterling, quarterback, are the members of the 1931 team who are playing regularly now. Pettibone was all-conference end last year and Gagnon, Ennis and Sterling all received mention for all-conference position.

Secret of Strength
In addition to these outstanding veterans, Sandberg has five men who played under his coaching at other institutions; the men who were on that second team of ineffectives which was said to be able to defeat any team this season; and he has a wealth of new material, including seven freshmen backfield performers, a number of whom have already shown their mettle.

The starting backfield will probably include Sterling and Ennis along with Kimball, from Staterum high in Tacoma, and Davidson, a transfer from University of Washington. Davidson and Kimball have apparently beaten out two other recruits from Tacoma schools, Jesse Brooks, a negro fullback who was said to be the outstanding ball carrier in the high school circles in Washington last year, and Burnstad. Others of the freshman contingent include Havel and McConnell, Tacoma boys, and Schatz from Sumner.

The new linemen who replaced last year's veterans are Akam and Slatter, tackles; Hickox, guard who stepped into Sprenger's shoes, and Lindquist, end. Along with Gagnon, Pettibone and Hurworth, they compose a seven-man wall of 200-pounders, and one which has pounded every opposing line to bits so far this season.

Lebanon Tops Valley Teams On Gridiron

WOODBURN, Oct. 25—Lebanon is still leading the pack this fall for football supremacy in the Willamette Intercollegiate league, according to figures given Monday by Vern Bain, an officer of the league. Lebanon has yet to be defeated, and has beaten two other teams.

Silverton, Woodburn and West Linn are locked in a three-way tie, each having won one and lost one game. Molalla has drawn a blank so far having lost two games and won none. Woodburn is not playing a league game this weekend, as it tangles with Gresham.

Although all chance of Woodburn's winning the league championship is lost, if the Bulldogs win their two remaining games and someone topples over Lebanon in the meantime, the contest will be thrown into a tie.

BLUE LAWS REPEALED
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 25 (AP)—The Alabama legislature legalized Sunday movies, baseball, golf and tennis in Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile today over the veto of Governor Miller.

Traditional Gridiron Classics

By HARDIN BURNLEY

COLUMBIA meets Cornell in the result of their earlier games. Cornell, the big red team from Ithaca, ought to run into some trouble subduing Columbia, for Lou Little, coach of the big New York City outfit, has trotted a powerful team out on to the gridiron at Baker Field for the 1932 schedule. The real test of Columbia's ability, or at least the most spectacular test, was the Princeton game, in which Columbia won brilliantly. Last year it wasn't much of a trick to tame the Tiger, but this season Fritz Crisler has a snarling pack of Bengals.

But while Columbia ought to give Cornell quite a tussle, the experts say Cornell will win. Gil Dobie, the ancient mentor of the Ithacans, has been more pessimistic than ever this year, and that is regarded as ominous. He still has Ferraro and Viviano and a strong line—an outfit which shapes up on paper as superior to the one-man threat of Cliff Montgomery, the big gun of Lou Little's attack.

Floundering badly at the start of the season, Yale clearly missed Booth, the one and only Albie. But they missed also another young man, who was on the sidelines with an injury. That youngster is Bob Lassiter, who last year stood second only to Booth among the Bulldog bullets.

When Yale meets Dartmouth next Saturday the New Hampshire boys will have their instructions. "Watch Lassiter" will be the watchword. Coach Cannell thinks his boys can stop Crowley, but he is not quite sure about this tall and rangy Lassiter boy from Charlotte, N. C.

Last fall it was conceded that Bob was terrific in a broken field and a terror off tackle. He is heavier now, with a year of varsity play behind him. If he gets any blocking, he can be counted on to supply most of the broken-field thrills of the day.

Illinois, once the terror team of the midwest, has not been the same since the "galloping ghost" Red Grange, wore number 77 for the last time on a college gridiron. But on this coming Saturday Illinois meets Chicago, to try to break through one of the best teams "Old Man" Stagg has had in years. This time there are many who think the Illini will pull the trick. Most of the hopes are built around triple-threat Gil Berry, hailed on the Illinois as the best wearer of the Illini colors since the immortal Grange himself.

