POLICE BENEFIT BIG ATTRACTION

Draws as Much Because of Bout's Promise as for Radio Fund Cause

It's already "in the bag" that the record crowd of the winter season will be on hand at the armory tonight for the police benefit wrestling show, featuring Henry Jones and Des Anderson in the main event. The police have been in charge of the advance ticket sale and they declare the snowboards have been going like snipe in Salem streets.

Between the excellent purpose which prompts the benefit and the intrinsic attraction provided by the bout itself, it would not be surprising if the crowd turned out to be the biggest that has ever witnessed a grappling show here—with the exception of course of the outdoor championship bout last summer, and possibly the one which followed in the armory.

Perfect Setup for Local Fan Interest

Here is Des Anderson, a boy who began his professional wrestling career here, and was popular with everybody even though at that time he was not highly successful in winning bouts; now returned, a full-fledged veteran of the padded arena, with numerous worthy achievements to his credit.

And against him appears Henry Jones, always successful—he has not lost more than three matches in all his long series of appearances at the armory—and a world champion in his division, though the title will not be at stake tonight; yet always cordially disliked by Salem fans. It's almost a perfect setup.

Word has been received by Matchmaker Harry Plant, Anderson is in the best of condition and that the injury he received when tossed out of the ring at Seattle several days ago was nothing to hamper him in his bout with Jones.

Lyness and Gray To Furnish Opener

The one-hour match which will precede the main event is also one of promise, bringing Ray Lyness here for the third time in recent weeks, against Fred Gray, a newcomer. The appearance of Lyness on the card carries a certain significance inasmuch as Anderson is renewing his activities here, for he was Anderson's first opponent when the grappling game was revived here in the fall of 1929.

Although the police are selling tickets, persons whom they do not reach may get them as usual at Lytle's and the Bligh Billiard parlors or at the ticket window at the armory. The show will start at 8:30.

The benefit show was planned to assist the police radio fund, which is being raised to finance installation of a short wave sending apparatus to keep prowlers in constant touch with headquarters, an improvement calculated to add much to the efficiency of local law enforcement.

Two Bits to Admit Fans To Coast League Games

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Dipping back 14 years into "the good old days," directors of the Pacific Coast league today voted to return to 25 cent and 40 cent baseball as a means of combating present times and conditions.

The representatives of the eight club class AA circuit reached their decision after wrangling and orating for five and one half hours in a session that saw all agreed that something must be done but considerably at variance as to how to do it.

They finally agreed to a minimum admission price of 25 cents for bleacher seats and 40 cents for the grandstand. As a concession to those opposed to reducing the ticket cost, it also was decided to make the prices optional with the various clubs, so long as the minimum or over figures were maintained.

While no official expressions were forthcoming, it was learned the sentiment amongst the owners is that every club will swing into line at the minimum prices. It was pointed out if the two San Francisco clubs scaled the tickets at the minimum figure, Oakland, across the bay, could hardly expect to hold to a higher price.

Directors of three of the clubs, Tom Turner, of Portland; Lew Moreing, of Sacramento, and William Klepper, of Seattle, were said to have opposed the price reduction when the meeting opened. Turner and Klepper swung over and finally, about the time for the dinner bell, Moreing acceded.

Once, when the arguments flew high and wide, President Turner of Portland, shouted: "Let's tear down the fences and pass the hat." Joe Bearwald, president of the San Francisco Mission, led the drive for a reduction of prices with the admonishment: "It's better to try anything once. If we don't cut prices we may have to cut out baseball."

Five Chosen To Pick New Beaver Boss

CORVALLIS, Ore., Jan. 23.—(AP)—A sub-committee of five consisting of three faculty men, one alumni representative and one student was appointed by the board of control of Oregon State college tonight to study the field and recommend a head football coach to succeed Paul J. Schlischer, recently resigned.

Committee members are: Harry S. Rogers, chairman; Carl L. Dell, graduate manager; Wallace

Kadler, head of the board of control athletic committee; Jay Reynolds of Corvallis, alumni representative, and Elmer Buckhorn of Bend, president of the associated students.

