"Bohemian Girl" Will Be Presented

Final casting for all parts in "The Bohemian Girl," to be produced by the philharmonic choir of Willamette university, April 10 and 11, at the Capitol theatre, have been completed, according to Prof. Cameron Marshall, director.

Leading roles include Elizabeth Clements as Arline, daughter of Count Arnhem, portrayed by Maurice Dean Thaddeus as played by Robert Mayne, who in the opera is conspired against by Ralph Barber, in the part of Count Florestin. The queen of the Gypsies, Bernice Richman, endeavors to have Arline arrested by the captain of the guard, Melvin Crow, but is prevented by the timely arrival of Richard Smart, cast as Devilshoof.

Rehearsals are being held daily by a complete cast of over 60 voices and a 16 piece orchestra. Committees are assembling costumes, scenery and properties to make the opera one of the most outstanding productions to be presented in Salem. Unique lighting effects and spectacular color, as in the second act that depicts a Hungarian fair scene, are being worked out in detail to assure a professional touch that an opera of this calibre needs.

Proceeds are to go towards defraying expenses for the philharmonic choir's trip to the Century of Progress exposition, Chicago, this summer as representative of the state of Oregon.

DANCING ON GLASS

ILLUSION:
In India, the fakirs present a spectacle to tourists. Two lovely performers break bottles and lamp chimneys before the eyes of the audience, and throw the jagged pieces into a box already filled with broken glass. They step barefooted into the box and do an Oriental dance in the glass without injury.

EXPLANATION:
The performers toughen their feet in a strong solution of alum water and thoroughly rub them with pulverized resin before they appear. They throw the freshly broken glass around the edges of the platform. The glass on which they actually do dance is very thick, heavy, and filed or ground so that the sharp edges are rounded off. The girls just pretend to dance on the sharp glass.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED

...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

One of the tricks of cigarette advertising is to pretend that "Heat Treatment" is an exclusive process, making one cigarette better than any other.

EXPLANATION: All cigarette manufacturers use heat treatment. It is a routine process of manufacture. The first Camel cigarette ever made was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of Camels produced since has received the necessary heat treatment.

Harsh, raw tobaccos require intensive processing under high temperatures. The more expensive tobaccos, which are naturally mild, call for only a moderate application of heat. Heat treatment never can make cheap, inferior tobacco good.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is the most important statement ever made in a cigarette advertisement. Weigh its words. Consider what it means. Then try Camels. Camels are fresh... in the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack.
