

Bearcats to Meet Strong Gladstone Black Hawks Tonight

UNBEATEN FIVE TO SHOW HERE

Game at 8 p. m. With Frosh And Deaf School First; Clubmen to Come

Willamette university's basketball team, still considerably removed from a "clicking" status, will brush up against one of its most severe tests of the season tonight when it meets the Gladstone Black Hawks, a not overly publicized aggregation from the small town just below Oregon City but nevertheless undefeated in 15 starts this season.

The Black Hawks won 30 out of 34 games last season, though they lacked at that time the services of Erven Kloostra, former Willamette center who is now holding down the tipoff role for the Gladstone bunch. They were runners-up in the district amateur tournament here last spring, losing in the finals to Dallas which won the state title.

Along with Kloostra, the team includes three members of the Cranor family, brothers of Garnie Cranor, former Willamette football star. The fifth member is Nielson.

Coach "Spec" Keene reported Thursday that his team, hampered in the last several games by the absence of Eddie Frantz, sledge gun of the guard department, would probably be further handicapped tonight by the "flu" epidemic which has claimed "Wienie" Kaiser, high scoring guard in the game with the Portland Rosebuds, as one of its latest victims.

Burdett transferred to Guard Position

This will necessitate the moving of Jim Burdett to a guard position along with Marshall Hartley. Rieke will start at center and Northrup and Hemmon or Griffith will continue to experiment with various combinations of players.

The game will start about 8 o'clock, being preceded by a contest between the freshmen and the school for the deaf quintet which, it is reported, will bring along a number of rooters.

When the Multnomah club quintet comes here to meet the Bearcats Saturday night, its roster will also include a former Willamette player, George Scales, it is reported. The M. club team has been greatly strengthened since its defeat at the hands of Oregon State. Other recognized stars who are expected to play include Billy Keenan, King Bailey, Ray Smith and Reimer.

Multnomah club defeated Southern Oregon Normal more decisively than did Willamette, winning by a margin of seven points. This game will also be at 8 o'clock.

Staters and Cougars Will Meet Tonight

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 5.—Oregon State college and Washington State college basketball quintets will swing into action in Pullman Friday and Saturday nights in the curtain raiser of the 1933 hoop race of the northern division of the Pacific coast conference. Following these opening clashes the Orangersmen will go to Moscow and play Idaho in a two-game series Monday and Tuesday nights.

Pre-conference play for the Beavers has been highly successful this year as they have piled up seven wins with no losses. Captain Ed Lewis has run wild in these games, scoring 75 of his team's 302 points or nearly 11 points per game. The Orangersmen have not scored less than 36 markers in a contest and have an average of 44 counters against opponents' 25 points for each game.

Stats Gill, Beaver basketball coach, will take the following ten players on the trip: Captain Ed Lewis, Skeet O'Connell and Bob Lucas, all of Portland; Everett Davis, St. Paul, Neb.; George Hibbard, Molalla; Fred Hill, Pendleton; Clarence James, Tillamook; Carl Lechtitsky, Scitton, Pa.; Red MacDonald, Medford; and Merle Taylor, Corvallis.

THORNHILL TO SUCCEED 'POP'

Takes Stanford Coach Job With Neviers Assistant; Played for Warner

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Jan. 5.—(AP)—C. E. "Tiny" Thornhill, who has aided Glenn S. "Pop" Warner in moulding Stanford football teams for a number of years, was recommended as successor to his former chief by the board of athletic control here tonight. The recommendation is considered tantamount to appointment. The recommendation is subject to the formal approval of the president and board of trustees but members of the athletic board pointed out that this procedure is usually considered a matter of formality.

The board of athletic control also recommended Ernie Neviers, former Stanford fullback star and assistant to Warner during the 1932 season, for the post of assistant coach to Thornhill. Thornhill learned his football at the University of Pittsburgh, under the coach he succeeds, Glenn S. "Pop" Warner.

