

CONTEST IN CAKE BAKING PROPOSED

Salem women may get out their mixing bowls and their best recipes to compete in a cake-baking contest which will be announced in The Statesman next Tuesday morning. Valuable prizes will be offered. The contest is sponsored by a group of advertisers headed by General Foods and Formay with cooperation of local stores. The date of the contest is Friday, March 3, and the cakes will be shown at the assembly room on the third floor at Miller's. After judging, the cakes will be sold and the proceeds devoted to charity. Ladies of the American Legion auxiliary will take charge of the cake sale.

The cake contest will be open to all the women of the city and community. The conditions will be announced in advertisements in Tuesday's Statesman.

BUSICK'S

AT THE MARKET
NOT A CHAIN STORE

A little time spent in Browsing around the many and varied displays here at the Market is worth while. There are many, many values, advertising space does not permit listing. While it's true specials are attractive and possibly one may at times save a little by buying specials, the real savings are in the thousand and one items not advertised—and no doubt that is another reason why more and more people are coming to the Market.
