MISSIONARY FROM ARABIA TO SPEAK

Rev. John R. Turnbull First White man to Drive Car into Arabia

Despite the fact that his life was twice threatened by wild Arabian tribes, Rev. John R. Turnbull, first white man to drive an automobile into Arabia, decries the natives there are a hospitable lot.

"The Arab is a strange mixture; he shoots first and then asks questions, so to speak. But once he accepts you, his friendship is permanent," Rev. Turnbull, who spent 10 years in northern Arabia on missionary expeditions, says. Rev. Turnbull spoke here Thursday night to a crowded house at the Christian and Missionary gospel tabernacle, and tonight at 7:45 o'clock he will speak again, showing also slides of scenes taken in Arabia. He also spoke Friday at Parish and Grant schools.

Rev. Turnbull made his first automobile trip over the sands of Arabia the same year Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, and was in London on his first return at the same time "Lindy" landed there on his epochal flight. Rev. Turnbull received the same honor from the Royal Geographical society of London for his expedition into Arabia as Lindbergh did for the solo flight.

Since there are no gasoline stations in the Arabian country, gasoline for the 1000-mile round trip had to be supplied at the start; but it is not the distance that is difficult in such a trip, but the reception which natives may accord, Rev. Turnbull said.

Favorable progress is being made in the gospel work in Arabia, Rev. Turnbull says, with some conversions already among both high and low of northern Arabia. The governor of one section is a firm convert.

Rev. Turnbull hopes to go back to Arabia to pay a visit to the King of Arabia, at the king's own invitation. One of the missionary's prize possessions is a letter from the official equal to a crown prince.

Friday night Rev. C. T. Carlsson of Ecuador spoke at the alliance here where a missionary convention has been in progress since Wednesday.

Nice wooden boxes were being filled all day yesterday, not by legislators, but with the remains of the paraphernalia issued each member by the state. Into these boxes were crammed the 1930 code books, all the session bills and binders and such little trinkets as pens, pencil, stationery, inkwells and paste pots. Under custom the legislative resolution to the members belongs the equipment even to the individual waste-baskets. Only excluded articles are the desks, chairs and spittoons. One member wanted to crate his desk and send it home but changed his mind in short order when an old-timer told him it just wasn't being done.

Governor Meier was back in his office after a slight illness which kept him apartment-confined for two days. With five days left for determining on bills, there was likelihood a number of measures would await final decision this week-end. Much of his time was given to considering the state and national banking situation.

Measles Spread Through County; Epidemic Mild

Measles, which have assumed mildly epidemic proportions in Salem and Silverton, are now being reported in scattered sections of Marion county, Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, announced yesterday. He had new reports of cases at Keizer, Woodburn and further to the north end of the county. Flurries of the disease are normal at this time of year, he said.

Recent press statements concerning a new serum being used to ward off the disease, particularly in young children, have increased public interest in that remedy, according to the health officer.

After the Capitol Battle

The tumult and the shouting were noticeably calmer Friday under the dome. Gone were the anxious groups. Frank Loneragan's football voice was silenced in the house. No more fine phrases whistled through "Pop" Woodward's whiskers in the senate. There were reporters plenty left and janitors without end and here and there one of the stragglers from the ranks of the floor. But the battle was over; a soothing quiet pervaded the air and aside from an increased sale of aspirin and bromo-seltzer at the Randall's counter store, good feeling prevailed. The now historic 37th session was on its way to oblivion or removal.

Glad were the newsboys for a few moments of calm. Happy were the state officials who had stayed night and day to see desired legislation completed. Less anxious were certain members of officialdom, who never were easy while ax-wielders like Burke, Brown and Zimmerman stalked the senate chamber. The hard-times assembly, the ruthless tax cutters had gone home and that was that!

Nice wooden boxes were being filled all day yesterday, not by legislators, but with the remains of the paraphernalia issued each member by the state. Into these boxes were crammed the 1930 code books, all the session bills and binders and such little trinkets as pens, pencil, stationery, inkwells and paste pots. Under custom the legislative resolution to the members belongs the equipment even to the individual waste-baskets. Only excluded articles are the desks, chairs and spittoons. Leading candidate for speaker, '33' is little Earl Hill of Lane county. He is an organization man and knows how to corral votes. George Winslow is a candidate and a good man but he is a bit too independent to draw out himself the necessary 51 votes which insure election. . . Representative Childs of Lane county would like the honor and is working for it. . . so would Frank Loneragan although he is fully as effective on the floor of the house and has already sat in the high seat for one term.

In the senate—Francisovich—what a name!—is the leading candidate for president. Next in line is handsome Senator Chinnock, from the land of the cave men. Francisovich is a three-year man in the senate; Chinnock has just served his first term. The senators like him but some of the men are irate because he voted dry and drank wet, especially since he received more readily than he gave. Senator Corbett, a former president, is in the race but the insiders think that all Corbett wants is enough votes to be able to swing the balance of power and thus to choose the victor. With a Corbett man in the president's chair, the political wiseacres believe the rich Portlander will proceed to become the Gus Moser of the senate, that is to be the man who in future sessions shall say, yea, yea and nay, nay on committee appointments, and senate procedure.

Low Tubercular Average Found, Lincoln School

Of 130 pupils examined at Lincoln school, only three were found to be carrying tuberculosis bacteria. Dr. Vernon A. Douglas, county health officer, reported yesterday after he and Miss Margaret McAlpine, health nurse, "read" tuberculin tests administered to 137 pupils on Monday. The other seven pupils were absent.

This percentage Dr. Douglas attributed primarily to decrease in prevalence of tuberculosis and secondarily to the fact that the younger children have not yet had occasion to come in contact with persons afflicted with the disease, as have high school students, for instance.

Unusual Offer Is Made by Vicks on New Mouth-Wash

The makers of Vicks VapoRub have put out a new antiseptic mouth-wash and gargle. It will do everything that any mouth antiseptic can and should do. . . and at half the usual cost.

The proof is actual use in your own home. To furnish this proof, 5 million bottles in a special trial size were supplied to druggists, below cost—a 25c value for only 10c.

But the demand has been enormous. If your druggist is already out of the trial size, the regular 10-ounce size of Vicks Antiseptic is an even bigger bargain—a 75c value for only 35c. And, after using it a week, if you are not delighted with its quality, and amazing economy, you can return the unused portion and get your money back. Adr.
