SALEM BEATEN 31-0 AT COAST

Tillamook Boys Entitled to State Title Chance is Huntington's Word

Whoever picked the contenders for the mythical state high school football championship and left Tillamook high out of consideration, passed up a large bet, according to Hollis Huntington, Salem high coach, who brought his boys home from the cheese metropolis Friday night with a short end of a 31 to 0 score.

Discounting the fact that Salem high's gridmen made a poorer showing than usual presumably because they were wearing under a load of defeats, Huntington declared the Tillamook team was the strongest he had seen in Oregon this year; "about twice as good as Eugene."

Coach Russell Rarey of Tillamook has built his attack around a blocking halfback who weighs about 225 and is fast on top of that. This big boy never carries the ball; there are two light, flashy lads who take care of that tripping along behind the steam roller until they get out in the clear and then lighting out for themselves. There is also a lanky fullback who is hard to stop when he piles into the line.

On top of that, all the rest of the Cheesemakers are big and active and the team is strong in every department, Huntington said, except passing. It has had few occasions to resort to the air, though one score against Salem was made overhead.

Most of the scoring was done on straight football, including several long runs.

The only outstanding thing about Salem's showing at Tillamook was the kicking of Weisser, which lost some of its effectiveness because many of the punts were brought back long distances. One was run back 75 yards to the goal line, but was called back because the receiver touched his knee to the ground as he caught the ball.

Salem fans did not know, before the local team headed for Tillamook Friday, just what a record the Cheesemakers had achieved this year. It was learned here Friday that they had won all their games by big margins, and it is difficult to understand why this team was not considered for the Portland "title" game. Here is Tillamook's record:

Tillamook 7, Columbia Prep 0.
Tillamook 42, Seaside 0.
Tillamook 19, Albany 0.
Tillamook 34, Forest Grove 0.
Tillamook 20, McMinnville 6.
Tillamook 19, Hillsboro 7.
Tillamook 31, Salem 0.

Lester Voris, Whitman tackle who is declared to be one of the best men in that position ever developed by Coach "Nig" Borske. Voris will be in the Missionary forward wall when it opposes the Bearcats on Sweetland field this afternoon.

All of the intense though friendly athletic rivalry which has prevailed between the two oldest institutions of higher education on the Pacific slope, Willamette university and Whitman college, will find expression once again this afternoon at 2 o'clock on Sweetland field when the cardinal-clad Bearcats and the blue-shirted Missionaries go forth to do battle for the glory of their respective alma maters.

Weather conditions have been practically ideal for several days and the gridiron will be in first class condition, despite factitious threats on the part of Willamette boosters to flood the field and give the Missionaries a swimming lesson to retaliate for the snow fight to which Whitman initiated the Bearcats a year ago.

Whitman according to reports from Walla Walla, will come here with its first string lineup intact and in good condition. Willamette will start the game minus four "regulars," one or two of whom may see a few minutes of service but will be of little value on the field; while at least four of the men starting the game will not be in the best of shape.

Indications, meanwhile, are for an attendance closely approaching that of the Whitman-Willamette game in 1930, the largest that had ever witnessed a football game in Salem.

Whitman is sending a large scoreless tie against Leslie here and they finished the season by beating Independence.

BULLDOGS BEAT FOXES 27 TO 0

Straight Football, Blocked Punts Figure in Annual County "big Game"

WOODBURN, Nov. 18.—Woodburn high school's football team completely outclassed that of its traditional rival, Silverton high in their annual game here today and won 27 to 0, one of the biggest scores either school has managed to pile up in their many years of battling. It was simply a case of Woodburn's straight football attack proving too strong.

In the first period Woodburn started the scoring when Boyle tossed a pass to Skinner for an 18 yard gain after which Skinner took the ball again and romped 22 yards to a touchdown. There was no stopping the Bulldogs then and they punched over the extra point on a line buck.

Silverton braced and held the Bulldogs for a time, even staging one threatening move, through the use of reverses and passes, that penetrated to Woodburn's 11-yard line.

In the third period Woodburn broke loose again, Skiller sprinting 40 yards from midfield to Silverton's 10-yard line. Though 5-yard penalties were inflicted on Woodburn at that point they did not stop the Bulldogs, for Skiller took a lateral pass and crossed the goal line again. Still in the third period, a Silverton punt was blocked on the Foxes' 25 and after a couple of plays, Boyle dashed to scoring soil from the 16.

Pavelak, Bulldog guard, broke into the scoring column when he blocked a punt a little later and had only to step across the line for a touchdown. Again the extra point was tucked over.

Woodburn recovered a Silverton fumble on the Silverton 23 and started another drive which was stopped on the 8; Courtney blocked another punt which should have counted for a safety, but this was disallowed because of an illegal Woodburn substitution. Silverton took to the air in a final effort to score, but several of the passes were intercepted.

delegation of rooters and Walla Walla townspeople. The Willamette grads and ex-students returning here for the annual Homecoming will be in the grandstand.

In addition, the color associated with this annual game is certain to bring forth large representation of the general public from Salem and nearby Willamette valley points. A committee headed by Prof. W. C. Jones of Willamette has been working on the publicity angle for over a week and has spread the tidings to all of the territory tributary to Salem, that the Missionaries are coming and big things are going to happen on Sweetland field this afternoon.

Weather conditions have been practically ideal for several days and the gridiron will be in first class condition, despite factitious threats on the part of Willamette boosters to flood the field and give the Missionaries a swimming lesson to retaliate for the snow fight to which Whitman initiated the Bearcats a year ago.