Berry will make his presence felt against Stagg's men, but he has a handicap. Nowhere in the Illinois squad is there a blocker of the ability of the famous Britton, who used to open enormous holes in enemy territory for the galloping ghost. However, Berry has a competent foil in Pete Yanulus when the signals call for deceptive plays, but it remains to be seen whether they can fool the men of the Stagg clan. Only Saturday's game can give the answer.

Orville Mohler Out for Season

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24—(AP)—The University of Southern California football team was short of its greatest offensive threat for the remainder of the season today when Orville Mohler, quarterback, was ordered by Willis O. Hunter, director of athletics to quit the game as a precaution against possible serious or fatal injury to a weakened vertebra in his back.

YOUNG CORBETT WINS
FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 25—(AP)—Young Corbett of Fresno, contender for the welterweight championship, tonight won a 10 round decision over Cerefino Garcia of 75 points out of 90. A crowd of 4,000 saw the fight in the Fresno Civic auditorium.

MOST VALUABLE DIAMOND STARS

To the City of Brotherly Love goes the honor of producing the two most valuable baseball players of the 1932 season, according to the judging committee of the American Baseball Writers' Association. They are Jimmy Foxx (left), first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, who was adjudged the most valuable in the American League, with a total of 75 points out of 90, and Chuck Klein, who patrols the right field for Philadelphia, was given the corresponding honor in the National League with a score of 75 points out of 90. Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, was second to Foxx and Lou Warlick, of the Chicago Cubs, was runner-up to Klein.

CURT COMMENTS

The Associated Press is harping on the matter of fatal and serious injuries in football again. It may be a good thing, but we hope the A. P. gets the facts straighter this year. In an effort last season to make the list of fatalities mount up, every fatal accident that could be shown to bear the slightest connection to football, was listed.

The case of the small boy who kicked a football out into the street, followed it and was run over by a truck, was listed along with that of a boy who is alive and well and, no doubt, playing football this fall.

One college player and about nine high school or sandlot players had died from asserted football injuries this fall according to yesterday's summary. Since then a college student playing on a class team has died. We might mention that serious football is in our opinion one of the worst of crimes, because the players are not trained and there is no adequate supervision, as a rule.

Despite its unfairness this checkup by the Associated Press will be a good thing if it brings about more careful enforcement of the rules. A young man who has played some football in the east informs us that officials there are more rigid in enforcement, particularly of such rules as those against clipping, than those in this vicinity.

Fatal Injury to Gridder Feared

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25—(AP)—Physicians at a hospital here tonight expressed fear that Carl Hartmack, 16, a student at Belmont high school, had sustained a broken neck in a football practice scrimmage here today.

He was placed under x-ray examination. Doctors reported his condition serious.

Scio Team Ready For Next Tangle

SCIO, Oct. 25—Friday, October 25, Scio meets Brownsville in the second county game for Scio, on the home gridiron.

Since Scio defeated Parrish of Salem 14 to 6 last Friday, the home team is pepped up to win from Brownsville this week, and a good game is promised.

SALEM ELEVEN LOOKS BETTER

Stronger Showing Against Astoria Friday Night, Coach's Forecast

Having lost two games to strong opponents by one-touchdown margins, the Salem high school football team is showing signs of "finding itself" this week and though rated as the "under dog," ought to make a better competitive showing against Astoria high Friday night, it was stated Tuesday by Coach Hollis Huntington.

One of the principal lacks to date has been blocking, and after concentrating on this all-important fundamental Monday and Tuesday, Huntington had hopes that improvement would be shown in the matter of paving the way for the ball carriers.

Engle, who has shown a lot of aggressiveness as an end, has been moved to halfback and the coach hopes that this shift will strengthen the attack. He is not so sure how Engle will work in as a defender against passes, but hopes his basketball training and his height will help out there.

