

SHOES ARE NEEDED FOR WORKING MEN

Community Service Seeks Additional Supply, as Well as Garments

An urgent plea for shoes suitable for men and boys was voiced yesterday by S. Ellis Purvine, president of Community Service. He stated that this one item was the most called for and least available in the relief organization's supply of clothing.

"We have a good shoemaker who will repair shoes no matter what the condition in which they are received," Mr. Purvine said. "I believe there are enough old shoes to care for our needy persons for a long time if people will just get them out of their closets. They can bring the shoes to our warehouse, 149 North Front street, or telephone 8725 and we will call for them."

In many cases, lack of shoes is preventing men from working. Mr. Purvine pointed out. At present around 45 men are working at clearing the city's sewage disposal plant site, grubbing county land near Quinaby and cutting wood on the Community Service stump lot on South Prairie.

Despite the large amount of clothing collected by Boy Scouts last month, Community Service finds still further need for garments of all sorts, according to Purvine. Three shipments of Red Cross farm board sheeting, amounting to about 1500 yards, have just arrived and others are expected, as is also a car load of flour.

VARIED PROGRAM ENJOYED BY CLUB

HAZEL GREEN, Jan. 28.—The program given by home talent at the community club Friday had the second largest audience ever attending. Leonard Rutherford presided. A brief business meeting was held. The Salem chamber of commerce will give the February program.

The first number was by the Sunshine sewing club, with Mrs. Alvin Van Cleave, Mrs. Clifton Clemens, Miss Ellen Clemens, Mrs. Herman Wacken and Mrs. Clark Smith taking part; second number was by the boys' athletic club, with parts taken by Sanford Davis, Cecile Luckey, Kenneth Barnett, LeRoy Van Cleave, Lawrence and Clarence Zielinski, Cecil Luckey, Louis Zielinski; boxing match by Leonard Rutherford and George Montandon with LeRoy Van Cleave as referee; the girls' organization gave the third number, with several skits including Hazel Woelke, Billie Woelke, Iola

The Capitol Battlefront

Incidents and Personalities More or Less Connected With the State Legislature and Its Achievements

A CONSIDERABLE number of legislators are inflationists, believing in large quantities of currency, less gold behind the dollar, et al. Some of the men are bimetalists. You can pick out the inflationist leaders in the senate: Men like Zimmerman, Brown, Burke, Dickinson, who are consistently lined up for the aid of debtors and who feel this country's ills are the fault of capitalists.

The group of spat wearers grows steadily. Governor Meier has long been an advocate. Henry Hanzen joined when he came to Salem thus alienating some of his ex-newspaper comrades and avowedly keeping his feet warmer. Ralph Hamilton appeared from Portland during the week, spat clad. It seems to be an old Portland custom.

Most house and senate members went home over the weekend. A few of the eastern Oregon lads stay put in Salem the entire 40 days. Such a senator is Strayer of Baker who is an old-timer in years of service. He belongs to the days when a man came to Salem, brought his traveling pack and stayed put. No galivanting back and forth for this old guardsman. The Yamhill county delegation all were to gather at Newberg on Saturday night and tell the taxpayers there what's what and why. One can imagine the voluble Senator Burke setting things to right before a friendly home audience. Burke is very lugubrious these days; he thinks the country is in a bad way even with Roosevelt president—and Burke supported him, as did Brown, Zimmerman and other "progressive" senate republicans.

Senator I. L. Staples has the feeling that America isn't going to the bow woods even if he has lost his timber and business is punk. He's seen other depressions come—and go—and has a fixed view that the nation will rise greater than ever from its present plight. Staples is in his 60's and not as young as he used to be but he smiles always and wears dapper clothes. His morale remains greater than his bank roll.

Senator Brown pounded the senate gavel Saturday while President Kiddle read his mail and the LaGrande Observer. Brown likes the job; he was a candidate Luckey, Ellen Smith, Charlotte Van Cleave and others.

The Nemo sewing club, in the fourth division of the program, presented a school in session 30 years ago, with Mrs. Louis Wampler as teacher and Mrs. Paul Riggle as the unruly pupil.