He enrolled in 1913 and graduated in the spring of 1917. He was named all-American tackle on the 1916 team which has been called the greatest in Pittsburgh's gridiron history. Jack Sutherland, present Pittsburgh coach, played guard on the same eleven.

CORVALLIS MEETS DALLAS TONIGHT

DALLAS, Jan. 5.—Coach Shreeve will take his Dallas high basketball team to Corvallis Friday night in an attempt to stop the Benton county team. Corvallis and Dallas broke even on games played last year before the district tournament but the Benton county team scored two victories over Dallas in the tourney to earn the right to enter the state tournament.

Dallas has not had as good a

Indians Beat Benson Tech; Score 39 - 21

CHEMAWA, Jan. 5.—The Chemawa Indian school added another Portland high school's scalp to its collection today, defeating Benson Tech, last year Portland city champion, 39 to 21 on Benson's floor.

Chemawa led at half time 14 to 7. Hatfield led the Indians in scoring with nine points and Courtney was high for Benson with eight.

The Techmen exhibited unusually speedy floor work and outplayed the Indians in that department, but their shooting was not so accurate.

Friday night the A and B teams of Chemawa will engage West Linn high school quintets on the West Linn floor.

SCOTTS MILLS FIVE TO INVADE PARRISH

Parrish junior high school's basketball team will open its campaign in the Marion county B league tonight when it meets the Scotts Mills quintet on the Parrish floor at 7:45 o'clock. The Parrish Trojans will play the Intermediates from the School for the Deaf in a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

Coach Frank Brown of Parrish is uncertain of his starting lineup as Winslow, forward, and Luther, guard, are still "flu" sufferers and Johnson and Cray, guards, are also somewhat under the weather.

Balstrom and Quesseth, forwards, Brown, center, and Cray and Hill, guards, may start.

season this year as she had before the Corvallis games last year but still has hopes of becoming a winning ball club. She has only won two games out of six starts but in those six games Dallas has scored 212 points to her opponents 208. Dallas has not scored less than 26 points in any game played to date.

The probable A squad for the Corvallis game is: LeFors, Hunter, Bollman, Lewis, Robinson, Pleasant, Webb and Kliever.

JONES, LYNES MEET TUESDAY

Man who Deprived Henry of Middleweight Belt to Tackle him Again

Henry Jones and Ray Lyness, who once battled for the world middleweight wrestling belt with Lyness winning, will meet again at the armory next Tuesday night, at the matchmaker Harry Plant reported yesterday. The belt which Lyness took away from Jones was the one held by Wildcat Pete for a long period. Lyness does not own it now.

The matchmaker had hoped to bring Des Anderson back here after a long absence, to meet Lyness next Tuesday, but Anderson was unable to come on that date. He promises to sign up for a bout here within two weeks at the most.

In matching Jones and Lyness, however, the matchmaker may have provided an even better show than if Anderson had come, for the welter king and his former conqueror are considered to be quite well matched.

There will be a one-hour match preceding the main event. The constants in the first bout will be announced tomorrow.

It was announced here Thursday that the rematch between Jones and Harry Kuehne of Newberg, at McMinnville for the welterweight belt, has been dated for next Wednesday, January 11.

Gervais to Play Hubbard Opening County B League

GERVAIS, Jan. 5.—The county B league basketball competition will open here Friday night when the Gervais high school quintet will meet the Hubbard aggregation.

Gervais has three lettermen left from last year's team: Alfred Bowley, Leland DeJardin and Peter Delack. Others on the squad include Lemery, Stokes, Potts and Colby.

The Gervais high girls' team will meet the girls from Mt. Angel in a preliminary game.

CURT COMMENTS

Unless the report by Jonathan A. Butler, official investigator for the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Athletic conference, fails of being totally unbiased and thorough—and no doubt there will be many open surmises that it does so fail—then the University of Oregon is going to be cast as the "villain of the piece."

University of Southern California will rank about second in shade of blackness with respect to subsidization of athletics, and Oregon State college will emerge with the nearest to a lily-white complexion of any of the schools which have ever been serious contenders in major sports.

