BUTTER PRICE SLASHED HALF CENT

OPTIMISM INVADES GRAIN 'CHANGE

Butterfat Bids are Reduced a Cent; Eggs Shaded

PORTLAND, Jan. 7—(AP)—Spread between top grade butter and standards was narrowed to the normal of ½c lb during the weekend session of the produce exchange. During the session, extras were cut 1c lb, in the cube trade with a like slash in lower grade or first. Both standard and prime firsts lost ½c lb. each. Extras were therefore dropped to 21c lb. with standard 20½c. There is now a spread of 1c between top and bottom scores.

Butterfat bids were generally reduced 1c lb with the lowering of the cube and print market. Some cut churning cream to 19c but others were offering 20c; although both showed the same cut from former figures. The country station buying price was cut to 18c lb. generally.

Receipts of butter continued to increase with a like showing in local churning.

There was some suggestion of price shading again in the market for eggs although local co-ops were still quoting former figures. Shading by outsiders was reported as general.

Sage of Salem

and worried until his purpose had been accomplished, whereas Mr. Tabor simply ordered another wagon load of cash and worried not a bit nor perspired a drop.

It may or may not have been the case that Mr. Tabor, in a somewhat vague way, was actuated in his theatre building by thoughts of pleasure to be thus imparted to a great number of his fellow human beings. He was a warm-hearted man. And it is not unlikely the theatre he builded has done more in the way of keeping his memory green in the hearts of Denver folks than the same amount of money, approximately a million dollars, would have done if devoted to the building of a hotel or a business block.

What the makers of the picture "Silver Dollar," have made of the Tabor story I do not know. We shall know presently. The picture is to be shown at the Elsinore January 15.

Perhaps the sentiment is somewhat far-fetched, but such a picture seems peculiarly appropriate to Salem's theatre beautiful.

It has been in my mind a long time—ever since, in fact, the day when the Elsinore was named—that this Salem theatre should have been named the Guthrie.

But Mr. Guthrie, having created a poem, was determined that it should have a poetic title, and so the theatre was named for the Danish castle that was the home of Hamlet.

Horace Tabor would not have done this. Had it been proposed to him that he name his theatre the Elsinore instead of the Tabor Grand, he would in all probability have asked the committee bluntly, "Who in hell is this man Elsinore and what has he ever done for Denver?" Such is the difference in men.

It is in no way to Mr. Guthrie's discredit that he refused to glorify himself in the naming of his theatre. As a matter of truth, the fact that he did not do so marks him as a gentleman of less than ordinary vanity, one who finds full recompense for his efforts in the satisfaction of having completed a work that was near to his heart.

But in this generation, at least, he is accorded the credit that is his due.

Andrew Hofer told me 20 years and more ago, "Sooner or later you'll see a horizontal rainstorm in this valley." Since then I have seen the rain blown in sheets on the wind. Perhaps a half-dozen times. Not a sufficient number of times to establish a rule, but merely a sufficient number of times to prove a rule. January 1, 1933, was marked by such a storm.

Speculative Buying is Becoming General; Wheat up ½-⅞

CHICAGO, Jan. 7—(AP)—Sweeping impetuously forward, wheat today scored persistent gains in the face of big selling to realize profits.

General speculative buying, dormant to a great extent of late, appeared to have been aroused. Spokesmen for houses most conspicuous on the buying side of the market said purchases were largely because of belief that the climax of low prices had been passed.

Wheat closed strong at but little below the day's top, ⅛ to 7-8c above yesterday's finish; corn unchanged to 3-8c higher, oats 1-8 advanced.

Today's closing quotations:
Wheat—May 48 7-8 to 49; July 48½; Sept. 49 3-8.
Corn—May 27½ to 5-8; July 28 7-8 to 29; Sept. 30 1-8.
Oats—May 17⅝; July 18.

FUR BUSINESS IS NEW TO W. SALEM

WEST SALEM, Jan. 7 — One of the interesting industries and business concerns of West Salem that is carried on so quietly that many do not know much about it is the fur business of Isaac Wilfred Thomas, who deals in raw pelts of all kinds of native animals. Friday he received a shipment of mink and coon skins from Rose Lodge, and there are daily packages from all over Oregon and from Washington and California.

The trapping season of three months, lasts from the first of December until the last of February. This year there were over 1000 mink pelts, which variety is next to that of the Silver Fox which leads the list followed by wolf, coon, skunk, badger, civit cat, lynx, muskrat, otter, bob cat, martin and fisher. Within the past year there have been more pelts of the silver fox than ever before and fewer pelts of the smaller animal, such as the mole, etc.

Mr. Thomas, a furrier most of his life has been in business here for the past seven or eight years, and offers a better market to trappers than the eastern markets. He buys as many pelts as any concern in Oregon, but states that since the depression fewer are sent in than formerly.

Prime mink pelts that will bring five dollars now were $15 a few years back and the furs that now bring $2.50 were $5 and $6 recently, which with the constantly decreasing supply of wild life has a tendency to retard the trapping business.

DAMAGE TO GRAINS IS REPORTED HEAVY

SHELBURN, Jan. 7—Much of the grain in this section is believed to be destroyed and will have to be re-seeded. It may be a blessing in disguise as the ground was frozen to a depth of seven inches, which will pulverize the the soil and have the ground in excellent condition for spring seeding. Many growers think their strawberry fields are hard hit.

Shelburn and Munkers schools resumed their regular work Tuesday morning. Cole had to postpone until January 9 due to so much illness.

RIVERVIEW, Jan. 7—The recent cold weather did considerable damage to the fall crops in this neighborhood. All the rye grass, and most of the fall oats and wheat were frozen out. Hungarian vetch was the only grain to withstand the freeze.
