

Musical Event Dominates Social Calendar of This Week

THE musical and social event of the coming week promises to be the goodwill concert by the Eugene Gleemen who will appear at the armory next Friday night under the auspices of the Salem Rotary club. The Gleemen is a men's chorus of 75 voices, sponsored by the chamber of commerce at Eugene. They have sung together for years, and are directed by John Stark Evans of the University of Oregon school of music, also widely known as an organist. The Gleemen have been making goodwill trips to neighboring cities to cultivate friendly relations with their city of Eugene, and the visit to Salem is one of these trips, the men donating their time and talent. The Rotary club will devote the entire proceeds to boy scout support locally.

Weekend Has Interesting Variety

THE week just closed has been a busy one. The legislature is about to close and numerous and varied affairs, small and informal but none the less social, have made many busy hours for both visitors and Salem residents. Entertaining has had to be done when the distinguished guests could come and many times there was hardly time to "give notice," the law making demands have been so numerous. This has made informality a necessity but has perhaps increased the pleasure of the parties.

the visit to Salem is one of these trips, the men donating their time and talent. The Rotary club will devote the entire proceeds to boy scout support locally.

Salem people are familiar with the work of the Gleemen who have furnished music at public events in Eugene for many years. Last summer they went to the Rotary International convention at Seattle and so popular did they become after their initial appearance that they were in universal demand as long as the convention lasted, singing before civic clubs and over radio stations and in the theatres.

Their work is of very fine quality. The Eugene paper commenting on their concert at the university this winter said:

"The audience was thrilled — you could see it in the faces, hear it in the comments and in the warm applause. And why not? That program was perfection itself."

Appearing with the Gleemen will be several soloists. Howard Halbert, a Corvallis young man who has been studying at the university for several years, is violinist whose reputation has spread over the state. George V. Bishop is baritone soloist; Don Egan, tenor; and John Radmore, baritone, will appear. Miss Cora Moore is pianist with the organization.

The stage set for the concert is being shipped up from Eugene, having been specially designed by Graham B. Smith, Eugene architect.

Business Women Will Act as Hostesses

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which for five successive summers has sent good will tours to Europe, will reverse its role in the summer of 1933 and play hostess to tours of business and professional women coming from abroad.

The change in plans is brought about by the fact that large delegations of foreign women will be attracted to this country by the biennial convention of the Federation, which will be held in Chicago in July in conjunction with the Century of Progress Exposition, and by the board meeting of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, also to be held in the United States in July.

War Mothers Plan Valentine Dinner

A pretty tribute is being paid Gold Star mothers Tuesday by members of the American War Mothers organization at which time the latter will entertain with a St. Valentine dinner especially complimenting them. Additional special guests invited are Miss Rowena Eyre and Mrs. Frederick Bynon, Jr.

The dinner hour is 12:30 o'clock at the American Lutheran church. Following the dinner a program of Washington birthday material will be presented.

Mrs. Mabel Lockwood is chairman of the committee and is asking each chapter member to bring a covered dish.

Program Told Dinner Dance For Music Benefit Is Smart Affair

PROGRAMS are given in great number but it is seldom that they greatly differ in character one from another, although many times the quality is far different. But there is a program being prepared for the second in a series of social activities being sponsored by executives and board members of Salem Philharmonic orchestra, which will differ from all the others.

It has as one large divergence a three-minute play. To say it seems to indicate the flash of a film scene, yet to read the play one gets the feeling of great dramatic power which builds and wanes in the course of the three minutes.

Just an episode from the life of Mozart but one so very poignant that it makes a splendid bit of dramatic acting for the cast which is being directed by Mrs. Otto Paulus. Miss Genevieve Thayer, John Barr and Ronald Craven take the parts.

Miss Josephine Albert, contralto, needs no introduction, but it is with much anticipation that Salem friends and admirers are looking forward to the program of Saturday night in Waller hall. This will be her first formal appearance after a year's study in the east.

Another interesting feature of the program will be the musical episodes which will precede and follow the play. Those preceding will be given by a trio from the orchestra and which Miss Mary Schultz is directing.

The program includes:
I. Miss Albert.
Amour! Viens! Aider (from Samson and Delilah) ..Saint-Saens
II. Miss Albert.
Dedication Franz Whither Schubert
Death and the Maiden Schubert
Calm as the Night Balm
III. Trio — Directed by Mary Schultz, violin, cello and piano.
Minuet Mozart
Gavotte Mozart

Mozart and the Gray Steward—onset play by Thornton Wilder; directed by Lucille Paulus.
Mozart Ronald Craven
Constance (his wife) Genevieve Thayer
The Gray Steward ..John Barr

Organ Postlude.
IV. Miss Albert.
Where Corals Lie Elgar
I Will Go With My Father
A Ploughing Roger Quilter
The Blackbird's Song ..Cyril Scott
V. Miss Albert.
Go Down Moses ..Arr. by Burling
Deep River Arr. by Burling

O. N. S. Club Meets At Clarke Home

Miss Lois Reed and Miss Grace Geibel were hostesses for the O. N. S. club, Thursday evening at the W. O. Clarke home. Valentine motifs were used in profusion about the guest rooms which were cleverly lighted with red tapers giving a pleasing effect. Valentine games and contests entertained the guests after which each guest received a dainty Valentine.

A pretty appointed lunch was served later in the evening with a tiny lighted candle marking each guest's place.

Guests were Mrs. Sylvia Kraps, Miss Isabel Bartlett, Mrs. Florence Kron, Miss Helen Prang, Mrs. Mildred Samuelson, Miss Dorothy Taylor, Miss Sylvia Paulson, Miss Sally Dorner, Mrs. Ruth Lear, Miss Marie Westhoff, Miss Inez Reifensnyder, Mrs. Bernice Duncan, Mrs. Elsa Thomas and Miss Mable Dotson. An additional guest was Mrs. W. D. Clark.

The club is planning a line party on February 27 at the Elsinore theatre.

Young Couple Takes Vows Saturday

IN a quiet ceremony, charming in its simplicity, Miss Lena Hummel became the bride of Harold Pruitt, Saturday night at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was read in a cottage at the Graber home south of Salem by Rev. Grover C. Birchet. A profusion of spring flowers, mostly daffodils and freesias, were used about the living room and on the fireplace mantle white tapers glowed. The bridal party took its place before the fireplace, and here the vows were pledged.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Victor Jones and Mr. Jones acted as best man for Mr. Pruitt.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Pruitt will make their home at the Kingwood apartments. Mr. Pruitt is a graduate of Salem high school and attended Willamette university. He is connected with the circulation department of The Statesman.

an attractive tea for which Mrs. Jennie Miller was hostess Friday afternoon. A number of matrons prominent in the organization in Salem were invited in to meet Mrs. Ward.
