

BANKS' SUPPORTERS HERE FROM MEDFORD

Fail to see Governor Meier To beg Appointment of Special Prosecutor

A delegation from the Good Government congress of Jackson county, composed of Mrs. Hienriet B. Martin, president; C. H. Brown, secretary, and Rev. O. R. Kring, was in Salem Saturday to confer with Governor Meier and other state officials. The governor, however, was not to be found, they said, although they had an appointment with him for that morning.

The delegation's mission with the governor was to petition for a special prosecutor to handle cases now pending in Jackson county, particularly those of 16 persons held in connection with the theft of ballots from the courthouse.

The group here declared that the Good Government congress is making steady gains in membership, and emphasizes that it is not "fighting one man's battle," and that it does not tolerate communists within the organization, having expelled some members who were adjudged to be communists.

The reference to "fighting one man's battles" had to do with charges that the Good Government congress was organized by L. A. Banks, publisher of the Medford Daily News, solely to support his personal campaign against county officials.

Incidentally the party displayed copies of the "Medford Daily News" still published by Banks, though he was dispossessed of the newspaper plant. The "Daily News" is now published by its original owners, while Banks and his supporters are carrying on with the "Medford Daily News," but are not able to get it out every day for the present.

BANKS BUSY UNDER LIMITING ORDERS

If front doors had been open Salem banks would have looked about like old times yesterday. Much business was transacted but on the lines of restrictions previously announced. Being Saturday there were more people with pay checks to get an allowance on.

Banks are marking time awaiting word to reopen. National banks and state banks that are members of the federal reserve system have applied to the reserve officials for necessary license to operate. State banks are conferring with the superintendent of banks; and state and national authorities are now trying to decide questions of reopening.

The difficulty is in going through the lists so that banks may reopen almost simultaneously. It is recognized that the very difficulties of the mechanics of going through the lists is going to make this impossible and Pres. Roosevelt Saturday made a personal appeal to depositors to be patient as the reopening would likely be somewhat gradual.

Gold keeps dribbling into banks in Salem. Patriotic citizens many of whom have kept gold more or less casually are bringing in the coin for deposit. They receive currency in exchange for the gold.

'SYNTHETIC' DOLLAR EXPLAINED, GRANGE

Salem grange held its regular meeting Saturday at the hall in the Miller building, reporting a large turnout of members and guests from Ankeny, Stayton, Woodburn and Turner granges. A short memorial service was held for Mrs. W. L. Smith, deceased, a former member. Prof. S. B. Laughlin was given the third and fourth degrees of the order. Routine reports were received.

The special program included an address by Max Gehlhar, director of agriculture, explaining the plan of Prof. Warren of Cornell for a "synthetic" dollar to restore values, and a talk by Henry Peck of route five on the kitchen garden. Mrs. Zero Polaire gave a reading and Mrs. Viola Harrelson sang. Savage Bros. quartet of Keiser sang several selections. Roswell Wright of Ankeny gave some piano monologues.

Price Back From Mid-Western Trip

O. E. Price, shoe merchant, arrived home Saturday morning from a ten-day trip to mid-western cities. It was a hurried merchandise buying trip. Mr. Price struck many of the cities just when their banks were closing and found business men greatly confused over the situation. He was fortunate in taking enough currency to cover his personal expenses, so he was not embarrassed for lack of ready cash while in strange towns.

Wheel Smashed on Police Automobile

The big, tan coupe used by city traffic officers and badly damaged at Church and B streets yesterday afternoon by a machine driven by O. J. Hull, Officer George Edwards and Hull reported at police headquarters. No arrest was made. A rear wheel and fender on the police car were smashed.

State Plumbers Convention to Be Here May 12

The convention of the Oregon Association of Master Plumbers will be held in Salem on May 12 and 13, it was announced yesterday at the chamber of commerce which had been active in getting the meeting for Salem. The association includes members from all parts of the state. This will be the first meeting here since 1927.

The Salem association of master plumbers extended the invitation to the state group. Ed O. Pratt is president, Milo Rasmussen secretary and J. A. Bernhardt treasurer of the local organization.

GARDEN PLOTS FOR NEEDY ARE OFFERED

Owners of some 250 lots in Rosedale addition which lie south and east of the Salem Linen mills have announced they will offer the ground for use for gardens this spring and summer to those who are in need. The addition was opened up about the time the linen mills plant was built and is only partially improved with dwellings. The land is good garden land. It was suggested that some people might club together and take half a block for gardens.

Applicants for the garden tracts should get in touch with the chamber of commerce. Cooperation will also be made with the Red Cross which will supply seed to destitute families for garden purposes.

Difficulties in distribution of the free seeds were largely ironed out yesterday and many packets were being given out to persons bearing orders from the Red Cross office. S. H. Van Trump, county horticultural agent reported.

INCOME TAX CHANGE NOT YET IN EFFECT

Laws passed by the recent legislature amending the existing personal income tax act will not apply to the returns for the year 1932, it was announced at the offices of the state tax commission Saturday.

The most important amendment to the personal income tax law approved by the 1933 legislature provides for increasing the tax rate from five to seven per cent, and reduces materially the exemptions authorized under the present act. Exemptions of single persons were reduced from $1500 to $800, while exemptions for married persons were cut from $2500 to $1500. Exemptions for dependents were reduced from $400 to $300.

The commission also advised that despite the bank holidays the filing period was going on as usual and checks were being accepted by the state subject to payment when the banks reopen. This policy also has been adopted by the federal government in connection with the collection of income taxes under the federal act.

The final date for filing state income tax returns is April 1. Penalties will accrue after that date.

Y Program Draws Sizeable Crowd

In spite of the many activities taking place throughout the city, the Y. M. C. A. lobby program featuring the Willamette university Philharmonic choir, drew its usual good crowd Friday night. The program consisted of ensemble numbers by the choir, vocal solos and selections on piano and violin.

Contents between various snow-removing machines are suggested by French authorities as one method of removing snow from obstructed highways.

1933 Session of Legislature is Economical One

The 1933 legislative session which adjourned Friday, probably was the most economical one held in Oregon for many years. Operating under resolutions adopted during the first few days of the session clerical and other help in the two houses was kept at a minimum.

Officials said the saving in the two houses this year probably would exceed $15,000, when compared with the expenses of the 1931 session.

Title for Bonus Change Completed

Ballot title for the proposed constitutional amendment providing that no bonus shall be made after June 30, 1938, and authorizing the issuance of refunding bonds, was completed by Attorney General VanWinkle yesterday. The proposed amendment was referred by the recent legislature and will go on the ballot at the special election July 21.

KIDDLE AND SNELL NAME COMMITTEES

Appointments on various committees provided by joint resolutions adopted by the recent legislature were announced here Saturday by President Kiddle of the senate and Speaker Snell of the house of representatives.

Under house joint resolution 12, providing for the appointment of a committee to prepare arguments in favor of the repeal of the Oregon bonus law, Snell appointed Representatives Eckley, Johnson and Wells. Kiddle appointed Senators Fisher and Duncan.

Representatives Ryan, Herman, Cooter, McCornack, Scott and Weatherford and Senators Upton and Williamson were appointed members of the committee to prepare arguments on the county manager form of government under senate joint resolution No. 4. Arguments for amendment to the constitution to modify the grand jury system will be prepared by Representatives Lonergan and Paget and Senator Goss. This committee was authorized under senate joint resolution No. 6.
