GIFT SHOPPE ROMANCE STAGE

Mr. and Mrs. BERNARD DARUCH, JR.

Bernard M. Daruch, son of one of President-elect Roosevelt's financial advisers who is mentioned as a likely possibility for next Secretary of the Treasury, did not find his bride in a "five-and-ten-cent-store" like the happy man in the song, but he did find her in a gift shoppe, where her illusions about romance and marriage had become sadly in need of repair. The lady who is Mrs. Bernard M. Daruch, Jr., today was then Miss Winifred Mann, 26 and beautiful. Her daily stint at the London department store where she was employed before romance dawned included the keeping of a "book of brides," wherein London ladies who expected to try to the altar in the near future recorded the list of presents they desired from their friends. It was due to her dealings with these brides-to-be that the young salesgirl developed an attitude of cynicism towards romance and marriage, for she discovered that a large percentage of the future brides worried more about the gifts they hoped to receive than they did about the husbands they were getting. But Winifred forgot all about her disillusionment when young Barney came along. The American Prince Charming restored a few of her shattered ideals and finally persuaded her to say "yes." However, Winifred changed her mind and young Barney returned to America to continue his bombardment of her heart by cable and trans-Atlantic phone, with the result that they were married in Geneva, Switzerland, last September. The newly-weds are now honeymooning "somewhere in these United States" with the blessing of both their parents.
