WAR DEAD HONORED AT TOMB OF "UNKNOWN"

While a guard of honor stands rigidly at the salute, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, representing E. E. F., placing flowers on the grave of William J. Hushka, World War veteran, who was killed by a bullet during the bonus riots on Pennsylvania Avenue last Summer.

The annual meeting of the state forestry board was held here yesterday with Lynn Cronemiller, state forester presiding. The governor is a member of this board, but no vital questions were to be considered. Governor Frank J. Lonergan did not attend.

Lonergan, who was here yesterday and has been at the capitol every day since he has been governor, was vitally interested in the outcome of the Notre Dame-Army contest and was pleased when he heard his alma mater, Notre Dame, was leading at the half. Frank used to play halfback for that school and naturally is proud of his institution.

And speaking of Notre Dame and football, Father Keenan, former member of the state parole board, was at the capitol yesterday to call on his many friends. Father Keenan expects to leave right after the big bazaar being given by his church, in about ten days, for Los Angeles to see Notre Dame play Southern California. This should be a whale of a game.

With Thanksgiving holidays now about at an end, it is expected there will be plenty of news around the state capitol beginning next week. Governor Meier is scheduled to be back in Oregon Monday, and then again the matter of a special session, taxation, and other matters on the board of control will hold the center of interest.

We saw our first Christmas tree on the side of a family automobile yesterday, which reminds it won't be long before the capitol lobby will be decorated with its annual big tree. It is usually installed the first of December, so next week should see some activity along this line on the part of George Dunford and his crew.

And with the approach of Christmas Hal E. Hoss will start lining up his Christmas carol singers for the song fests around this big capitol tree which has now become an annual custom. And Herb Glazier of the highway department is on hand as choirmaster. It won't be long now before there will be music in the air, as well as politics.

Frank Lonergan said that after Monday he will have won his letter "EX" and will be qualified to join the team of ex-governors. And there are a lot of them. For instance, Os West, Ben Olcott, Al Norblad, Roy Ritter, Jay Bowerman, Ralph Hamilton, Willard Marks, Walter Pierce and now Frank Lonergan. There may be one or two others also but for the moment we don't recall them.

The coming week will also see a highway meeting here Tuesday, one at which only routine matters are scheduled. Also the public utilities commissioner will continue his hearing on power rates in the Mountain States Power company at Tillamook which will last about half of the week.

John L. Rand will be chief justice of the Oregon supreme court for the second time after January 9. The chief justice is not elected, but selected according to statutes. The one who has the shortest term left to serve, and when more than one, the eldest in years is selected every two years.

Thus, providing there are few changes the next six years, they can easily be chosen. Rand and Rossman have the shortest terms remaining, but Rand is the elder. Two years hence

CLARKE IRVINE TO SHOW MOVIES HERE

Willamette University "Y" Sponsors, Tuesday in Waller Hall, 7:30

Under auspices of the "Y" activities, Willamette university, one of the most unusual motion picture shows ever produced, "The Birth of a Flower", will be presented in Waller hall, Tuesday night, November 28, at 7:30, with Clarke Irvine, of Honolulu, writer, traveler and lecturer, giving the accompanying talk. He is a native of Salem, and only by reason of his stopping off here for Thanksgiving, was the university able to secure this entertainment.

This nature film was produced by Pillsbury in the Yosemite valley, and shows the blooming of flowers analyzed by the slow motion camera, with pollen grains germinating, magnified 100,000 times, together with some beautiful scenic reels. This is the feature that he traveled with into the South Seas which he covered 40,000 miles in less than three years.

On the following night, Wednesday, the Salem man will appear with his other picture "Roaming in the South Seas", in the same hall at the same hour. This is a collection of interesting, comical and beautiful films that he compiled while on the long journey, and is one of the few lecture-films now on exhibition. With both features Mr. Irvine gives interesting and amusing talks in a chatty style.

The public is invited and urged to witness both pictures and hear the lectures, nominal prices being charged to cover the cost, the benefit being for the "Y" activities on the campus.

Complaints seeking receivership for four elevators in Morrow and Umatilla counties will be filed by Attorney General Van Winkle next Monday. It was announced by Max Gehlhar, director of the state agricultural department, yesterday. Gehlhar signed the complaints.

The complaints allege that the elevator companies are unable to provide bonds for the protection of the patrons. Companies involved in the proceedings include the Heppner Farmers' Elevator company, with three elevators, and the Pilot Rock Farmers' Elevator company, which owns a $65,000 elevator in Umatilla county.

The elevator companies at one time were under the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission, but were transferred to the state agricultural department under a 1931 legislative act.

Gehlhar said the warehouse act would have to be amended at the next legislative session in order to save other elevators. He added that such legislation would be considered at a meeting of the Oregon Wheat league to be held at Condon December 2 and 3. The session will be state-wide.

A plan to land autogyros on the roof of a building in the heart of London may mean the saving of a half hour on London-Paris air travel.

California, Oklahoma and Texas are America's principal natural-gasoline producing states, their total amounting to 85 per cent of the country's output.
