Army-Notre Dame, Pitt-Stanford get Spotlight Today

Choice for Rose Bowl Tilt And All-American Pick Deemed at Stake

By ALAN GOULD NEW YORK, Nov. 25-(AP)-Among a scant dozen outstanding sames left in a college football ampaign fast drawing to a dramatic finish, the stand of two of the east's most rugged regiments, Army and Pittsburgh, against famous intersectional rivals features tomorrow's scattered war-

The soldiers will play Notre Dame before a sellout crowd of 10,600 in the Yankee stadium, the liggest of the season, while Pitt's Panthers close their spectacular season at home against Stanford in an east-west struggle of Warer fermations. Both eastern teams, reversing the usual circumtances, are favored to win and annd out a football season in which this an ent sector of the eridiron battlefront has picked up nore prestige and points than it has known in many a harvest

Both games not only should add their quota of thrills to the closing stages of the season but figure to have a distinct bearing upon final all-America selections. Four Big Stars in New York Clash

Army's "Pick" Vidal and Captain Milt Summerfelt as well as Notre Dame's Jor Kurth and George Melinkovich, if he recovers from the "flu," will be given critical inspection by the experts charged with the heavy responsibility of handing up the all-star verdicts of 1932. Similarly, Pittsburgh's Warren Heller, Mike Sehastian and Joe Skladany will be up for final tests on their season's Colgate's bid for the tournament of roses game January 2, as an eastern standard-bearer, already has been put conspicuously on file with a flawless record of achievement but the honor may go to Pittsburgh again if the Panthers score a decisive victory over Pop Warner's Stanford boys.

Stanford, after an unimpressive coached team to lose an intersecional engagement, especially in the east.

The most impressive items in Pittsburgh's record are defeats of Army and Notre Dame.

Texas Christian, unbeaten and tied only once, figures to knock over Southern Methodist and clinch the southwest conference championship. Louisiana State, finishing its first season under Captain "Biff" Jones, plays its big objective game against Tulane at Baton Rouge.

Traditionally colorful games such as Georgia-Georgia Tech, Washington and Jefferson-West Virginia and Boston college-Holy Cross round out November's parting gridiron salute.

Members of the trustee executive committee concurred in the decision, in a meeting later.

Under present regulations of the conference Linfield and other smaller schools of the group are penalized because of the expense of transporting teams here from Whitman at Walla Walla, Wash., and the College of Idaho at Caldwell, Coach Lever said.

The mentor said he would suggest at the conference meeting the formation of a league which desired to do anything that would would include the present colleges along the coast, with Pacific Lutheran, college at Parkland, Wash., and Columbia university of the hearing today.

There is, he added, a decided sentiment against competing with normal schools and junior colleges which fail to adhere to Northwest conference scholastic eligibility rulings.

Matchmaker Harry Plant has picked Jack Mitchell, from New York, to try his hand at taming the great Jones, who has lost-to no welterweight here within the casual recollection of the most faithful fan. Novak, despite his cleverness which was demonstrated more thoroughly against Jones than in his other battles here, didn't seem to be quite as rough and tough as old Henry. Mitchell, on the other hand, is reputed to be just the candidate to meet Jones on an equal footing in this respect of toughness. It is predicted that, win or lose, he will not turn the other cheek to the champion.

Heavy Fighters Are Thrown Out

Savage, who nut tree which has borne fruit for Bob Sage, acting on instructions of Boxing Commissioner Al Day.

About ten minutes before the Salem-Chemawa football game Thursday night was scheduled to start, fog blanketed the grid-iron so heavily that fans in the grandstand could scarcely have seen a play in midfield close to the nearest sideline.

teams hustled out onto the field, off. that fog lifted up just like a theatre "front drop" and the entire field was plainly visible; and it remained that way until late in the final period, when it lowered again partially but did not hide the play from the spectators to any serious extent.

--0-We're reporting this in order that you fans who stayed away figuring the fog was too thick, will be sorry. You ought to be terribly sorry. It was a great game and conditions from the spectator's standpoint, aside from a little frigidity which an extra coat easily overcame, were just about ideal.

There was another item of credit that ought to be marked up for the Salem high boys that we didn't get a chance to mention yesterday. Not many more than eleven players did all the battling for Salem high, while the Indians had fresh groups of reserves there frequently. We trembled for the red and black when that first string Indian backfield went in after taking a long rest; but the boys just buckled down and stopped it.

And you'll have to hand it to the Indians for fighting hard after the tide of battle turned against them. We imagine Coach Lavelle's men were a bit overconfident due to their excellent season record and Salem's poor one; Lavelle did his best to counteract that fatal smugness but it's a hard task when you are dealing with boys. After Salem got the Indians moving their way, the Redskins did their best to regain their fire; did to so great an extent that they outyardaged Salem on running plays; but it was too late.

Many people were vastly surprised at the outcome; we were not, particularly. Not that we lay claims to any foresight in athletic matters. But we had heard hints that the Salem high boys were "hot" all week, their ears burning from the things the public was saying about their poor season showing, and they had it all cooked up to surprise the public and the Indians. Naturally, we didn't But just before the opposing spoil their plans by tipping them

> We see where Henry Lever, Linfield coach, has picked his all-Northwest conference team, He has noticeably avoided the usual method of picking so many men from the championship team, so many from the other strong ones and one or two among the weak outfits. He picks three each from Pacific and Whitman, two each from Willamette and Puget Sound, and one from Linfield.

Here's the list: Ends: Staines, Whitman, and Caiser, Willamette. Tackles: Brachman, Pacific, nd Nelson, Whitman. Guards: Clow, Whitman, and Vixon, Pacific. Center: Carter, Linfield. Quarter: Sterling, Puget Sound, Halves: Ennis, Puget Sound, nd Killits, Pacific. Full: Olson, Willamette.

-0-Lever pointed out that he didn't see College of Idaho play, so didn't pick any Coyotes. Now we saw all of the teams except College of Idaho play, so if Lever can pick a bunch of all-stars under those conditions, maybe we can too. We'll give you ours after most of the other boys have had their say.

In fact, we're thinking seriously of picking an All-American team, not being hampered by having seen any of the major