Line Not Punctured For Touchdown Yet

It is significant that although Salem high has lost two games, its line has not yet been punctured for a touchdown. One of Bend's scores was made on a pass and the other on a blocked kick, and Albany's was on a pass.

Huntington is not worrying about Astoria going much of anywhere through that line, but is concentrating on building an offense that will do some scoring to offset any points the Fishermen may acquire through passes or breaks.

Wauseka Hauser, halfback who was unable to play against Albany because of a knee injury, will be in shape and is expected to see considerable action against Astoria.

PELZ AND AH LEE BATTLE TO DRAW

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25—(AP)—Benny Pelz and Ah Wing Lee, both of Portland, slugged their way savagely to a draw tonight in the first 10-round fight ever here this year. Pelz weighed 134 and Lee 135.

There were no knockdowns, but in the sixth round Pelz had the Chinese boy helpless on the ropes at the bell with a volley of body punches.

Bob Heckler of Salt Lake City, Pacific coast lightweight amateur champion, gained a six-round decision over Dave Humes of Port Angeles, Wash., in a semi-windup that was Heckler's professional debut. Heckler weighed 171 and Humes 163.

Al Truman, San Diego, 150, was given his fight in the fourth round of a scheduled six-rounder when Willard Norton, 151, Eugene, failed to heed the referee's warning to open up.

Morgan, 152, Portland, knocked out Paul Karch, 149, Portland, in their fourth and final round. Jackie Kileen, 116, Independence, Ore., won a technical knock-out over Johnny Toran, 114, Chicago, in the second round of a scheduled four-rounder.

Sheridan and Independence Clash Friday

INDEPENDENCE, Oct. 25—The Independence high school football team will meet the Sheridan eleven on the home field, Friday, October 28. The team is working hard preparing for the Dallas game which will be played on Armistice day. The Dallas team defeated Sheridan by a score of 13-0.

The probable lineup will be: Lenhard and Hanson, ends; Steele and Quiring guards; Peyron and Gentemann, tackles; Syverson, center; McEldowney, quarter; Krans and Newton, halves; McLaughlin, fullback.

WON'T DIVE

Benny Bass, former featherweight and junior lightweight champion, who recently petitioned the Philadelphia courts to free him from his manager, Phil Glassman, Bass testified that Glassman wanted him to "lay down" to inferior opponents.

The contract the boxer wants to break has three years to run.

OLYMPIC STAR'S NEW RACQUET

Proving that his prowess is not confined to the running track, Bill Carr, star of the University of Pennsylvania track team and Olympic world champion 400-yard runner, is shown at the net as he participated in the Penn tennis championships. Carr scored a 6-4, 6-1 triumph over Grant McDougal, his college mate who finished fifth in the Olympic hammer throw, in the second round of the tourney.

Oregon City Junior High Team to Oppose Parrish Friday on Olinger Field

Oregon City junior high will send its football team to Salem Friday afternoon to play Parrish on Olinger field at 3:30. Last year Parrish lost an early season game to Oregon City, 18 to 0, though later Leslie, loser to Parrish in the city series tied Oregon City once and won a game from the boys from the falls.

This year Oregon City is not rated so highly after its defeat by Leslie two weeks ago, but it was the testimony of Coach Gurnee Fleisher of Leslie that his boys were playing apparently "over their heads" that day and the visitors may have a surprise in store for Coach Harold Hauk's eleven.

Hauk this week has moved Damon from fullback to his old position in the line, having discovered in the Scio game that some additional strength in the forward wall was highly essential. Dow, a sturdily built lad who turned out for practice late and has not been ready for competition until this week, will take Damon's place at full.

Just as one of his men recovered from an attack of measles, Hauk lost another this week to that ailment. Aker being the returning victim and Johnson the new one. However, in general the Parrish squad is in good condition. The injury which forced Phil Salstrom, quarterback, out of the Scio game for most of a period, proved only a temporary handicap.