Dallas Squad Drops One to Canby Team

Yale-Harvard, California vs. Stanford, big Tilts Though all Beaten

DALLAS, Nov. 18.—After going through the football season so far without a point being scored against it, the Dallas football team today, when the smoke had cleared from the field, found itself run over and trampled by a surprisingly strong Canby team on Canby's gridiron, by a score of 19 to 6. All of the winner's points were scored in the final six minutes of play.

For three quarters of the game Coach Shreve's boys held the offensive, keeping the ball in Canby territory consistently, but always lacking the necessary punch to score. In the last of the third quarter Lewis, flashy Dallas quarterback, was knocked out and taken from the game, and from that time on things began to happen.

Beginning the last quarter Canby punted, McMillan of Dallas received the ball on the one-foot line and was smothered in his tracks. He immediately kicked out to the 35. From here Canby on a double reverse placed the ball on the six-yard line from where in two plays it was shoved over for a touchdown. Try for point was blocked.

Canby kicked off, the ball bounding from the chest of a Dallas man straight into the arms of an opponent who was stopped on the Dallas 25-yard line. One play sufficed, again a reverse, to make the second score. The last touchdown was scored in the same manner as a long run from the 45-yard line.

SHAW GUN CLUB Holding Shoot

The Shaw Gun club is holding Sunday turkey shoots as has been its custom at this time of year for several seasons. One of these will be held tomorrow on the club's range and Salem marksmen are invited to participate, as well as those from other sections of the middle Willamette valley.

TRADITIONALS ON TAP TODAY

Yale-Harvard, California vs. Stanford, big Tilts Though all Beaten

By ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Two of the most influential factors in the complicated sporting life, tradition and the weather dominate the nation's college football outlook for tomorrow for the first time this season.

The feverish chase for championship honors will be confined almost exclusively to the south and middle west, where such teams as Auburn, Michigan, Nebraska and Texas Christian seek to consolidate their positions in the front line.

Meanwhile, close to 79,000 customers, a new "high" for the year, will enjoy summer weather and the California-Stanford annual at Berkeley; probably 75,000 will brave an impending snow storm to see Notre Dame ramble against the Navy at Cleveland; and 60,000 will bundle themselves up against the threat of chilling rain to see the consolidation duel between Harvard and Yale at New Haven.

Undefeated Status Is Not Essential
These three games furnish a rebuttal to the convention that it takes an all-winning combination nowadays to stimulate box office appeal. None of the teams involved, except Notre Dame has anything left to say about sectional or national honors, yet they will attract more customers and cash tomorrow than a dozen other leading contests combined.

Yale and California rank as slight favorites in the other two traditional headlines, on the basis of comparative scores, but that doesn't happen to mean much to the wagering fraternity. On the gold or silver standard, they are even money.

CURT COMMENTS

Yesterday on arriving at the office we found on our desk a neatly written prediction that Willamette would win today's game from Whitman. One trouble with it was that the writer didn't apparently finish the job and didn't sign his name. As far as we went the facts on which he based his prediction were not bad.

The point was that injuries which are causing four Bearcat regulars to hobble about the campus in distress, are really blessings in disguise because they make Willamette the under dog, for the first time in three years. And he points out that for four years, the under dog has fought his way to the top and won this annual battle.

We acknowledge a letter from Rex Kaseberg of McMinnville, giving quite an opposite angle to the situation that came up over there when Stab Allison, head linesman in the Linfield-Albany college game, called a holding penalty on an Albany end who tackled a Linfield man who was receiving a punt. He says:

"Albany punted to Helsler, Linfield safety, on about the 40 yard line. The Albany left end came down and hit Helsler just as the ball touched his outstretched hands. The ball merely tipped his fingers and went to the ground where it lay with Helsler still on his feet and struggling to get loose to recover it. The holding was so plain that any competent official would have called it. An Albany man did come up and recover the ball. Allison was on the open side of the field and saw and called the play as his duty. Where the umpire was I do not know but the referee was evidently away from the play and could not have seen it."

"I believe you will find by inquiry among officials that Albany college is hard to officiate for. I personally think they got all of the officiating breaks in this game."

You will recall, Mr. Kaseberg, that we mentioned the possibility that the play was called correctly. And we will admit that all officials have concurrent jurisdiction over fouls. It does still seem strange that the head linesman, whose specific position is at the line of scrimmage and whose primary duty on a punt is to watch out for tripping, should be the only official to see this play, when the umpire is supposed to be right on top of such a play and is especially assigned to determine questions regarding the catching and possession of the ball on kicks and passes.

It just goes to show how differently partisans of the opposing teams are prone to see the same play. It illustrates also, we believe, the folly, in a game certain to be hotly contested as this one between Linfield and Albany was, of selecting one neutral official and one from each of the towns involved. Probably there would have been no complaint, or a good deal less complaint, if the official who went somewhat out of his ordinary sphere of activity to call this play against Albany, had not been a McMinnville man.

As to Albany college being difficult to officiate for, we had not heard it, though we know it has sometimes been true of other Albany teams. In Willamette-Albany college games there has never been any trouble. We have always thought Albany got most of the breaks, but then we endeavor to discount the prejudices which we freely admit.

WOLVES BEAT SONS BY 20 TO 6 MARGIN

ASHLAND, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Wolves from Oregon Normal school, scoring all their points in the first period, defeated the Sons of Southern Oregon Normal, 20 to 6, in their football game here today. The Sons scored their lone touchdown in the second quarter. Monmouth made its three touchdowns on power plays. Southern Oregon Normal stiffened its defense after the first period scoring spree, and following its own second period tally, neither team was able to advance into touchdown territory. The contest was hard fought throughout.