No indication was given as to when a selection of the new coach may be expected. Many applications were turned over to the committee. Names of the applicants, however, have not been made public.

LEVINSKY WINNER
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, knocked out Meyer (K. O.) Christner of Akron, O., veteran trial horse, in the fifth round of their ten round bout at the St. Nicholas arena tonight.

CATCHER CAUGHT BY CUPID
Bob Asby, backstop for the Cincinnati Reds, is some catcher himself, but he was caught by Dan Cupid when he met the former Ann Summers of Lexington, Mass. Bob is shown with his bride just before they started off on a Southern honeymoon. They will live in Concord, Mass., upon their return. That is, when Bob is not making the big signal.

INDIAN QUINTET
BEST IN YEARS
Has Beaten Silverton, Some Of Portland's Best in Current Campaign

That keen but friendly rivalry between Salem high school and Chemawa Indian school will find expression again tonight when the basketball teams of those institutions meet on the Salem high floor. B teams will clash at 7 p.m. and the A teams immediately following, probably at 8 o'clock.

Chemawa has enjoyed an outstandingly successful season to date, defeating several of the Portland high school quintets, including Benson Tech, last year's Portland champions. Since playing those teams Coach Les LaVelle of Chemawa has been forced to revise his lineup slightly due to loss of Hatfield, center, by graduation, but has kept on winning games. The Indians are so far undefeated. Shoulderblade, Zunde, Dogeagle, DePoe and Amera may form LaVelle's starting lineup.

The Indians gave Salem high a hard tussle last year, and appear to be much stronger this season. They won from Silverton, which has defeated Salem; but that was with Hatfield in the lineup, and also Vivette, who was retired from competition prior to some of the games with Portland teams, because of a ruling on his years of participation. The game with Silverton is to be played over.

Coach Hollis Huntington of Salem high has also lost a center, Morley having been scratched off the list, for several weeks at least, by an attack of appendicitis last week. Engle filled the position satisfactorily in the game against the Willamette freshmen last week, though it was an entirely new experience to him.

Salem's starting lineup will probably be Kelley and Wintermute, forwards; Engle, center; Brownell and Mosher, guards.

CHEMAWA, Jan. 23.—Chemawa Indian school's basketball team defeated Lebanon high 64 to 16 last week end, holding Lebanon to one point in the first half, on Lebanon's floor. Dogeagle scored 15 points for Chemawa.

The Chemawa B team won 24 to 22 from Lebanon B in an overtime game.

CHEMAWA, Jan. 23.—It looks as though Chemawa is coming to the end of the rope in basketball. After winning a long string of games by large scores the Indians barely nosed out Oregon City, which was beaten by Benson Tech 40-16. Benson lost to Chemawa twice, and every Indian on the squad was used in those games at least a few minutes.

The reason for the end of the rope is loss of two high point men, who made three-fourths or more of the points in the season so far. Against Silverton in the only tight game up to Oregon City, these two made 29 points each, and were being especially checked.

The victory rope probably will be scissored tomorrow night by Salem high's up and coming team. Chemawa's starting lineup will be composed mostly of first-year men. Only one of the five has had a year's competition. The remainder of a squad of veterans cut down by disciplinary measures, graduation and technical ineligibilities. Coach LaVelle has plenty of reason to be singing the blues.

SCIO SQUADS LOSE TO SHEDD'S QUINTS

SCIO, Jan. 23.—In two fast, exciting games, Shedd's basketball team defeated the Scio boys' and girls' teams of Scio on the local floor Friday night. The score for the girls' game was 29-12, and of the boys' 23-11.

During the first quarter of the girls' game the lead alternated back and forth. However, during the last half Shedd forged ahead and continued to hold the lead.

In the boys' game, Abraham of Shedd scored the first basket. At the half Shedd held the lead, 11-6. Scio Girls Shedd Girls

The next game to be played in Scio will be Tuesday, January 31, when the boys' and girls' teams of Harrisburg play.