Gresham Hi And Bulldogs To Vie Again

WOODBURN, Oct. 25—Once more Gresham high school's football machine will invade Woodburn's territory and attempt to win a victory from the Bulldogs, although every other attempt Gresham has ever made ended disastrously for the invader. Friday afternoon will see the two teams go into action on the Woodburn high school field.

Although reports from the Gresham camp are very meager, all available information shows that the team is strong this year. The outfit is said to have an unusually good backfield combination, headed by a star fullback, Gresham recently blanked the strong Milwaukie outfit 19 to 0.

Woodburn will go into the contest Friday with at least three regulars missing. Halter, fullback has a badly sprained wrist, a result of the Newberg-Woodburn game. Larson, a tackle, and Cooper, wingman, are also out because of injuries. Favelok, who plays guard, is recovering from an infection but will probably start.

The lineup for Woodburn, as tentatively outlined Monday by Coach Gil Oddie, will be Kinns and G. Koch, ends; Courtney and L. Koch, tackles; Favelok and Conyne, guards; Block, center; Gearis, quarterback; Skiller and Boyle, halfbacks; and Cammack, fullback.

Norman Franklin Lost for Season To Orange Squad

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 25—(AP)—Norman Franklin, flashy Oregon State college sophomore halfback who was injured in the Washington State game here Saturday, will be out of the game the rest of the season, doctors informed Coach Paul J. Schissler today.

What at first was believed to be an elbow dislocation has proven to be a definite fracture. Franklin was hurt when he was tackled hard at the end of the second long gain in the drive for the goal line early in the second half. Coach Schissler has been using Blacone and Ward interchangeably with Franklin.

SCORELESS AGAIN

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25—(AP)—The Roughriders of Roosevelt high school held the Washington High Colonials to a scoreless tie in their football game here today.

NOVAK, ASHBY TO MEET NEXT

Beat Woods and Wolfgang; Respectively to Stay in Welter Tourney

Bobby Novak of Cleveland and "Spike" Ashby of Flint, Mich., emerged as the next opponents in the Salem boxing and wrestling tournament to select an opponent for Henry Jones in a welterweight title bout, when they won their matches at the armory Tuesday night.

Novak brought his celebrated figure four hook scissors into play twice to defeat "Curly" Woods of Centralia in short order after Woods had taken the first fall in 12 minutes with a flying head scissor.

Woods got right down to business and proved that he also was no slouch with leg holds and he also showed considerable adeptness with short arm bars, but there was no argument when Novak put on that deadly figure four after 10 minutes more. Novak made the third round still shorter, clamping Woods with the same hold in five minutes.

Ashby took his match from Floyd Wolfgang with similar impressiveness though Wolfgang staged a rapid comeback to take the second fall in 61 seconds with a series of somersaults. Ashby won the first in 18 minutes, 40 seconds with a series of headlocks and a body press, and the third in 2:25 with a self-strangle.

The Novak-Ashby bout will be staged next Monday night, to avoid conflict with political meetings scheduled for Tuesday, the regular wrestling night.

HEALTH WORK GETS RESULTS IN SCHOOL

Feet, teeth, tonsils and posture constituted the major source of physical defects county health department workers discovered in examining 184 girls and 160 boys at Parrish junior high school recently. In all, 274 defects were found in girls and 261 in boys.

Effectiveness of the examinations is demonstrated by the fact that over half of the defects in the case of the girls and nearly half of the defects in the case of the boys, were remedied. Each child examined was given a slip, listing his defects, to take home for information of the parents.

Seven per cent of the girls examined and three per cent of the boys were found to be free of defects.

Immunization Emphasized

This year the health department is concentrating on correction of faulty teeth and immunizing school and preschool children against smallpox and diphtheria according to Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer. Of the girls examined at Parrish, 105 have received toxin antitoxin for diphtheria and vaccine for smallpox. Eighty-one boys have received toxin antitoxin and 79 vaccine.
