12-Act "Bearcat Follies" Offered at High School by Willamette Classes Friday

Students of Willamette university will unfold to the public an original 12-act vaudeville captioned "Bearcat Follies" in the Salem high auditorium this coming Friday night, December 9. The program promises to be one of the proverbial "knockouts" featuring such attractions as two original dramas, one Guinness whiff with original settings, mixed choruses for song and dance numbers, and a pugilistic burlesque—so that all types of entertainment tastes will be adequately satisfied.

The four classes of the university will vie in eight competitive presentations, each one acting out a musical and a dramatic number. The class emerging grand winner of the show will be the proud recipient of a $15 prize.

Interlude numbers will feature the far-famed Willamette trumpet trio, the inimitable Pop-Eye quartet, a telephone solo and a dramatic reading.

This miniature extravaganza "a la Ziegfeld" is being initiated by the sophomore class with the desire that it be continued from year to year as an official Willamette tradition. Ray Rhoten is general chairman of the "Bearcat Follies" program arrangements and Ruth Chapman is chief assistant. Each of the classes is represented by sub-chairmen, and all the students, backed by faculty members, are lending hearty support to the project.

The primary purpose of instigating this traditional feature according to those in charge is: to stimulate interclass rivalry, promote individual initiative and originality, and foster cooperative effort among students—and incidentally, to provide a "rip-snortin'" good entertainment for the patrons.

STATE BUILDING'S RENTAL SAID LOW

Hansen Urges Increase; to Disapprove Item for Meeting Deficit

Increasing the rentals on space in the state office building so that they will meet interest and principal payments as they come due, rather than meeting a deficit through a legislative appropriation, is favored by Henry M. Hansen, state budget director, he stated in a letter sent to the state board of control.

The letter expressed disapproval of the proposed appropriation of $120,000 for this purpose and $7740 covering similar payments the state agricultural building.

At the time the state office building was constructed it was agreed that both principal and interest on the loan would be paid out of rentals and that no part of the payments would come from legislative appropriation. Hansen's letter to the board of control indicated that the rentals have fallen far short of meeting the payments.

"The budget division is disapproving both of these appropriations," Hansen's letter read, "and recommends that the rentals be fixed at a figure which will insure payment of the interest and principal as they come due, and that the board of control present legislation to the next legislature authorizing the direct application of the rentals collected to the payment of the said interest and principal."

The law now provides that these rentals shall go into the general fund presumably as an offset to the requested appropriations. Hansen said that in order to make these two buildings self-sustaining it would be necessary to readjust the rentals of state department now occupying space in them. He declared that this did not mean that the rentals would have to be raised, provided the loan could be extended with the sanction of the industrial action commission.