He Sets A "Dizzy" Pace

JUST A FRESH "BUSHY"
WHO MADE GOOD IN A
BIG WAY LAST SEASON---

'DIZZY'

© 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

LAST month when the official National League pitching averages for 1932 were released, the leading hurler, according to the figures was young Lonnie Warneke of the Cubs. Lonnie won the most games, twenty-two, and also compiled the best earned run record, allowing 2.37 runs per game.

Warneke is a fine young moundman and all that, and his 1932 pitching record is very impressive even if he did prove to be just another "cousin" to those murderous Yankees last Fall. Just the same, many shrewd baseball men are of the opinion that the best hurler in the Heydler circuit last year was not the young Chicago flogger; according to them the outstanding moundman of 1932 was none other than the very Dizzy Dean of Saint Louis and Texas. I don't need to tell you that this is Dizzy's opinion also. You can't get away from the record, and while Warneke's looks very flashy on paper, Dean's 1932 record shapes up just as impressively to say the least when you take everything into consideration. The Chicago ace won twenty-two games with a pennant-winning outfit, while Dizzy copped eighteen victories while toiling for a seventh place club. And Dean's won and lost record would be even better if it were not for the fact that for a spell last season the crippled condition of the St. Louis pitching staff made it necessary for him to pitch every other day. Dean worked more innings than anyone in the league, totaling 286; he hurled the greatest number of shutouts, four, and he chalked up the greatest number of strikeout victims. If that record doesn't entitle him to the call as the leading National League pitcher of 1932, you'll have to argue it out with Diz.

When Dizzy was trying to earn a regular berth with the Cards this Spring, he did plenty of boasting about his hurling ability, and Jimmy Wilson called him a fresh bushy.

Wranglers Lose To Perrydale by Score of 37 - 25

Perrydale defeated Caldwell's Wranglers basketball team Saturday night on the Perrydale floor, 37 to 25.

The Wranglers held the lead most of the game but were nosed out when one of their forwards went out of the game on fouls.

Now we ask you — do you know anything much about the Schlischer system? Rate! Schlischer didn't have any system of his own; fundamentally he used the Rocka system, which nobody is sampling to date; and he copied a little of the Howard Jones idea, which is not being held up to scorn.

What the fans objected to chiefly was that Schlischer didn't happen, whatever the reason, to win enough games to suit them; they also were irked by his habit of sending in fresh men every time the ball was dead.

And what Oregon State needs is not a new system, but a man who can supply leadership; one with enough driving personality to dominate the situation, point the boys toward the enemy goal line and erase from their minds all considerations except getting there.

All of the football knowledge that exists is now available to every coach; all of the systems and all of the plays have been reduced to black and white and may be found in the libraries, book-stores and newspaper files, or may be learned at first hand by attending coaching schools.

There may be high school coaches who don't know all this mechanical data of football, but that's because they haven't taken the trouble to learn it. All the college coaches and all of their professional assistants know the whole book. The only difference lies in their application of it.

BEAVERS BEAT HUSKY QUINTET

Run Away From Champs in Second Half, Earlier
Period is Close

CORVALLIS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Led by their flashing captain and center, Ed Lewis, Oregon State college defeated Washington university, 42 to 34, in their Pacific coast conference basketball game here tonight. Lewis, high scorer man of the game, accounted for 18 points on nine baskets, several of them recovery shots after his team mates had missed.

The game was a hot scoring affair through most of the first half, with the score tied at 25 and 9 and Washington emerging into a one-point lead via a free throw. Halfway through the period, however, O'Connell, Lewis and Lechitsky tallied in quick succession to give the Staters a lead they never relinquished. Score at half time was 25 to 19 for Oregon State.

In the final period the home team stretched out its lead until, with but six minutes to go, the score was 42 to 23. Then both coaches sent in substitutes and the Husky subs scored 11 points in a bewildered Orange second string. Galer was high man for Washington with 9 points.

Volleyball Team Places Third in Practice Meet

Salem's championship volleyball team placed third in a practice tournament in Seattle last Saturday, at which representatives were on hand from Seattle, Tacoma, Salem, Vancouver and Portland. Teams placed in the order named.

The occasion was a volleyball institute held solely for demonstration and get-together purposes. The six men attending from Salem were Gregg, Hill, Barrick, Brown, Lee and Hillman.
