LAW MOTT'S PLAN

FEDERAL BLUE SKY

A federal blue sky law, dealing principally with interstate traffic in stocks, bonds and other securities, will be urged by James W. Mott, representative in congresselect from the first congressional district, when he assumes his new duties next March. He is now serving as state corporation commissioner.

Mott declared that the proposed law would be drafted prior to his, departure from Salem, and would be ready to submit to his colleagues upon his arrival at the national capitol. It then will be introduced and later referred to a committee for consideration. Mott said such a law had been proposed several years ago, but had failed to receive approval. He in-dicated that his bill would include many of the outstanding features of blue sky laws now in operation in some of the states. Pending the next regular session of congress, Mott said he would issue a number of letters from the state corporation department here dealing with the activities of so-called "tipsters", who traffic bonds and stocks through the United States mails and by long-distance telephone. Mott said these "tipsters" had confined their activities to interstate transactions.

Names of Tipsters Will be Listed

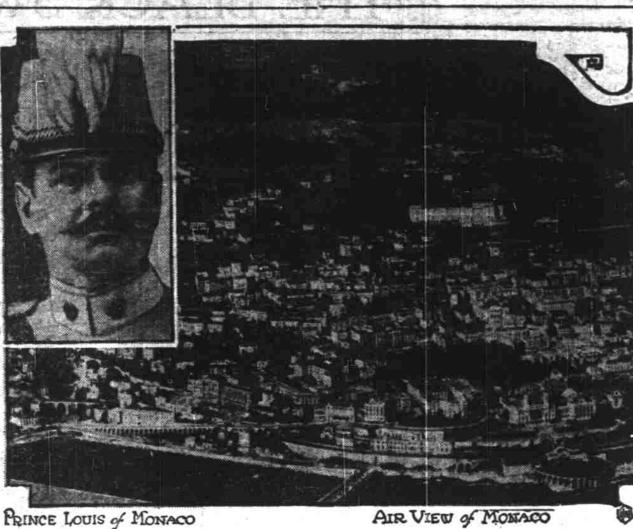

Although interstate sales of bonds and other securities are not covered by the Oregon blue sky law, Mott declared that he hoped his letters would have the effect of saving local investors large amounts of money now sent out of the state in exchange for worthless stocks. Names of many Annual Christmas of these so-called "tipster" organizations are now being compiled by the state corporation commissioner.

"The 'tipster' racket is one of the most serious menaces with which the investors have to deal." Mott declared. "Their business is urday afternoon in the lodge carried on by mail or long-dis- rooms of the Odd Fellows hall, tance telephone and state officials with Mrs. William Skelton and are powerless to act. would be subject to strict regulation, and the circulation of worththe annual Christmas tree to be less securities would cease." Mott held December 8. Names were said such a law would be welcomed by virtually all corporation elaborate turkey dinner. commissioners in the United States.

The corporation commissioner Mrs. Hugh Bilyeu, Mrs. Grace declared that many thousands of Thurston, Mrs. Dora Humphrey, dollars were invested in these worthless stocks annually.

"There is no reason why these Skelton and Mrs. Parrish. men should be allowed to proceed with their nefarious traffic while operatives under state laws are

Here is an unusual aerial view of Monaco, the gambling paradise of the Mediterranean which has long been the goal of those who like to try their luck against the Goddess of Chance. If negotiations now being formulated go through according to schedule, the "Gem of the Mediterranean," as Monaco is called, will scon be just another bauble in the necklace of La Belle France. Owing to the industrial slump, the gam-bling palaces in the principality can no longer make their huge contributions to the exchequer of the tiny country, and it is reported that France has agreed to annex the principality, which has been ruled by Prince Louis and his ancestors since 968. The agreement calls for a cash payment of $520,000 and an annual payment of $150,000, in return for which the French government will collect taxes from citizens of Mon-aco. France will also have control of the customs. Hitherto, no resident of Monaco has been ebliged to pay taxes, the government revenue being derived from the gambling casinos being sufficient to keep the budget on the right side of the ledger. It is reported that France may fortify the Rock of Monaco in a similar manner to which Great Britain fortified the Rock of Gibraltar. The present ruler of the prin-cipality, Prince Louis II, has been running the state since 1922, when he succeeded his father, Prince Albert. He is 62 years old. Many Americans in Monaco who found it convenient to live in a tax-free country are now expected to end their self-imposed exile and return to the United States.

MONMOUTH, Nov. 22 - Mrs ines Miller of Monmouth served as a field representative of the Oregon Normal school's Alumni association during the recent opposition to the school moving bill, Mrs. Miller, ex-faculty member of the Normal, is credited by the Portland office of the assoclation, and by other workers against the bill, with much success in her efforts to combat the bill.

WORK AGAINST BILL

Late photographs of the Nor-mal school buildings exhibited by Mrs. Miller on her speaking tours, were effective in helping to disprove assertions that these buildings were inferior for their purpose. She made grange meetings and other rural gatherings the focal points of her persistence. In Coos, Curry and Douglas counties, where Mrs. Miller had previously taught rural schools, she met especially large gatherings. A car and traveling expenses were furnished her by the Alumni association. She did not expect financial reimbursement for her time and effort.
