Jones Suffers Injury to an Eye, N. Y. Grappler to Be his Substitute

Just before the sport page went to press, word was received through the boxing and wrestling commission that Henry Jones had suffered a severe cut close to his eye, and would be unable to fulfill his date to wrestle Ray Lyness here tonight. Jack Mitchell, York middleweight who wrestled here several times recently, will meet Ly-ness instead of Jones. This should make a good match, as the contestants will be more nearly equal in weight.

Henry Jones will give away something like 13 pounds and attempt to obtain revenge for a most unfriendly act, when he clashes with Ray Lyness in the main event of the wrestling show at the armory tonight. Lyness once defeated Jones and took away from him the world junior middleweight belt, the one will be nothing more than reworthy desire to provide a show Henry tonight.

Los Angeles, Jan. 9. — (AP) playing of the Los Angeles open winter season.

"Over Mickey's Head"

One of the great fighters of the period when those fellows really fought, is a visitor in Salem; Jack Cullen, an outstand-ing lightweight, contemporary of John L. Sullivan. He broke into the game just when bare fists were going out and gloves were coming in; fought with his bare hands in the early part of his career and ruined them, a fact which handicapped him later on and kept him, probably, from ever quite achieving a championship.

-0-But Jack was good enough to be the chief "trail horse" at his weight of the 1891 to 1899 period, and he fought all the men who did become champs in those Spokane days. His best remembered bat-Phillips 1 ..... F ..... 5 Lloyd tle, perhaps, was the one with Young Griffo, the "man who couldn't be touched." Cullen did Ashby 4..... G.... Whitney not touch him, but stayed 20 Allen 13 ..... G.... Carson rounds before he was knocked

> Joe Bernstein, Kid Laveen and Oscar Gardner were some of the men Cullen fought. He was also a contemporary of Mysterious Billy Smith, now of Portland. Jack's last connection with the boxing game was 20 years ago, when he was trainer for Stanley Ketchell.

Nevertheless he still retains a remarkable muscular development, and has been for many years a professional artist's model. Just recently he posed considerably for Profs. Vincent and Hart of the art department at University of Oregon. He has posed for many famous sculptors and painters, and has also done some work for Bernarr McFadden in connection with his physical culture expositions. Jack is open for engagements.

Jack came originally from Indianapolis, along with Kid McCoy and Jack Dillon whom he knew intimately although they figured prominently in the boxing game at a slightly later period. Jimmy Clabby, one-time welterweight champion of Australia, was another of his associates. As money in the fight game was counted in his period of fistic activity, Jack made lots of it, but hasn't any of it now. Gates for even the top ranking battles were not so much in those days, and in the fight game it was "easy come, easy go."

Three Salem amateur boxers figured in a recent card at the Portland Y. M. C. A., but they all lost. Bob Hastings, 155 pounds, dropped a decision to Al Reynolds; Henry Newman, 147, was technically knocked by John LaBarr, and Bennie Dirks, 170. took the count in his bout with John Culbertson.

Henry Jones is risking his world welterweight honors at McMinnville again Wednesday night, with Harry Kuehne as the ambitious opponent once more. McMinnville and Newberg fans still claim Kuehne should have had that belt after their last bout, having pinned Jones while the referee was counting stars. Spike Ashbey. and Joe Gardinier will clash in the opener. They're going to have Vern Harrington instead of Wiles as the third man this time, figuring Vern may be agile enough to keep out of the way of flying feet. Maybe even Vern catches one now and

It's hard to explain just why the Webfeet should drop three games to the Sons and then walk all over the teachers in the last one. Maybe it took Billy Reinhart's boys that long to decide a normal school quintet had to be taken seriously. -0-

Frank Bashor had to rule on a ticklish one in the Bearcat-Multnomah game Saturday night. The ball hit the hoop, bounced up and hung on the top of the backboard, then toppled back through the hoop. The clubmen howled that it went out of bounds. But there are no supports it could have touched, and Frank ruled it a goal correctly according to the

The score was in Independence's favor up to the last minute when a Monroe man broke loose for another basket. The I. H.