While the report, released today, is totally unimpressive in its phrasology and contains no actual definite charges against any conference member, or against any individual by name, its disclosures are certain to be interpreted in many quarters with less reserve and a fine controversy is in prospect.

In view of the fact that the report does not place University of Oregon in the most favorable light, it is probable friends of the state university will point out that the Eugene institution was the sufferer from the one ruling actually made heretofore upon an investigation conducted by Mr. Butler; and that ruling, the disbarment of Joe Lillard, football star, was made at a most inopportune moment for the university.

However that may be, the one item in the 48-page, compactly printed report which is calculated to bring on some sort of storm over the question of financial aid to athletes, is this concerning the University of Oregon:

"During the college year of 1931-32 fifty-three students, all of whom were athletes, were beneficiaries of Oregon Commonwealth scholarships. A full scholarship is $380 a year, payable in nine monthly installments of $40 each; however, as these scholarships were administered during 1931-32, a beneficiary might receive a full scholarship, a three-fourths scholarship, a half scholarship or a quarter scholarship, and the amount of the scholarship might vary from month to month."

In other words athletes at the University of Oregon draw, some 53 of them, checks for $40 or less per month, for which no services were rendered anybody; and it makes no difference to critics that these were "scholarships" for they were not, apparently, available to anyone but athletes.

And, strange to say in view of the many insinuations heard about practices at various institutions, no such thing officially exists at any of the other member colleges, according to Mr. Butler's report. However, he makes no claim that the practice at U. of O. violates any conference rule.

The report treats as inseparable the subjects of financial aid and subsidization of athletics; on the latter subject it may suffice to say that nearly all of the institutions violate either the spirit or the letter of the non-solicitation rule.

Here is a brief resume of what Mr. Butler found being done with respect to financial aid for athletes. It should be borne in mind that this includes only what the institutions or recognized organizations are doing; Mr. Butler mentions elsewhere that "athletic enthusiasts," alumni and others, have been doing a great many things to smooth the way of individual athletes, but he contends the number of athletes so aided is relatively small.

University of California—Charges of "sinecure jobs" found false.

U. C. L. A.—"Bruin club" helped many athletes financially in attending prep schools to remove entrance deficiencies; club now non-existent. University cafeteria once gave free meals to athletes; this also stopped.

University of Oregon—In addition to scholarships already mentioned, non-Oregon athletes exempted from tuition on making declaration of intention to make permanent home in Oregon; but this privilege is also granted to non-athletic students from outside the state.

Oregon State college—Same situation as to tuition of out-of-state athletes, except that freshmen here were denied such consideration. All campus and downtown jobs held by athletes investigated and all found bona-fide.

Stanford—Tuition loans made to 98 athletes, but available to non-athletes on equal terms. Some non-competitive scholarships held by athletes, but no discrimination.

University of Southern California—Scholarships amounting to waiving of tuition charges granted to 289 students, of whom 54 were "men and women students who had no known athletic ability"; practically all athletes participating in intercollegiate competition had these scholarships. Athletes earned as much as $321 a year acting in motion pictures of football and other sports. Alumni clubs highly active; among other things, in providing tutoring for athletes.

Washington State—Tuition charges for out-of-state athletes waived after first year, but no discrimination. Some high school athletes employed on campus in summer at $4 a day; not a continued practice.

University of Washington—"Washington club," Seattle booster group, had large fund at one time to pay transportation, tuition and fees of athletes; club now defunct. Sheriff's office job found bona fide, and held by four men of whom two were no longer eligible for sports.

GRANGERS DEFEAT CHRISTIANS, 26-20

LIBERTY, Jan. 5.—The Liberty Grangers had a hard and swift set-to at basketball with the hoopers from the First Christian church of Salem here Tuesday night. The church team, tuition and fees of athletes; club now defunct. Sheriff's office job found bona fide, and held by four men of whom two were no longer eligible for sports.
