new requirement that motorists' renew their driver's license each year, he predicted. "Some form of sales tax is fairly certain," said the senator. "I don't think we can possibly get by without unless the income tax exemption is cut down to around $500, which would make it almost the same as a poll tax." Last year only 514 persons in Oregon paid an income tax and this year the figure will drop to around 300, he stated.

Senator Dunne explained he had introduced the bill to remove the Wolf Creek short route to the sea from the state highway map "to see where it would get". He declared he had always opposed that route and wanted to make the people aware of what he claimed are bad features of the proposed road.
